Ex-Chief Ousted on 'Split' Charges.

St. Paul, Minn., July 17.—(AP)—A confessed kidnaper electrified a federal courtroom today by naming Thomas Brown, a member of the St. Paul police squad who shot and killed Homer Van Meter, Dillinger gang lieutenant, as one of those who shared in the $100,000 ransom paid for the release of the kidnaped William Hamm Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer.

The witness, testifying for the government in the conspiracy trial of John Peifer, night club operator, was Byron Bolton, alleged machine gunner for the Barker-Karpis mob.

Bolton testified that Brown, who was formerly a St. Paul chief of police and a member of the kidnap detail in the Hamm and Edward G. Bremer abductions, received $25,000 for informing the gang of police activities during the brewer's captivity in June, 1933.

Chief Suspends Him.

Almost simultaneously with Bolton's disclosures, Chief Clinton Hackert ordered Brown, now in charge of the auto theft department of St. Paul, suspended "without prejudice" pending outcome of the trial.

Brown's only comment was: "I have nothing to say." It was in August, 1934, while Brown was a member of the kidnap detail, that he and other detectives cornered and shot down Van Meter, notorious outlaw.

Federal officials tonight explained that under the Lindbergh kidnap act no one else can be prosecuted in the Hamm case since the three year period under the statute of limitations expired last June 18, "unless definite evidence is uncovered showing the kidnap conspiracy had extended beyond that date." Hamm was released June 18, 1933.

Indicted in Liquor Plot.

In 1926 the former chief of police was suspended after he was indicted in connection with a nation-wide liquor conspiracy, but reinstated when charges against him were quashed.

Introduction of Brown's name in the trial today followed Bolton's testimony that Peifer got $10,000 for aiding in the kidnaping. Bolton in his testimony admitted he was an occupant of the car that took Hamm to Bensenville, Ill., where he was held in the home of Edmund C. Bartholmey, a former postmaster, who pleaded guilty.

"In the split-up of the ransom money," Bolton said, "$25,000 was taken out for Brown, $10,000 for Peifer, $2,500 for Jack Davenport, and $2,500 for another St. Paul man I don't know, $7,800 each for myself, the two Barkers [Fred and Doc], Charley Fitzgerald, Fred Goetz, and Alvin Karpis, $500 for Bartholmey, $700 for Volney Davis, and $2,500 for Herbert Farmer for attorneys fees." The identity of Davenport and Farmer was not brought out on direct examination.

Tells of Cutting Proceeds.

Describing the "cut" of the ransom money at Long Lake, Ill., near Chicago, Bolton went on:

"Goetz [Fred Goetz, slain] asked Peifer to stay over a few days and Peifer said, 'No, I have this $40,000 and a lot of it does not belong to me and I want to get back to St. Paul with it.' Goetz gave Peifer several large bills in exchange for $100 bills.

"Goetz told Peifer they were foolish to go back to that house [a St. Paul hideout] after they had collected the ransom money. Peifer said he had got word from Brown to take those people out of there; that he had got a call from some people to investigate the occupants of the house where Freddie Barker and Paula Harmon lived."

Find Place Empty.

St. Paul police investigated the "hideout" referred to by Bolton shortly after Hamm was kidnaped, but reported the place had been vacated.

Bolton's testimony followed an announcement earlier in the day from Gus Barfuss, commissioner of public safety, that Brown would be suspended.

"There have been rumors of the association of the police department with St. Paul kidnaping for some time," Barfuss said. "They have been checked with federal officials who were not in a position to divulge information. Brown's name has been mentioned unfavorably in this trial."

SMITH VS. SMITH STIRS A BATTLE IN CONVENTION

Thomas Will Speak

Charlottesville, Va., July 17.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for President, said today he had accepted an invitation to address the Townsend convention at Cleveland. He said he would arrive in Cleveland at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow and speak later in the afternoon.

BULLETIN.

Cleveland, O., July 18 (Saturday).—The Townsend board of directors announced early today that action on Dr. Townsend's demand for the ouster of Vice President Gomer Smith had been postponed. At the time the statement was made Gomer Smith and the Rev. Gerald Smith, his opponent in the controversy, were drinking milk together on the same floor of the hotel where the board meeting was held.

Dr. Townsend, who earlier had walked out of the board meeting in protest of Gomer Smith's presence, when pressed for comment on the board's action, said:

"In view of the stress of other business of the convention no further action will be taken regarding Mr. Gomer Smith remaining upon the board of directors until after the convention."

BY PARKE BROWN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., July 17.—[Special.]—The most serious internal disturbances in the two year none too peaceful history of the rechristened Townsend Recovery Plan, Incorporated, tonight severely tested the dictatorial control of Dr. Francis E. Townsend, father of the $200 old age pension movement.

With a determination to force the ouster of the vice president of his organization, Gomer Smith of Oklahoma, he opened a meeting of the board of directors with a demand for favorable action on the ouster, then left the meeting with an announcement that he would not return unless the board followed his command. He did return shortly before midnight.

Although five of the ten directors who, in addition to himself, constitute the board are classified as Townsend organization "pay rollers" and all ten were appointed by the septuagenarian physician, the evening session went into a deadlock that still prevailed at a late hour.

One Smith Attacks Another.

Gomer Smith's resignation was demanded because of his attack in the Townsendites' convention here yesterday on the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, self-proclaimed heir to the Huey Long share the wealth movement. Gerald Smith is now Dr. Townsend's right hand man. One report coming from behind the closed doors of the meeting was that a trade had been offered—that Gomer Smith would quit if Gerald Smith would follow suit.

As he went into the meeting, the Oklahoman swore that he never would resign, but the compromise was said to have been proposed by his friends on the board. Both he and his clerical namesake sat in the meeting together for several hours after the big leader's withdrawal to his own room on a higher floor of the Hotel Cleveland, the convention headquarters. It was reported that telephones had been called into use, but the first sign that progress might be made was when the two Smiths left the board room together for a private talk, one that it was believed might include Dr. Townsend.

Indorsement Stirs Revolt.

The Oklahoman's fiery speech yesterday was given credit for mobilizing the sentiment of pensionist delegates and leaders against the action of Dr. Townsend in indorsing the presidential candidacy of Representative William Lemke and, in effect, forming a triple alliance with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice and Gerald Smith's "share the wealth" organization.

Showers Fall in City; Cool Winds to Stay

Cooling breezes from Lake Michigan that have blown over Chicago with more or less force for the last three days will probably continue during the week-end, keeping temperatures here in the lower 80s, Forecaster J. R. Lloyd said last night.

He declared also that there was a possibility of thunder storms today and tomorrow. This prediction was borne out in part early this morning when showers fell in many sections of the city and in a number of the suburbs.

84° Day's High in City.

The official maximum temperature in Chicago yesterday was 84 degrees, registered at the weather bureau's station on the University of Chicago campus at 2 p. m. An unofficial reading at 2 this morning was 75. While the temperature in the city is expected to be in the low 80s, the inland suburbs will have readings about 5 degrees higher, Mr. Lloyd said.

In addition to continued coolness for Chicago, the forecaster predicted some relief from the heat for central western states that have baked in the blistering sun for 15 days.

Through the great farm belt yesterday the heat continued unabated. Many crops already have been ruined by the fierce heat and prolonged lack of rainfall, and others are imperiled.

Cool Air Moving In.

But last night, according to Lloyd, a new high pressure area was moving down from the Hudson Bay region and will combine with a mass of cool air from the Mackenzie basin territory in northwestern Canada.

By today this atmospheric effect should result in lower temperatures and scattered thundershowers in the Dakotas, Minnesota, and upper Michigan. Nebraska and Iowa should also enjoy cooler weather today, Lloyd said, with thundershowers tomorrow. Hot, dry weather will continue, however, in most of the southern plains region.

The atmospheric change was felt last night in parts of Illinois, Wisconsin, and Minnesota, where local thundershowers occurred. Milwaukee also had a brief rainfall.

Heat Goes On in West.

The west central and plains states continued to suffer in "100 plus" heat. At Concordia, Mo.; Huron, S. D.; Wichita, Kas., and Sioux City, Ia., the mercury reached 110. Havre, Mont., had 108 and Dodge City, Ia., and Omaha and North Platte, Neb., had 106. At Quincy, Ill., a maximum of 104 was reached.

Losses to crops in several states were estimated by farm authorities as follows: South Dakota, $140,000,000; Missouri, $100,000,000; Illinois, $30,000,000; Indiana, $12,000,000; Ohio, $10,000,000, and Montana, $5,000,000.

Purchase 4,000,000 Acres.

The Federal Resettlement administration made public a report on its long range anti-drouth program, disclosing that 4,000,000 acres are being purchased in the Dakotas, Nebraska, and Wyoming. This farm land will be converted back to pasturage, and, according to the plan, the families will be moved to better land.

Twenty-eight additional counties in South Dakota, South Carolina, Missouri, and Arkansas were included in the emergency drouth area yesterday, bringing the total number of counties to 490 in fifteen states.

PLANE CRASHES AND BURNS IN INDIANA FIELD; TWO KILLED

William Leamon, 41 years old, of Chicago, a consulting engineer for the Toro Mining company, and Mrs. Bessie Musselman of Anaconda, Mont., were killed late last night when Leamon's cabin monoplane crashed and burned in an oat stubble field near Fair Oaks, Ind., 40 miles south of Gary. Both bodies were thrown from the plane as it struck a ditch and caught fire.

Albert Rowen, owner of the farm where the ship fell, said he saw it circling over the field as if about to land. The pilot dropped two flares and soon afterward the plane struck the ground. The gasoline tank exploded and the pilot's body was burned beyond recognition.

Informed of the accident at Moose Lake, Mont., B. M. Musselman said Leamon and Mrs. Musselman, together with Leamon's two sons, had flown to Chicago from Butte, Mont., last Sunday in Leamon's plane. A woman's diary in the plane, apparently that of Mrs. Musselman, indicated they had been in Detroit on Tuesday and Wednesday and were on their way to Chicago.

Raid Gambling Resort; Betters Sent to Another

The Lincoln tavern, luxurious gambling house on Dempster road in Morton Grove, was raided yesterday afternoon by nine members of the state's attorney's police, led by Capt. Daniel Gilbert and Lieut. Thomas Kelly. Eight men, all employés, were arrested.

The raiders picked a dull time of the day for their visit, and found only a hundred patrons in the place, about half of whom were women. All the customers were ordered outside by the police. In the evening patrons who appeared at the resort were told by employés to "go to our place at Kedzie and Lawrence avenues; we'll be open there."

Find Horse Betters Busy.

In the raid Capt. Gilbert sent two of his men into the resort as an advance guard, and then the other policemen followed. They walked into two rear rooms where a loud speaker was blaring forth information for betters on horse races.

Six roulette wheels stood nearby, but only two were in use. There was equipment for dice and card games. Most of the women patrons were playing keno.

The raiders tipped over the roulette wheels as a gesture of rough tactics and seized as evidence croupier's sticks, dice, racing sheets and ten nickel slot machines. The men arrested were taken to the county highway police station at Morton Grove and arraigned on charges of gambling and keeping a gambling house.

Post Bonds for Release.

The alleged keeper is Claude E. Sullivan, 48 years old, 4758 Kenmore avenue. The other prisoners are George Neff, 29 years old, 4404 Drexel boulevard; Sidney Lane, 37, of 5923 Glenwood avenue; Charles Kilnetop, 31, of 5300 Kimbark avenue; Clifford Herman, 26, and John Rodek, 40, both of 4621 Sheridan road; Eddie Powers, 34, of 7720 Ashland avenue, and Tom Fate, 24, of 4634 Kedzie avenue. They were released in bonds.

While Sullivan is listed as the keeper of the resort, the real owner is reputed to be Bill Johnson, known for a dozen years as a gambling leader.

Johnson is said to have opened the Lincoln Tavern, formerly a dine and dance place, as a gambling house last autumn. Until yesterday it had never been molested by the police.

Virginian Hits 'Relief Folly' and Tyranny

Ashland, Va., July 17.—[Special.]—Carter Glass, Virginia's fiery Democratic senator, delivered another broadside against the New Deal today when he brought the name Patrick Henry into present day politics in an extemporaneous address here at the bicentennial celebration of the patriot's death.

"If Patrick Henry were living today he would not cure one evil with a multitude of other evils," said Glass. "I wish he were living today. Could he go along with the vagaries and whims of impractical academicians, some of whom never did a day's work or earned a meal by the sweat of their faces? Henry's whole life was in absolute contravention of that sort of thing.

"If Patrick Henry were living, could he be bamboozled by talk of federal aid to the states? If I had his force of speech, we might have accomplished something in the senate without putting the Supreme court to the trouble of deciding these matters.

"I can say that up to his death he held religiously to the view that the judiciary should be the final arbiters of all disputed questions.

Money from Taxpayers.

"How does the government of the United States get money? Many people have the idea that all it has to do is to start its printing presses. Any money that the government gives out comes of the pockets of the taxpayer.

"Some people have a notion that as soon as a dollar gets into the hands of the government it at once becomes some sort of sacred specie, money to be doled out by some federal minion piecemeal."

The veteran senator said Henry was opposed to tyranny of all kinds, adding, "and I submit that there is no more damaging species of tyranny than that of taxing the many for the benefit of the few.

"The easiest thing in the world to do is to spend somebody else's money, and it must be a very pleasant thing, judging from the number of people who vote for it."

Calls Aid Talk "Folly."

"All this government aid talk is folly," the senator continued. "Virginia is a victim of excessive taxation in comparison with other states. Last year it paid into the United States treasury 139 million dollars in direct taxes. It gets back a mere pittance. It paid more than 15 states west of the Mississippi combined. They get ten times as much as Virginia got."

Asserting "we have a government of privilege and discrimination," Glass declared it was just such a government that Henry denounced in the house of Burgesses when he made a brief speech "that it was improper to take money of taxpayers of Virginia and appropriate it to pay off mortgages that had been made by thriftless and unwise individuals."

"That is just what we are doing

M'CARL VOICES HIGH APPROVAL OF GOV. LANDON

Former Controler Praises Ideals.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., July 17.—[Special.]—He will not become a dictator. He will not be tempted to fantastic experiments.

He will move forward on a safe and sound basis.

He will give the most economical administration in many a moon.

These predictions as to the kind of a President Gov. Alf M. Landon would make were made today by J. R. McCarl, former controler general of the United States, after an hour and a half interview with the Republican nominee.

Plans Tour of Illinois.

Mr. McCarl, who has learned in the course of his work of the loose and wasteful methods of many of the New Deal chiefs, and who has been the great "no" man of the Roosevelt administration, said that it was a matter of serious importance that the people of the United States be given an opportunity to become fully acquainted with Gov. Landon.

That the people of Illinois will have such an opportunity was indicated in a luncheon conference which the governor had today with Wayland Brooks, Republican nominee for governor, and George F. Harding, national committeeman. They had been asked to come here by the governor and discussed with him the Illinois presidential prospects. Gov. Landon is to make at least one speech in Illinois and is expected to make an appearance in various parts of the state.

No date for the tour has been set.

Mr. McCarl's Statement.

"Gov. Landon impresses me most by his firm faith in the soundness, far-sightedness, and deep rooted patriotism of our people, and by his equally firm belief in the wisdom and the practicability of our form of government. As President of the United States he will neither become a dictator nor view the plight of our people from such isolated and lofty eminence as to be tempted toward fantastic experiments rather than sound and practical measures.

"He impresses one as being sanely progressive, intent upon moving constantly forward, but always on a safe and sound basis—evolution, not revolution, and rehabilitation before reform.

"His wide knowledge of conditions and his ability to analyze our problems from a national viewpoint, without even a suggestion of prejudice for or against any section or particular group, is reassuring indeed.

Concerned About Debt.

"He is deeply concerned, as are all who have given the matter consideration, regarding our ever-increasing expenditures and our ever-mounting public debt. There is a marked difference, of course, between expenditures for purposes, public or private, as authorized by law, and the costs of administering our government, our overhead. The purposes and volume of the former are fixed by the congress from time to time, with appropriations accordingly, and as to these a President is supposed to have but persuasive influence; but as to the latter he actually possesses such wide authority as to make this a fertile field for savings.

"The governor possesses such a keen sense of responsibility for a public trust that undoubtedly his full influence will be exerted for curtailment of appropriations to amounts reasonably necessary for legitimate undertakings by the federal government, and for total elimination of appropriations for impracticable or foolish ventures—but with respect to costs of administration or government overhead I venture a prophecy that his will be the most economical administration our country has experienced for many a moon—and in striking contrast with the extravagances now so prevalent.

"It is a matter of serious importance, in my judgment, that our

Two Important Conferences.

Landon's talk with McCarl was one of two important conferences during the day. Over the luncheon table in the executive mansion, the Kansas governor discussed campaign plans with Brooks and Harding.

"We discussed his Illinois tour," said Brooks after luncheon and a long talk with the governor. "It is tentative, but may take the form of rear platform appearances on a train tour. I do not know how many speeches he will make in Illinois."

Chicago and Springfield are indicated as the main points of the Illinois tour.

Brooks, Harding, and Leo Lennon, Chicago attorney, flew into Topeka this morning. They assured Mr. Landon that Illinois would return to the Republican column this year, but the governor wanted to know details and just where the weak spots were and what could be done about it.

Confident of Victory.

"We have come at the governor's invitation," said Brooks. "Since the Cleveland convention the Landon-Knox ticket has caught the imagination of Illinois voters as nothing I have ever seen before. A great many who left the Republican party are now back and a great many Democrats tell us they are going to vote Republican this year. I am in close touch with many downstate communities and have attended many homecoming celebrations and know how the farmers feel.

"At Effingham, for instance, at least twenty men in one line told me that they were Democrats who were going to vote Republican. I think they feel fed up with the lack of definite purpose in the present administration, or failure to tell what that purpose is. They believe Landon and Knox can be trusted."

Mr. Harding said that Illinois could now be taken out of the doubtful class of states politically.

"Even the Democrats admit this," he said. "They think they are going to carry Cook county but not the state. We expect to carry Cook county for the Republicans. You can't get a bet on Democrats carrying the state."

Farm Support Mounts.

Farmers in Nebraska, Iowa, and Illinois are definitly swinging into line for Landon, according to reports brought to the governor's office today from various communities.

It is natural for a candidate to get all the favorable reports and guesses that are abroad in any community, but there is a piling up of evidence on changing farmer sentiment in the middle west that is impressive.

The governor receives it all smilingly, and welcomes it. He is naturally optimistic and believes in his own luck, but in politics he is a man of details, and he believes in hard work. National leaders are not painting any rosy pictures for him and he is not proceeding on any theory but that of a hard campaign.

Nemaha county, Neb., gave strong evidence of support today when twenty-five farmers and their families motored 110 miles in the heat to invite the governor to attend their homecoming celebration on July 24. As this is the day after notification the governor was not expected to accept, but they said they wanted to show the spirit of the county toward Landon. C. C. Howe headed the delegation with Dr. B. F. Lorance, county Republican chairman. They reported the governor would carry the county and the state.

From Shenandoah, Ia., came reports of a farmer poll which gave 70 per cent of the vote to Landon.

Landon Withholds Comment.

The governor had "no comment" as usual on political developments. He "welcome" all Democrats who place loyalty to country above party fealty to this campaign. He said he had received no word from Al Smith.

The governor seemed more interested today in an old football picture than anything else. It was a picture of the 1902 team of Marietta, O., academy, in which young Landon is shown as right half, wearing a nose guard. It was the following year that he injured his shoulder in playing with this team. The picture was sent on by S. C. Gilman of New York and is to be placed in the governor's study at home.

Walter Van Kirk of the national peace conference and Clark Eichelberg of the League of Nations association are to see the governor tomorrow.

A delegation of Texas rice growers stopped to see the governor this morning. They gave him a lot of rice and told him that the Texas vote might be a surprise to the Democrats.

HAMILTON TELLS OF DEMOCRATIC JOB 'BARTERING'

Offers Letter as Evidence of New Deal Practice.

Boston, Mass., July 17.—[Special.]—John D. M. Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, quoted tonight from a letter purporting to have been sent from the office of Democratic Gov. Leslie A. Miller of Wyoming to an applicant for a foreman's job in the CCC last year, in which, Hamilton said, the applicant was asked to tell what services and contributions he had given to the Democratic party.

Addressing a gathering of more than 1,000 Republican party workers here, Hamilton recalled that in a speech at Devil's Lake, N. D., two months ago, James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, had asked this question:

"Has anybody who is listening to this speech ever heard of a man or woman being asked whether he or she is a Democrat or Republican before getting the dole or the emergency jobs?"

Replies to Challenge.

Replying to this challenge, Hamilton produced what he said was a photostatic copy of correspondence from the office of Gov. Miller to the CCC applicant. Hamilton said the application required answers to various questions, one of which was: "Did you contribute to the Democratic campaign fund?" "This question," he continued, was followed by a dollar sign "which obviously asks: 'How much?'"

The text of the letter as read by Hamilton follows:

"Dear Sir:

"Receipt is acknowledged of your letter of March 12, in which you write regarding the application you have placed for a position as nontechnical foreman in a CCC camp that will be established in Wyoming during the summer months.

Blank to Be Filled Out.

"If you have not already done so, I would like to suggest that you will fill out the enclosed application blank, handling the same through the national county Democratic committee, and it will then be given consideration by Mr. Flannery, the state chairman, whenever he is called upon by Senator O'Mahoney or Congressman Greever to furnish recommendations for such appointments. These appointments are all under the jurisdiction of federal officials in Washington, although they have been very desirous of coöperation with our congressional delegation. With all good wishes, I am,

"Sincerely,
"LESLIE A. MILLER,
"GOVERNOR."

Hamilton declared he would not have replied to the challenge if the Wyoming instance were an isolated one. He insisted it represents a practice that has become more widespread in New Deal activities with the approach of the election campaign.

He asserted that "the New Deal is on its way out in this country and on the way out fast."

"The New Deal is no broad highway to progress, but a jumbled pile of outworn lumber across the clear forward path of common sense," he continued. "The mood of the American people is not so frivolous nor their memory so short as Franklin Roosevelt would have us think."

Predicts New Deal's End.

Earlier today, after his arrival here from Providence, R. I., Hamilton told a group of Massachusetts Republican editors that the November election would be either a landslide for Gov. Alf M. Landon or else it would be so close that the outcome would not be known for several days after the balloting.

"I am not fooling with Jim Farley when I say that he would have a hard time today picking six states that will go Democratic," Hamilton said.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Topeka, Kas., July 17.—[Special.]—A Roman Catholic bishop and a Methodist Episcopal bishop appear on the detailed program announced this afternoon for the Landon notification ceremony on next Thursday.

An invocation is to be said by the Most Rev. Francis Johannes, Catholic bishop of the Leavenworth diocese, of which Topeka is a part. The benediction is to be said by Bishop Charles L. Mead, Methodist, of Kansas City, Mo., whose diocese includes Kansas.

10 a. m. to 12 noon—Registration of out of state women at Woman's club, 9th street and Topeka boulevard.

12 noon—Indian dance, state fair grounds.

12:30 p. m.—Notification committee and national committee luncheon at Jayhawk hotel.

12:30 to 3 p. m.—Reception and tea, women's division, Woman's club.

4 p. m.—Parade.

5:30 p. m.—Barbecue for Indians and cowboys, state fair grounds.

6:30 p. m.—Notification committee and national committee buffet supper at Kansan hotel.

8 p. m.—Notification ceremony, statehouse grounds.

Following the invocation John Hamilton, chairman of the Republican national committee, will present Congressman Bertrand E. Snell of New York, who was permanent chairman of the Cleveland convention which nominated Gov. Landon. Congressman Snell will deliver a brief notification speech, to be followed by Gov. Landon's address of acceptance.

There will be fireworks during the dispersal of the crowd that the committee anticipates will exceed 100,000.

THOMAS WEIGHS ROOSEVELT AND LANDON 'FLAWS'

Regards President as 'More Progressive.'

Charlottesville, Va., July 17.—(AP)—Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency, said today that President Roosevelt is "unquestionably . . . more progressive, more alert to the human problems of his time, than Mr. Landon, or the men and forces who made the highly synthetic candidate, and can break him."

However, Thomas added, "what I have said of Mr. Roosevelt certainly cannot be said of such of his associates as Vice President Garner, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, or Postmaster General Farley."

Criticizes Some Phases.

Among the "flaws" Thomas found in the Roosevelt record as a progressive were:

"The President's failure, as the great leader of his party, to put through such vital measures as the pure food and drugs act and the Wagner housing bill.

"The administration's failure to use housing instead of made work to conquer both unemployment and slums," and ". . . The way in which the President and party are dodging the constitutional issue."

Most serious of all, Thomas asserted, "is his silence concerning the flogging, night riding, and terrorism for which his own supporters are responsible in Florida, Arkansas, and elsewhere."

Browder Also Speaks.

Earl Browder, Communist candidate for president, also addressing the institute, called for a united people's front against reaction and designated the "growing movement" for a Farmer-Labor party as "the specific American form" of such a union.

Browder said the "potential elements" of a force strong enough to defeat what he described as "the reactionary threat" are to be found in the trade union movement, the farmers' organizations, progressive Republicans and Democrats, and "the organizations grouped around the Socialists and Communists."

13 CANDIDATES OPPOSE CURBS ON HIGH COURT

Otis Glenn Heads Group Making Pledge.

BY PERCY WOOD.

Thirteen candidates for Illinois seats in congress, including Otis F. Glenn, Republican nominee for United States senator, have pledged themselves if elected to oppose curtailment of the powers of the Supreme court, the Chicago Association of Commerce announced yesterday.

The association asked four questions of the two senatorial nominees, the four candidates for congressman at large, and the twenty aspirants for seats in the house from the ten Cook county districts.

Former Senator Glenn and twelve of the congressional candidates answered. No replies have been received from twelve of the other candidates, including Senator James Hamilton Lewis, Democrat. Congressman A. J. Sabath [Dem., 5th] was the only one to suggest that "when conditions become stabilized" congress should take steps "to restrain the judiciary from encroaching upon the constitutional powers of the other branches."

Lists Four Questions.

Following are the questions asked of the candidates:

1. Do you approve of legislation designed to deprive any federal court of the power to declare acts of congress unconstitutional?

2. Do you approve of legislation designed to deprive the Supreme court of the United States of its power, or to restrict its power to review constitutional questions in causes arising in any of the federal courts?

3. Do you approve of legislation designed to restrict the Supreme court of the United States in its powers to declare invalid laws which are unconstitutional by requiring more than a majority vote or concurrence of the justices of that court?

4. Do you approve of legislation designed to increase the number of justices of the Supreme court of the United States?

These Oppose Restrictions.

The questionnaire was sent to all candidates on July 3. The following answered that they are opposed to any congressional sharpshooting at the federal courts: Former Senator Glenn, Lewis M. Long of Sandwich, Democratic candidate for congressman at large; Rodney H. Brandon of Batavia, and John T. Dempsey, Republican candidates for congressmen at large, and nine candidates from Cook county districts, as follows:

Oscar De Priest [Rep., 1st], P. H. Moynihan [Rep., 2d], Frank M. Fulton [Rep., 3d], Irene A. Thomas [Rep., 4th], Max Price [Rep., 5th], Frederick A. Virkus [Rep., 6th], James C. Moreland [Rep., 7th], Charles J. Wightman [Dem., 10th], and Ralph E. Church [Rep., 10th].

Some Slow to Answer.

Answers have not been received from Senator Lewis, from Edward V. Champion of Peoria, Democratic candidate for congressman at large, nor from the following district candidates: Arthur W. Mitchell [Dem., 1st], Raymond S. McKeough [Dem., 2d], Edward A. Kelly [Dem., 3d], Harry P. Beam [Dem., 4th], Thomas J. O'Brien [Dem., 6th], Leonard W. Schuetz [Dem., 7th], Leo Kocialkowski [Dem., 8th], E. R. Piszatowski [Rep., 8th], James McAndrews [Dem., 9th], and Bertha Baur [Rep., 9th].

CONGRESS NOMINEES OF STATE G. O. P. TO DRAFT PLANS TODAY

Illinois Republican congressional candidates will meet in Peoria at noon today to map their campaign, discuss its financing and find a common ground for proceeding against their Democratic opponents. Wayland Brooks, party nominee for governor, will address the candidates at their luncheon in the Pere Marquette hotel.

The meeting was called by Congressman Everett M. Dirksen of Pekin, who was placed in charge of the Illinois congressional campaign by Congressman Chester C. Bolton of Ohio, who will direct the drive nationally. Dirksen said yesterday that at least 26 of the 27 Illinois candidates will be in Peoria today.

Mayor Edward N. Woodruff of Peoria and Harry Scranton, Peoria county G. O. P. chairman, will welcome the candidates at their luncheon.

Under the present financial setup, money for both the state and national campaigns will be solicited by the newly created Illinois Republican finance committee and it was expected that the congressional candidates would request a definite place in the committee's budget.

Wife in England, Ex-British Officer Gets Divorce Here

Frank Hartley Postlethwaite, who served as a captain in the British army during the world war, was granted a divorce yesterday from his wife, Elizabeth Julia Shallow Postlethwaite, 35 years old, when he told Judge Rudolph Desort in Superior court that she returned to England in April 30, 1930, and remained there. Postlethwaite, who is 40 years old, lives at 100 East Chicago avenue.

GLASS ASSAILS NEW DEAL FOR 'RELIEF FOLLY'

Denounces High Cost to U. S. Taxpayers.

in this country today," Glass continued, "whether it be due to the mismanagement of bank managers, insurance company managers, or the mismanagers of businesses or railroads. The government's nose is in all sorts of business today."

"The President of the United States has been bitterly criticized, but my comment on his actions would be to the effect that he made the mistake of taking all the power that congress was willing to give him," the senator asserted. "It is the congress that should be blamed for abjectly surrendering its own constitutional functions and delegating them to the President of the United States and to various minor executive officials."

"I expect to abide by my oath of office and an oath is as sacred to me as to the President or to anybody else," he said at another point. "And if a measure is against my better judgment and conviction I am going to vote against it every time."

Recalls Tarif Promise.

Turning to the tarif question, Glass declared that when the "Democratic party in convention assembled declared against high tarif and promised to abolish or modify it, it did not mean that we would institute another system that would rob 56,000,000 people out of both pockets at the same time."

"What did Democrats proclaim from every stump throughout the length and breadth of the land?" Glass continued. "We would go to Washington and modify the Smoot-Hawley bill. They haven't written a single line to repeal . . . a single line. We will let industries continue their species of robbery and let other groups institute their species of robbery. When it comes to wage earners, clerks and stenographers, professional men, and a large class of others, 56,000,000 of them, the exaction from them is from both pockets at the same time."

Praises Constitution.

Glass said he was amazed when a "high official of the judiciary department" said at the University of Virginia a few days ago that the constitution was not designed to "curb government enterprise," but to lead the government.

"Patrick Henry was opposed to Virginia ratifying the constitution," he said. "His reasons went toward the proposition that it did not curb government enterprise enough. And because of his efforts the first ten amendments were drafted.

"Without the restraint that it embodies the constitution would be a worthless piece of paper.

"Another thing: Patrick Henry was the first man in America to lay down the doctrin of state rights and local self-government. In his resolutions of 1765 he flatly enunciated this doctrin of local self-government as no man has ever done before or since."

"If Virginia ever should fall to that level of moral destitution and lack of spirit as to desire to be represented in the United States senate by a rubber stamp, its people would make a great mistake to vote for my reelection, because, if reelected, I shall do in the future as I have done hitherto and carefully form my own convictions and vote my own mind without asking anybody else how it would be done.

"This does not mean that I do not respect the opinions of my fellow citizens; but it does mean that, like Edmund Burke, I am the sole custodian of my own mind and my own conscience, always glad to please the people of Virginia, but never willing to violate my constitutional oath in order to do this."

Hull Defends U. S. Reciprocal Trade Pacts as Aids to Farmer

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—A defense of the reciprocity trade program as an aid to regaining foreign markets for the benefit of American agriculture and industry was made tonight by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Secretary Hull's statement was an answer to critics who have called attention to the increasing volume of imports of agricultural products from abroad. The secretary attacked these groups for economic leadership that "bankrupted agriculture."

"In its efforts to gain favor by misleading the farmer," asserted Hull, "this agricultural wrecking crew does not hesitate to bend and twist facts for its own ends. Misleading use of the statistics of agricultural imports for 1935, designed to make the farmer believe that the trade agreements act has operated to his injury, is an example of this misrepresentation.

"They seek to create the impression that the operation of this act has led to a great increase in the imports, in 1935, of competitive agricultural products."

Secretary Hull declared the critics ignored the fact that only four trade agreements were in actual operation during 1935. As a result of the Cuban agreement, he asserted, exports of lard to Cuba trebled in value and sales of other agricultural products increased.

In the other three agreements, those with Haiti, Sweden and Belgium, the United States made virtually no agricultural concessions, while on the other hand a substantial list of concessions was secured for American farm products, according to Hull.

The chief increases in agricultural imports in 1936 have been in noncompetitive products such as rubber, raw silk and carpet wool, Hull said. He added that, excluding sugar, which comes in under a general quota agreement, not over 3 per cent of the agricultural imports could be attributed to trade agreement concessions.

"Given normal weather, even that small percentage would decline," said the secretary. "And should the present year, unfortunately, witness a drouth similar to 1934 and bring additional imports of feedstuffs over existing tarifs, these imports would once again serve to sustain rather than injure American agriculture."

The farmer would not forget, said Mr. Hull, that the small but powerful groups urging "Smoot-Hawleyism tarif policies" on the country had "pushed him into bankruptcy and left him there."

UNIONS SEEK TO COMPEL WPA TO GIVE VACATIONS

Suits Invoke Act Granting U. S. Employes 26 Days.

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Labor unions today began a series of suits in the United States District court here to force granting of 28 day annual vacations and sick leave with pay to all employes of the Works Progress administration, including those taken from relief rolls.

Two suits asked declaratory judgments against Administrator Harry L. Hopkins; William L. Nunn, business manager of the federal theater project here; Mrs. Hallie Flanagan, national director of the project, and Philip Barber, local director of the project.

Filed for Supervisor.

The first suit was filed in behalf of supervisory and administrative employés in the name of Louis Bunin, theater project supervisor, one of the country's best known marionette designers.

The second was filed in behalf of relief workers in the name of Matilda Schnittman, a theater project employé.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs were Abraham J. Isserman of Newark and Mrs. Carol Weiss King, both prominent labor lawyers. Isserman will be admitted to the local bar Tuesday to take over the case.

Confident of Victory.

"Of course the employés should be granted vacations," said Mrs. King. "Once they're taken from the relief rolls and put on jobs they are workers just the same as every one else. We feel confident that there won't be any difficulty in the case.

"The suits are being filed under a federal law allowing all federal employés 26 days annual vacation and sick leave, exclusive of Sundays and holidays.

"They are particularly significant in defining the rights of federal employés in that they are being filed under the law permitting declaratory judgments, enacted only two years ago and rarely invoked. It is a new way of finding labor rights."

STRANGE NIGHT BIRD BECOMES HOUSEHOLD PET

A nightjar, living on a diet of hard boiled eggs and water served from a silver spoon, is the inhabitant of a window sill in the dining room of Miss Alice Jameson's home at 4441 Malden street.

The bird, nocturnal member of the whip-poor-will family and often called a night hawk, was caught by Miss Jameson a week ago. It was sitting on a bush in her garden, owlishly stupefied by the sun, and made no resistance. Now it eats from her hand and docilely hops from window sill to her outstretched arm.

Ordinarily a nightjar subsists wholly on insects, but Miss Jameson's captive rejects them. "I went clear to Hubbard Woods to catch him some sand flies," Miss Jameson reported, "but he wouldn't have them. He simply devours eggs, though."

Although very young, the bird already has a wingspread of 22 inches. Its feathers are a mottled brown, beige on the chest, and its wide wings are speckled with white on the under side. Nightjars, rarely found in captivity, frequent lake and marsh country. They have a wild, taunting shriek.

NAVAL RESERVES FINISH 2 WEEKS' CRUISE ON LAKE

Several hundred members of the Chicago unit of the U. S. Naval Reserve returned here yesterday after the annual two weeks cruise on Lake Michigan. Five cruisers, led by the flagship U. S. S. Wilmette, made the trip under command of Capt. Edward Evers, head of the reserve unit.

The cruisers first went to Washington Island near Green Bay, then to the island of South Manitou off the coast of Michigan. From there the cruise led to Milwaukee and the Great Lakes Naval Training station. A unit of the marine reserve came aboard at the training station and was transported to Muskegon, Mich., where landing party maneuvers were practiced.

The vessels then returned to the training station and came back to Chicago yesterday.

Customer Sees Robbery, Calls Police; Youth Seized

Two youths entered a Thomas McAn shoe store at 1254 Milwaukee avenue last evening, drew pistols and forced the manager, Florian Bromberg, to hand over $3. While the holdup was in progress, a customer came to the door, saw what was happening and called Policeman Stanley Bonczak of the Racine avenue police, who was a half block away. The policeman hurried to the store as the youths ran out. One of them escaped, but the other was captured. At the police station he identified himself as William Gavinski, alias Gavin, 16 years old, of 1824 Huron street. Police said he had a record as a juvenile offender.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ABOARD SCHOONER LIBERTY OFF MAINE COAST, July 17.—President Roosevelt and three sons anchored late this afternoon off Cape Sable, Nova Scotia, after a 30 hour 125 mile passage of the Bay of Fundy. The Sewanna log proudly noted the longest sail cruise since Mr. Roosevelt was a navy secretary.

The Sewanna, using no engines, sailed out of the harbor Thursday morning with the President at the helm most of the day.

The temperature was in the fifties and heavy blankets were needed.

Yesterday at sundown the wind counterlocked the compass and the Sewanna circled lazily last night and was almost becalmed this morning. Today the weather was fair, there was a light breeze, and the sea was like glass. This made for slow progress.

The Nova Scotia coast is a thin haze to the southeast. The President announced that all was well today. He radiogrammed condolences to the family of the late Senator Murphy [Dem., Ia.].

Soon after their arrival at Cape Sable John and James Roosevelt went aboard the schooner Liberty for a visit with newspapermen. They reported that their father took his turn standing a two hour watch last night as did Commodore A. B. Randall of the United States lines, who is the President's guest. Mr. Roosevelt lost no time getting to his fishing and cast off in a small boat with his son, Franklin Jr.

PERJURY BRINGS 90 DAY SENTENCE FOR CIVIL JUROR

Walter E. Erickson, 43 years old, 1224 Elmdale avenue, a real estate broker, was sentenced to serve 90 days in the county jail by Judge Michael Feinberg in Circuit court yesterday for giving perjured testimony when he was being qualified for a civil suit jury. Erickson admitted the perjury Tuesday and Judge Feinberg set aside the $48,000 verdict returned by the jury of which he was a member.

Erickson had stated that he had never had anything to do with personal injury suits. But after he was recognized in court by Attorney J. S. Pressman as a man whom he had seen frequently in lawyers' offices, Erickson admitted he had referred "several" personal injury cases to attorneys.

The suit which was tried sought $100,000 damages for Sam Feldman, 26 years old, 1524 South Ridgeway avenue, from Samuel Kunin, 68 years old, 3250 Sheridan road, a retired commission merchant. Feldman claimed he suffered permanent injuries to his back when Kunin's car, driven by his chauffeur, struck his own automobile on a highway near Chesterton, Ind., on May 13, 1934.

This was the third trial of the suit. Last year two of Feldman's witnesses were sentenced to the county jail for contempt of court by Judge John W. Priehs of Pana. The jury in the second trial disagreed.

PLAN TO RESTORE CASH RELIEF FOR CHICAGO'S NEEDY

Lack of Cash Responsible for Delay.

Cash relief will be restored in Chicago in September, replacing the present disbursement orders given to 83,000 families for food, rent, fuel, and other items, according to plans of city relief officials, it was learned yesterday. Since cash relief was suspended July 1—when the city took over the burden from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission—hundreds of protests have been made by relief clients who declare they can buy more cheaply with cash.

Can't Issue Checks.

The city cannot now issue checks for cash relief because this necessitates having the cash on hand. Allocations of state relief funds are not received until around the 20th of the month, after the state has made its collections of sales tax. However, grocery orders and the like may be distributed since they need not be paid until the end of the month or later.

Plans of city officials call for the creation of a revolving fund in the state treasury to permit payments to the city on the 1st and 15th of each month, rather than waiting for current sales and utility tax revenues. This is about the only change necessary to enable resumption of cash payments, it was said.

Will Parade Today.

A parade of an estimated 10,000 relief clients and payless relief workers—former employés of the IERC—will be held this morning under direction of the Illinois Workers' alliance of Cook county, an organization of unemployed. It will be conducted as a protest against suspension of cash relief and the present state policy of using one-third of sales tax revenues for relief purposes. Starting at Union park at 10 a. m., the parade will move east in Randolph street to Michigan avenue, then south to a vacant lot near 16th street.

SIX MILLION TAX ON SOUP ESTATE HELPS NEW JERSEY RELIEF

Trenton, N. J., July 17.—(AP)—New Jersey, under the nation's eye as the first state to turn unemployment relief back to the local poormasters, came to the aid of the municipalities today with a 6 million dollar windfall.

It was the first state aid since mid-April and left the 448 local administrations with the problem of raising an additional $4,500,000 for the rest of 1936.

State and local officials are agreed that $10,500,000 must be spent for relief in the next six months representing an average of more than $1 a citizen in addition to the state grant.

The 6 million dollars with which New Jersey will aid the cities, buroughs and townships was allotted from an unexpected $15,000,000 plum—the inheritance tax paid by the John T. Dorrance estate after long litigation. The Dorrance interests control a famous soup company.

Whether the municipalities can and are spending enough to care properly for the needy has become a hotly debated, partly political issue.

Relief rolls have taken sharp drops in many communities outside Essex [Newark] county, the most populous in the state.

PUBLIC OFFICIALS PROTEST JARECKI TAX LEVY TRIMS

Protests were voiced by public officials yesterday against approximately $11,000,000 in reductions in the 1934 tax levies of the six major local governments ordered by County Judge Jarecki. They said attempts will be made to void most of the reductions through appeals to the state Supreme court and that the court will be urged to adopt a more liberal attitude in fixing the rate which the governments may add to their levies to offset loss and cost of collections.

Judge Jarecki yesterday signed a temporary order sustaining objections of taxpayers to the $11,000,000 or about 7 per cent of the $155,456,274 in levies. He sustained objections to $3,334,387 of the school board's $53,768,932 levy; $2,519,705 of the city's $51,612,262; $1,988,490 of the sanitary district's $22,074,399; $2,649,000 of the county's $17,455,264; $223,000 of the park district's $6,796,637, and $271,000 of the forest preserve's $3,748,780.

Officials of the local governments said that even if the reductions were sustained by the high court they would create no serious difficulties with respect to the 1934 taxes. Tax experts said, however, that if the reductions are upheld, serious doubts will be raised as to the validity of substantial portions of some of the 1935 and 1936 levies which have not yet gone into collection. They said that some of the local governments, notably the school board, may encounter trouble on these later levies because larger amounts will be subject to attack.

SPAIN GUARDS AGAINST REVOLT; CLAMPS ON STRICT CENSORSHIP

MADRID, July 18.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Strict censorship was being applied early today on telephone calls to and from Madrid.

Officials said heavy precautions against disorder were being taken throughout the country, but that tranquility prevailed. President Manuel Azana left the presidential home last night and took up residence at the national palace.

[The foregoing dispatch, received in London by telephone, was ended by the correspondent at Madrid with the remark, "This is all I am allowed to tell you."]

A Reuter's dispatch from Paris said a message had been received reporting incidents had occurred in the province of Cuenca, southeast of Madrid.

Hear Rumors of Revolt.

GIBRALTAR, July 18.—[Saturday.]—(AP)—Persistent rumors a revolt had broken out in Cartagena, on the southeast coast of Spain, circulated early today at La Linea, Spanish city just north of here. Only official communications were being permitted to Madrid from La Linea and Gibraltar.

PARKS ASK MORE SPEED IN HEARING ON SHORE TRACKS

Charles Center Case, attorney for the park district, objected yesterday to the amount of time consumed by the surface lines in the Lake Shore drive track removal case before the Illinois commerce commission. The commission has been conducting hearings for many weeks on the district's petition asking removal of the tracks prior to construction of the north approach to the outer drive bridge.

"This is a relatively simple matter," Case said. "There is no use having it drag on for weeks as we have been doing."

Attorneys for the surface lines said, however, they still have important points left on which to cross-examine Otto K. Jelinek, trafic engineer for the district. Jelinek contends that if the street cars are allowed to remain on the drive they will cause serious trafic congestion. The hearing will be resumed Monday.

QUAKE DESTROYS COLOMBIA TOWN; FEAR MANY DEAD

TUQUERRES, Colombia, July 17.—(AP)—A disastrous earthquake virtually destroyed this town in the department of Narino today. Thousands were homeless. The casualties, so far, were unknown but it was feared many had perished. Panicky inhabitants crowded the outskirts of the town while the shocks continued. The main shock, lasting two minutes, was felt at noon.

The department of Narino is located in the Andes table lands approximately 100 miles northeast of Quito, Ecuador. Pasto is the capital of the department, which has about 28,000 inhabitants. Tuquerres, a city of about 8,500 persons, lies near a volcano, more than 13,000 feet high.

MAN SUSPECTED OF KILLING RAIL SLEUTH IS SLAIN

West Frankfort, Ill., July 18 [Saturday].—(AP)—Police early today reported that one man suspected of killing a railroad detective at Carbondale yesterday afternoon had been killed near here and two others captured. Names of the slain man and the two captured were not immediately determined.

Clifford Mick and Lee McDill, West Frankfort police, and Deputy Sherif Orllie Dorris made the capture in a wood near here after three men were reported in a car resembling that takn from Dr. and Mrs. O. House.

Both of the other men captured were wounded and removed tonight to a hospital here.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM.

Frank Stomis, 50 years old, 117 South Peoria street, a laborer, was found dead in his room yesterday, apparently the victim of heart disease.

TOWNSENDITES TORN BY FIGHT OF TWO SMITHS

Founder's Control Over Group Periled.

sentiment against party alliances of any sort. Today this sentiment reached the point where Permanent Chairman Frank Arbuckle was enabled to offer a resolution barring convention indorsement of any party or candidate for the presidency and to have it passed overwhelmingly. This was construed by many as a direct slap at the organization's founder and chief.

Sued for an Accounting.

Legal difficulties also came today in the form of a suit by the Rev. Alfred J. Wright of Cleveland, with three Californians, to oust the officers of the organization and to win an accounting of the clubs' funds. Wright is a former regional director.

Indications that the convention's leadership sincerely regretted the activities of the previous two days, particularly the opening of the doors to Father Coughlin and his bitter "betrayer, liar, and double-crosser" attack on President Roosevelt, were borne out at the close of this afternoon's session.

Edward Margett, introduced personally by Dr. Townsend as his "right hand man in California and the greatest trouble-shooter of them all," advocated passage of a resolution at the next convention to require every speaker to submit his manuscript for approval before being allowed on the platform.

Hits Third Party Backing.

Margett also took a fling at the third party proposal.

"If you believe a third party is needed," he shouted, "you need not go outside our own organization for a candidate."

The convention took this as he had intended it, a reference to Dr. Townsend, and cheered heartily, but the aged leader looked on with a stony face.

Convention demonstrations were prohibited today because of the presence in Cleveland of Robert E. Clements, co-founder with Townsend of the organization. He resigned last year, but today appeared in a Cleveland hotel.

"Townsend has fallen into the hands of opportunists," he said. "If this movement falls into unscrupulous hands it will be a menace to the government."

Candidates Shun Invitation.

Hardly a ripple was caused by announcements from the chair that the convention's invitations to the Republican and Democratic presidential nominees had fallen on barren ground. First came the message from Gov. Landon that he would be unable to come here. There was no reaction from the crowd.

But the reading of a telegram from Secretary Stephen Early that President Roosevelt is not in Washington, is not expected until early next month, and that therefore he would be unable to speak here, brought a few boos.

The convention was not told of a telegram to Chairman Arbuckle from William Z. Foster, national chairman of the communist party, asking for its candidate, Earl Browder, the same opportunity offered the nominees of the major parties.

Arbuckle Bars Indorsements.

The formal effort to put the lid on all agitation for the indorsement of Congressman William Lemke of the Union party, President Roosevelt, or anybody else came early in the morning session. Reading from copy in his hand, Chairman Arbuckle announced a ruling that "any motion or resolution having to do with the indorsement of any national party or candidate shall be out of order at any and all times during this convention."

"This ruling," he added, "represents the unanimous opinion of the board of directors."

Most of the day was taken up with a routine program that was reminding ful to some of the Farley dilatory tactics at Philadelphia, where it was necessary to carry out an agreement to keep the Democratic convention going five days, the same length as this program.

Youth and Women Speak.

First came a series of six speakers representing the youth and the womanhood of the Townsend movement. Girl and boy orators were succeeded by mature women. Among them were Miss Aileen Klaiber, Indianapolis, a congressional candidate; Albert Giles, a pompadoured, strong voiced student from Western Reserve university who hailed Dr. Townsend as "the prince of justice," and Dwyte Wilson from Dakota Wesleyan, who charged that "all the present administration has done for you is the enactment of the Lindbergh anti-kidnaping law to protect the children of the rich."

Following the conclusion of the first series of speeches there came another series—talks by the regional directors of the organization, four of them. Dr. Clinton Wunder stirred his hearers with a prediction that the seven states in the eastern division will send seventy-five Townsendites to congress. Then there was not much outside of the routine until Nathan S. Roberts of Florida, director for the southern region, took exception to the utterances of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin here yesterday.

"We do not subscribe," he said, "to branding as a liar, a double-crosser, or betrayer the chief executive of the nation."

93 Degrees in Los Angeles and More Heat Predicted

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—[Special.]—The temperature reached 93 degrees at noon today to mark the hottest day Los Angeles has experienced this year. At the coolest point last night it was 70, the highest minimum of the year. The forecast is for more hot weather.

TOWNSEND DELEGATES SHOW ENTHUSIASM

EX-TOWNSENDITE OFFICIAL SUES TO REMOVE OFFICERS

Also Asks Accounting of Clubs' Million.

Cleveland, O., July 17.—[Special.]—A plea to have Dr. Francis E. Townsend and his board of directors removed from control of the Townsend old age pension movement was made today in a suit filed in Common Pleas court by the Rev. Alfred J. Wright of Cleveland and three other persons.

The suit also asked that the court order an accounting of one million dollars in Townsend clubs' money, which the petition said had been dissipated, and that a receiver be appointed.

Former Townsend Leader.

The petition of the Rev. Mr. Wright, who recently was removed as a regional Townsend leader, named as defendants Dr. Townsend, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, John Kiefer of Chicago, the Rev. Clinton Wunder of New York, Gilmour Young, and Baxter Rankine of Chicago, Frank A. Arbuckle of Los Angeles, and Nathan Roberts of Jacksonville, Fla.

Other plaintiffs, in addition to Rev. Wright, are George C. Highley of Los Angeles, Mrs. Lottie Brown Berry of Glendale, Cal., and Edgar P. Brown of Los Angeles.

In demanding an accounting and restitution of moneys, the petition asserted that large sums were given to individuals for their own personal benefits, and that money was spent lavishly and without proper accounting.

The List of Charges.

Specifically, the petition alleged:

1. The defendants "illegally and in breach of their fiduciary obligations," caused the Revolving Pensions, Ltd. last April to transfer gratuitously from trust funds the sum of $10,000 to Townsend Visual Education, "a private enterprise for profit owned and controled exclusively by the defendant Townsend and Dr. S. E. Taylor."

2. The defendants caused the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., to lend Edward J. Margett "or to permit the retention by him of trust funds in the amount of $25,000, all of which he had used exclusively for his own personal benefit."

3. The defendantscaused the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., to pay $500 per week to Dr. S. E. Taylor "to the end that said funds might be used" exclusively for the promotion and development of his personal enterprises and business ventures.

Charges Campaign Aid.

4. The defendants caused the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., to assign gratuitiously to Gomer Smith $25,000 "to be employed in various personal enterprises and particularly in financing his private political campaign as a candidate for the United States senate" contrary to a vote of the 1935 Townsend convention that trust funds were not to be devoted to financing political campaigns.

5. Townsend caused the Prosperity Publishing company to transfer $2,000 to Townsend Visual Education and that, as a result, profits of $2,000 which would have accrued to the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd. "were illegally diverted into the private enterprise."

6. The defendants caused the Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd. to transfer unknown sums to the Rev. Clinton Wunder "to supply the deficit and counter-balance the losses which he had sustained in a private business venture or tour."

"Large Sums" to Townsend.

7. The Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd. and individual defendants consented to the withdrawal by Townsend of "large sums of money for his own personal use, deliberately and purposely refrained from asking that he render any account therefor, and instructed the auditor and chief clerk dependant Rankine to maintain the strictest confidence and silence with reference to said malfeasance."

8. Townsend solicited contributions from clubs and members to be made directly to him about the time of the United States senatorial investigation "upon the false representation that the trust funds managed, administered and operated by the defendant Old Age Revolving Pensions, Ltd., as trustee, were to be attached by the United States senate on senatorial investigating committee."

YOUNG WOMAN FREED IN THEFT.

Judge Matthew D. Martigan dismissed a charge of receiving stolen property against Miss Rae Trusit, 24 years old, 2150 Washington boulevard, yesterday after the complainant, Max Kaplan of the same address, declined to prosecute.

BINGHAM PICTURES TREND OF NEW DEAL TOWARD DICTATORSHIP

Charlottesville, Va., July 17.—(AP)—Former Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut visualized the federal government tonight as "trying to become a dictatorship, benevolent in intention, but sure to drift into despotism and increasing interference with individual independence."

A few moments later Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior, took the same platform before the institute of public affairs to "challenge any one, on the basis of the actual facts, to prove that there exists in Washington today either an actual or a potential dictatorship."

Both spoke on "representative government versus dictatorship," Bingham from the Republican viewpoint and Ickes from that of the Democratic administration.

"We believe," Bingham said, "that the happiness of our people, the future of our country and the open door to opportunity for our youth depend on maintaining the American system of constitutional government, state rights and local self-government."

Ickes contended, on the contrary, that "life and spirit cannot take on stature and expand in those molds which, however well they may have served in other times, are not sufficient to meet the needs of 1936."

COURT TO GRANT DIVORCE TO WIFE OF PAUL GALLICO

Testimony that Paul Gallico, magazine writer, slapped his wife, Elaine, when she made a "facetious remark" while he was shaving, was given yesterday before Judge Sabath in the Superior court in Mrs. Gallico's divorce suit. Howard Ketting, an employé of the Commonwealth Edison company, who was a corroborating witness for Mrs. Gallico, told the court that the slapping occurred on March 8, 1935, while the Gallicos were staying at the Medinah club.

Mrs. Gallico testified to another act of cruelty the previous day. Judge Sabath instructed her attorney to prepare the divorce decree. She waived alimony, indicating there was a property settlement.

Mrs. Gallico, who is 21 years old, is the daughter of Adela Rogers St. John O'Toole, Hollywood writer. She was married to Gallico in 1934. She is now living at the Seneca hotel.

Gallico, who is in England, did not contest the suit. He was previously married to Alva Taylor, who divorced him several years ago.

YOUNG EVANSTON COUPLE ELOPE TO WAUKEGAN

Everett Vinal Maechtle, 19 years old, 2808 Sheridan road, Evanston, and Miss Jean Lois Potter, 17 years old, 908 Greenwood boulevard, Evanston, eloped to Waukegan yesterday afternoon and were married there by Justice of the Peace Henry F. Wallenwein. Maechtle is the son of Edward W. Maechtle, a retired professor of the Northwestern university medical school, and the bride's father, Glenn E. Potter, is an electrical engineer. Early in the evening Mrs. Potter denied the marriage had taken place, and said neither young Maechtle nor her daughter was of age. Later Mr. and Mrs. Potter formally announced the wedding.

HOUSING PROJECT BARS EXPANSION BY STEEL PLANT

Permit to Build Mill Is Refused.

Part of the $4,000,000 expansion program of the Wisconsin Steel company is being seriously delayed because of the nearness of a $3,250,000 federal housing project on the far south side, it was revealed yesterday. The problem was disclosed at a meeting of the city council's building and zoning committee, of which Ald. Dorsey Crowe [42d] is chairman. It was referred to a subcommittee for study.

The steel company, a subsidiary of the International Harvester company, plans to erect a new mill for rolling steel on its property lying just west of Torrence avenue and just south of 106th street.

Company Refused Permit.

When the company sought a building permit, however, it was informed that the permit could not be given because a clause in the zoning ordinance prohibits the installation of a heavy industry within 2,000 feet of property zoned for residences. City Building Commissioner Richard Schmidt pointed out that the housing project is less than 2,000 feet from the proposed rolling mill site.

The federal project, for which ground has already been broken, is bounded on the north by 105th and 106th streets, on the east by Bensley and Yates avenues, on the west by Oglesby avenue, and on the south by railroad propery. It is the only area zoned for residential purposes in the industrial section lying to the northeast of Lake Calumet.

PWA Asks Rezoning.

Attorney M. D. Carrel, associate director of the housing division of the Public Works administration, appeared before the council committee to ask that the property lying between the housing project and Torrence avenue be rezoned for residences.

This property, although now zoned for industries, is built up only with stores and small homes. These would not be disturbed by rezoning, Carrel pointed out. He explained that the government's only motive in seeking the rezoning is to protect its housing investment from depreciation.

George Kellogg, attorney for the International Harvester company, asked that a solution be reached that would permit the steel company to go ahead with its expansion program. His company does not object to the housing project, he said.

Arthur McQuaid, spokesman for 300 property owners in the area, presented a petition from them asking that the industrial zoning for the property in question be permitted to stand.

TUGWELL ORDERS U. S. FUNDS TO DIG DRY AREA WELLS

Plans Loans to Indians in South Dakota.

Pierre, S. D., July 17.—[Special.]—The emergency situation throughout southern South Dakota, caused by a serious shortage of water, today engaged the attention of R. G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture and head of the drouth relief mission. Tugwell issued orders soon after arriving here that "all red tape must be cut" and funds made immediately available either by the WPA or the Resettlement administration for digging of new wells.

William Bordeau, Indian investigator for Gov. Berry, reported to him and to Tugwell that upward of 20,000 Sioux Indians on the state's six reservations faced sickness and even worse consequences as a result of drinking from contaminated pools made necessary by the drying up of rivers, springs, and wells that long had been used as a source of water supplies.

Haul Water Long Distances.

Community wells are being used over a large area of the state by the white population, and from these water is being hauled distances ranging up to three miles for drinking purposes. Water for live stock is being carried even greater distances and, where practicable, cattle are being driven six or seven miles away to river watering places, of which but few remain.

To make possible the government aid for digging new wells, Mr. Tugwell instructed resettlement officials and reservation superintendents to begin immediately the formation of Indian cooperative associations so that loans might thus be legally made.

He overruled protests by some Indian bureau agents who said that paying taxes and paying back loans were two things that the Indians simply could not comprehend. He was confident such an arrangement could be worked out quickly and explained that the resettlement administration could handle the situation in no other way since direct grants for well construction were out of the question.

Establishes Feed Agency.

Simultaneously Mr. Tugwell announced the establishment at Omaha of a central live stock feed procurement agency where supplies for maintenance of foundation herds will be distributed in the form of loans to farmers unable otherwise to feed their work animals and other live stock. He said a branch office would be established at Minneapolis.

Word was received from Washington, meanwhile, than an initial allotment of $6,500,000 federal funds is available and that $8,500,000 will be on hand later for relief.

Moving deeper into the acute drouth territory of the northwest new scenes of crop destruction and privation confronted the Tugwell drouth party.

A few miles out of Pierre the group came across a small boy in a wagon hauled by a goat. In the wagon was a ten gallon milk can full of water obtained from the well of a more fortunate farmer three miles away.

Tragic Scenes Described.

In the hotel lobby when the drouth relief group came down for breakfast this morning were a delegation of Indian reservation superintendents come to town to describe the tragic scenes they had left behind them on the reservations.

After issuing orders that funds be made available for drilling new wells of which about 800 are said to be needed, the party started out on a trip of investigation through the Indian country to learn at first hand what conditions actually were. South Dakota has an Indian population of about 28,000.

CHICAGOAN SHOT IN ACCIDENT ON TARGET RANGE

Robert W. Beck, 26 years old, son of Charlton T. Beck, executive secretary of the alumni council of the University of Chicago, was reported in a serious condition last night at the general hospital in Mount Pleasant, Mich., with a bullet wound in the left shoulder.

Young Beck, who is employed by the Carter Oil company at Mount Pleasant, was shot accidentally Thursday evening at a target range. Douglas Linder, a friend of Beck, who was shooting with him, stumbled as he was sighting the target. Linder's .22 caliber rifle was discharged as he fell. The bullet struck a piece of metal on the ground, ricocheted, and hit Beck in the shoulder.

Beck's parents, who live at 5805 Dorchester avenue, hurried to Mount Pleasant yesterday after being informed of the accident. Beck was given a blood transfusion and surgeons plan to operate to remove the bullet today if he is sufficiently recovered.

WIFE SHOOTS AT "OTHER WOMAN" BUT MISSES HER

Mrs. Sofia Ferracane, 37 years old, 817 Townsend street, mother of four children, went to 1140 Sunnyside avenue last evening to confront a woman with whom she said her estranged husband has been living. Her husband, August, 39 years old, fled through a rear door as she entered with her eldest son, Victor, 18 years old.

Mrs. Ferracane sat down to talk to the "other woman," who she said is Mrs. Ruth Hougland, 30 years old, a divorcée. When Mrs. Hougland moved as if to pick up a pistol from a table Mrs. Ferracane took a revolver from her handbag and fired one shot at her. Mrs. Hougland fled unharmed and Mrs. Ferracane waited for the arrival of the Town Hall police.

INFECTION CAUSES DEATH.

An infection that developed from a minor foot injury a month ago caused the death of Mrs. Jessie Taylor, 62 years old, 2754 North Spaulding avenue, in the County hospital yesterday.

DROUTH AFFECTS PLANTS MAKING FARM MACHINES

East Moline, Ill., July 17.—[Special.]—Effects of the drouth are being felt vitally by the various implement manufacturing plants located in East Moline.

Cancellation of a large number of orders for combines, spreaders, and other farm implements manufactured in the various factories located in the city have resulted in an appreciable decline in manufacturing activities in these shops and made necessary within the last two weeks of the cutting of more than 1,500 men from the combined pay roll of the local Deere plants.

More than 1,000 workers have been dropped during that period from the roll of the Deere Harvester plant alone. A total of approximately 2,500 men are now employed here, officials report, as compared with a peak employment of betwen 3,500 and 4,000, reached several months ago.

NEVERASKI MAY START 199 YEAR SENTENCE TODAY

William Neveraski, 31 years old, who killed one policeman and crippled another in a gun battle following a robbery six years ago, was sentenced to 199 years in the penitentiary by Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court yesterday in accordance with the verdict which a jury returned on Thursday. A motion for a new trial made by Assistant Public Defender Frank Ferlic was denied.

Officials said Neveraski may be taken to Joliet prison today. The principal witness against Neveraski was Policeman Anthony Wistort, who testified from a wheel chair that Policeman John Guiltanane was fatally wounded and he himself was shot in the spine after they came upon Neveraski and another robber at 2345 West 111th street on July 18, 1930.

The other robber, Harry Yetter, is serving a life term in the penitentiary at Joliet for the crime.

'THEY DON'T KILL WOMEN IN CHAIR,' WIDOW SAYS NOW

Jurors Mum on Verdict, but Families Praise It.

Mrs. Mildred Mary Bolton, 46 years old, who was wont to boast that "They can't convict women in Cook county," sat hunched moodily in her cell at the county jail yesterday, contemplating the fact that she was condemned to death in the electric chair by a Criminal court jury Thursday evening.

The stony hauteur that characterized her during her trial for the murder of her husband, Joseph, an insurance broker, on June 15, was gone. In its place were tears.

"O, I won't talk. I've said too much already," she said to reporters, her only visitors. "I'm just not going to say anything more."

Confident of Dodging Chair.

Matron Marion Kennedy, however, said the pudgy henna haired murderess still is buoyed up by a conviction that "this state don't kill women in the chair." The motion for a new trial will be heard by Judge Robert C. O'Connell next Thursday.

Mrs. Bolton is the first woman to have the death penalty inflicted by a Cook county jury since electrocution replaced hanging as capital punishment in Illinois, and the fourth to be voted the death penalty here since 1840. None of the three other women was executed.

The jurors have made a verbal agreement, Theodore Jarmoska, 5708 South Marshfield avenue, 32 year old mechanic, revealed, to say nothing about the verdict. He told his wife, Patricia, however, that she could tell what she thought about it.

"Oh, no, no!" Mrs. Jarmoska exclaimed.

"Well, would any verdict that your husband had given be correct in your opinion?" she was asked.

Mrs. Jamoska looked supplicatingly at her husband. "Go ahead and tell," he commanded.

Mother Isn't Sorry.

Jarmoska's 64 year old mother, Mrs. Veronica Jarmoska, then broke in. "Well, I don't feel a bit sorry for that woman [Mrs. Bolton]," she declared. "In all my life I never have killed a chicken. I just couldn't do it. I don't think she should have death, however. It would be better for her to stay in jail all her life and think about it."

William G. Watts, 145 West 71st street, juror, was not home, nor would his wife, buxom, jovial and wearing a Mother Hubbard, discuss the verdict, but her mother, Mrs. Anna Smith, 71 years old, spoke up.

"Why, the woman must be half crazy!" she said. "Common sense teaches us some things."

Mrs. John Nowicki, whose juror husband, a laborer, was not home, said she thought her husband had done the right thing. "She [Mrs. Bolton] deserves what she got," she added. "I was sprinkling the lawn when my husband came home. I went up to him and told him I was proud of him."

Foreman's Wife Favors Life.

Mrs. Adelaide Haidle, whose husband, Frank Haidle, 56 years old, a traveling salesman, was foreman of the jury, said last night in their home at 145 West 71st street.

"Personally, I don't believe in capital punishment. Something would have to take its place, of course. I would have given her life imprisonment—and really for life."

"Do you feel sorry for her?" she was asked.

"No, I don't," she said quickly. "I'm not sorry for her."

Mrs. Max Tator of 7616 South Morgan street, said she felt she had no right to "make a decision," but would let her husband speak. "I think we did justice to the state of Illinois and the county of Cook," he said formally. "We agreed in the jury room we wouldn't talk about the case and that's all I'll say."

DOCTOR DRIVES STICKUP BANDIT TO A POLICEMAN

An automobile skidded to a stop last night at Lake Shore drive and Grace street, where Park Policeman Samuel Blake was directing trafic.

"It's a stickup," shouted the driver of the car, Dr. James E. Lebensohn, 20 East Delaware place, an eye specialist.

Policeman Blake, revolver in hand, ran to the side of the automobile. A man in the back seat threw up his hands, saying: "I give up. This is a phony gun."

At the Town Hall police station the holdup man gave his name as Nicholas Rollins, 22 years old, and said he lived at the Y. M. C. A. at Lincoln and Belmont avenues. Dr. Lebensohn told police Rollins held him up near Junior terrace and Clarendon avenue and agreed to ride with him until he made another professional call.

"Too bad this gun is a cap pistol," Rollins told the doctor. "I'd have blown your brains out."

Fifty San Francisco school children of Italian descent passed through Chicago yesterday en route to an education tour of Italy sponsored by the Italian government. The children, all American born, arrived here in three special sleeping cars attached to the Southwest Arrow Limited of the Milwaukee road. Prof. G. Parentini and the Rev. Father S. Musante are in charge of the party, which spent six hours in Chicago before continuing to New York.

DOCTOR KILLED IN CRASH.

Logansport, Ind., July 17.—[Special.]—Dr. George Hoffman, 42, native of Logansport, graduate of Purdue university and of the University of Berne, Switzerland, was killed last night when his car was struck by a machine driven by a drunken driver near the Hoffman home in Pittsburgh, Pa., where Dr. Hoffman operated a large chemical laboratory.

Hopes to Wed When There's Time

Before February

New York, July 17.—It is lack of time that has so far prevented the marriage of Lily Pons, diminutive opera star, and Andre Kostelanetz, orchestra conductor and pianist. But the marriage is going to take place long before Miss Pons' appearance in "Coq d'Or" at the Metropolitan Opera house in February—or else there is not going to be any marriage. That was the gist of Miss Pons' statement here today concerning the status between her and Mr. Kostelanetz.

Miss Pons complained that neither of them had the time to get married.

Meanwhile the couple are booked together on several programs in the immediate future.

WINS 2D DIVORCE FROM PHYSICIAN LIVING IN VIENNA

Mrs. Esther Chapman, 1513 Madison park, was granted her second divorce from Dr. Meyer J. Chapman, a physician now living in Vienna, Austria, by Judge Philip J. Finnegan in the Circuit court yesterday.

Mrs. Chapman testified that she first married her husband in 1919 and divorced him in 1928 on the ground of cruelty. They were remarried in July, 1933, she testified. On June 3, 1935, she said, she left him again after he struck her and tried to break her arm.

Judge Finnegan awarded Mrs. Chapman $15 a week for the support of her daughter, Maxine, 14 years old, after her attorney, Norman Becker, announced she had accepted $550 in lieu of alimony.

Drowning Brings Warning to Bathers in Waukegan

Mayor Mancel Talcott of Waukegan announced yesterday that any person swimming in unpatroled areas along the lake front in that town will be arrested. The mayor's action was the result of the drowning of Alexander Ford, 13 years old, of North Chicago, last Tuesday.

WARANT CHARGES MRS. FREED WITH SLAYING BLONDE

A warant charging Mrs. Carmelia Freed with the murder of Audrye Vallette, blonde party girl, on July 2, was obtained by police yesterday before Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court. Mrs. Freed, wife of Edward Freed, operator of a North Clark street tavern, has been missing since Miss Vallette was shot to death in her apartment at 1211 North La Salle street.

Mrs. Freed has been identified as the woman who hurried from the party girl's apartment shortly after the shooting. She is being sought in the east. Freed, who has admitted being intimate with Miss Vallette, was questioned several days after the slaying. When he was released he promised to help police find his wife.

Mundelein and Diamond Lake Open Homecoming

The fourth annual joint homecoming celebration of the villages of Mundelein and Diamond Lake began yesterday and will last through tomorrow. A parade, with 750 persons participating, was held yesterday from Mundelein to Libertyville and back to Diamond Lake. Today will be Democratic day at the celebration and Dr. Robert Bosworth, chairman of the Lake county Democratic central committee, will be in charge. Republican day will be held tomorrow and Charles W. Hadley of Wheaton, G. O. P. candidate for state attorney general will be principal speaker.

HOLD BELL BOY IN MYSTERIOUS SLAYING OF CO-ED

Colored Man Questioned by Asheville Sherif.

BULLETIN.

Asheville, N. C., July 17.—(AP)—Joe Urey, a 27 year old colored bellhop, was taken into custody tonight for questioning while police sought a solution to the baffling murder of Helen Clevenger, pretty 18 year old New York university honor student.

Asheville, N. C., July 17.—(AP)—Sheriff Lawrence E. Brown said today investigation into the hotel slaying of Helen Clevenger, 18 year old New York co-ed, was "just beginning" after a coroner's jury found she died "at the hands of a person or persons unknown."

Tell of Hearing Screams.

The sherif promised a vigorous investigation after he heard descriptions of a hatless man who fled from the fashionable hotel early yesterday at about the time Miss Clevenger was shot and stabbed in her room. An intensified search was pressed for this mysterious stranger.

Guests at the hotel also told of hearing screams and groans early yesterday above the roar of a thunderstorm.

Sherif Brown said evidence indicated Miss Clevenger went to her room about 10:30 p. m., Wednesday, undressed, donned pajamas, penned a postcard home, wrote in her diary and then was accosted by the intruder. Physicians established rape had been attempted.

At 8:30 a. m. the next day her uncle, Prof. W. L. Clevenger of North Carolina State college, went to arouse her only to find her dead on the floor, her legs crumpled beneath her body as though, police said, she was begging for mercy when the killer struck.

Describes Man at Door.

E. B. Pittman, 32 years old, employé of the state banking department, told at the inquest of hearing screams at about the time Miss Clevenger was believed slain. He said he rushed from his room and saw a man's figure within the threshold of what he learned later was Miss Clevenger's partly opened door. Pittman said he asked the man, thinking he was another curious guest, "Did you hear those screams?"

Pittman quoted the person as answering, "Yes, that's what I was wondering about."

Dionne to Operate Hot-Dog Stand Near Quints' Nursery

TORONTO, Ont., July 17.—(AP)—D. A. Croll, Ontario minister of public welfare and one of the Dionne quintuplets' guardians, announced today that Oliva Dionne, father of the famous children, had approached the government for permission to operate a refreshment booth opposite the quints' nursery. "He is going to operate a stand and we are going to see that he has the necessary electrical energy for refrigeration," said Croll.

Ex-Actress Loses $145,000 Suit Against F. H. Prince

New York, July 17.—(AP)—Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey today ruled against Florence Walton in a suit in which the former Broadway actress sought to collect $145,575 from Frederick H. Prince, 77 year old financier.

HALTS POLICE WITH GUN; THEN KILLS HIMSELF

Richard C. Williams, 27 years old, 3453 Walnut street, held back his father and two policemen at pistol point last evening, and then shot himself to death. The policemen, William Hart and Eugene Bussiere of the Austin station, had gone to Williams' home to ask him the whereabouts of several of his associates wanted for questioning in robbery cases.

Satisfied with Williams' replies, the policemen departed. They had just left the house when Williams' father, Charles, 47 years old, came running after them, declaring his son had threatened him with a butcher knife. When the three men reentered the house they found Williams had broken open his father's strong box, where the elder Williams kept his pistol. The young man warned the policemen not to approach him, then stepped into an adjoining room and fired a bullet into his temple.

Charles Williams said his son formerly worked as a driver for a cleaning concern, but had been out of a job for two weeks. Recently, the father said, he rebuked Richard for excessive drinking, and when his son threatened at that time to kill himself he locked up the pistol.

FILM CONVINCES JUDGE BOY HAS A HAPPY HOME

Motion pictures showing the happy home life of Henry Carl Szesny Jr., 11 years old, caused Judge Rudolph F. Desort in the Superior court yesterday to deny the petition of the boy's father for his custody. The petition was opposed by the boy's mother, Mrs. Nellie Myra Szesny Galub, daughter of Col. Fount Cole of Clinton, Ky., a planter and horse owner.

The Szesnys were divorced in 1928 and each has since remarried. Szesny, an oil salesman, lives at 7837 South Wabash avenue with his second wife and their three children. Henry Jr. lives with his mother and her second husband, Nate Galub, a moving picture machine operator, at 1356 South Turner avenue.

Szesny charged yesterday that Henry Jr. was being neglected, but Galub said he had taken some motion pictures of his stepson that would refute the charge. The principals retired to Judge Desort's chambers where Henry Jr. operated a small movie projector showing his receipt of gifts on his 11th birthday last Saturday. Returning to the bench after viewing the pictures, Judge Desort denied Szesny's custody petition.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

STREAMLINING

by CALEB

THESE are days of modern shapes and designs—characterized by streamlining. We have streamlined hats for women, streamlined cocktail shakers, streamlined trains, streamlined egg cups, streamlined boudoir tables, streamlined velocipedes, houses, flashlights, ice boxes, and cars.

Some of it is honest and sincere streamlining with a purpose. Some of it is nothing but design for appearance. The streamlining of automobiles, for instance, is for the most part something simply to talk about in advertising. Some aerodynamics engineers discount the claims of most car-makers that their streamlining is efficient.

The greatest drag on a car at any speed is from its rough and irregular underside which creates great air friction. We have seen and ridden in only one car with a smooth "stomach"—and that was the experimental car, parent to the present Scarab of Engineer William Stout. It proves the validity of real streamlining.

Streamlined trains smooth their undersides, because it has to be done in a real streamlining job. Airplanes, too, have bona-fide streamlining.

Sometimes it is quite apparent that many of us, as individuals, might profit by streamlining ourselves. Not physically, to reduce our wind resistance, but figuratively, to reduce the resistance we offer to leading more satisfactory lives.

Some people are in almost constant collision with, or resistance to, life—in their daily contacts. They offer resistance to the weather, to traffic delays, to all other automobile drivers, to the people who involuntarily brush against them on the streets, to the barbers who cut their hair, the waiters who serve them food, the conductors who collect their fares, the doctors who treat them, and the families in which they live.

Other people, who are streamlined, seem always to be reasonably well adjusted to meet the flow of life around them. They meet upsets, delays, accidents, emergencies—and even unstreamlined people—tranquilly and pleasantly.

Here again, streamlining to be proficient and worth while must be sincere. It must be more than appearance or indifference.

There is a great wear and tear on unstreamlined people. They become nervous, live under tension, awaken in the morning ready for a fight, and go to sleep at night all curdled from battle. The streamlined type has better digestion, softer arteries, lower blood pressure, and more friends.

In this business, we are conscientiously trying to be streamlined—from the top down—in all our contacts.

Seized After The Tribune Receives Complaints.

Archie Gibson, 33 years old, a mechanic of Downers Grove, was found guilty yesterday of making indecent proposals and using obscene language to women whose telephone numbers he obtained from want ads published in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Judge Joseph B. Hermes of the Municipal court, who heard the case, imposed the maximum penalty, a $200 fine, but this was held in abeyance pending the outcome of a sanity hearing for Gibson in the County court.

The sanity hearing was requested by Dr. David B. Rotman, Municipal court psychiatrist, who examined Gibson at the order of Judge Hermes. Dr. Rotman sent the prisoner to the Psychopathic hospital for safe keeping until the hearing. His bond was fixed at $1,000.

Arrested by Policewoman.

Gibson was arrested Wednesday by Policewoman Frances Gregor of the crime prevention bureau, who, with Detectives Leo Hemrick and John J. Stack of the Chicago avenue station, was cooperating with the classified advertising department of THE TRIBUNE. After his arrest Gibson confessed to Assistant State's Attorney Richard Devine that he was the man about whom complaints had been received. The complaints were that girls and women advertising for employment received improper proposals from a moron over the telephone.

THE TRIBUNE was notified last Monday by two women advertisers that a moron had bothered them. Capt. John Prendergast, assistant to Police Commissioner Allman, assigned Policewoman Gregor to get the man.

A decoy ad was placed in the paper Tuesday and Wednesday by Policewoman Gregor. The first morning she received fifteen telephone calls in response to her ad, but the man she was hunting did not call.

Caller Arranges to Meet Her.

On Wednesday morning she received a dozen more calls and finally the one she was waiting for. The caller used the same language about which complaint had been made. With the assistance of policemen, the call was traced to a drug store at 1001 Belmont avenue. The caller described himself and asked the policewoman to meet him at a north side hotel.

"I located Gibson at the hotel and recognized his voice beyond a doubt," Policewoman Gregor told Judge Hermes yesterday. "Detectives Hemrick and Stack and I took him to the drug store from which the call came. The druggist readily identified Gibson as a man who had used the booth telephone there at the time I was called."

Gibson was taken to the Institute of Juvenile Research, where lie detector tests were given to him by Dr. Verne Lyon and Dr. William McKee. To the doctors he admitted making the call to Policewoman Gregor and two other calls to women whose telephone numbers he had obtained from advertisments.

Asked About Hostess Slaying.

On a chance that he might have been the killer of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, night club hostess who was slain in the Devonshire hotel on June 29, Gibson was asked about that crime, and his reactions were such that Assistant State's Attorney Devine took charge of the examination.

To Prosecutor Devine, Gibson made a complete confession, which he signed, concerning his telephone calls. He was eliminated as a suspect of the hotel murder.

NEW A. F. L. RULE SEEN AS THRUST AT REBEL UNIONS

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Another controversy between the executive council of the American Federation of Labor and twelve unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization loomed today when President William Green of the A. F. of L. stated that the council had adopted a rule which gave it the right to suspend refractory national and international unions, a power not specifically accorded in the federation's constitution.

Mr. Green's announcement of the ruling came as a surprise to members of the C. I. O. unions, some of whom today received letters advising them to appear for trial on Aug. 3 in accordance with the charges filed by John P. Frey, president of the metal trades department of the A. F. of L.

Neither John L. Lewis, chairman of the C. I. O., nor any of the other members who could be reached would comment on the new development but they did not conceal their "surprise." An official reply will probably be made to the communication Tuesday.

THE MASSACRE

Chicago's 1936 Trafic Toll

Over 93 per cent of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

GIRL IS KILLED WHEN SHE RUNS IN PATH OF AUTO

Layla Avdich, 6 years old, was killed last night when she ran into the path of an automobile which was passing her home at 2231 Southport avenue. She was the fifth child victim of motor vehicles on Chicago streets in three days.

Layla's mother, Mrs. Olga Avdich, had just set the girl's hair in curls and was sitting on the front porch when she saw Layla run into the street. Irving Boegner, 27 years old, 1711 North Wells street, driving by, heard the mother scream but saw the child too late to stop, he said. Layla died while being taken to Alexian Brothers hospital.

Vincent Simenic, 19 years old, 2618 West 15th place, was fatally injured early yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding collided with a cab at South boulevard and Asbury avenue in Evanston. It was the third fatal accident in Evanston this year and the first one in 18 months which involved two machines.

Joseph Sittaro, 24 years old, 2122 South Fairfield avenue, drove the car in which Simenic was riding, and David W. Rector, 35 years old, 610 Linden avenue, Evanston, was the cab driver. Sittaro admitted to the Evanston police that he was driving 40 miles an hour and he was held.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 524 persons had been killed in automobile accidents in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 407 were killed in Chicago. During the same period, 9,359 were injured in Chicago trafic accidents.

Camden, N. J., July 17.—(AP)—Bitter feeling between strikers and workmen at the RCA Manufacturing company plant pitched Camden into street rioting which overwhelmed police for an hour late today.

About a dozen persons were injured, including three policemen. Nine were arrested. Buses carrying workers were stoned and milling thousands were spread over an area of five square blocks. Police were equipped with tear gas bombs but did not use them.

Tension was heightened as Supreme Court Justice Frank T. Lloyd earlier in the day held court as a committing magistrate and demanded an aggregate of $523,000 bail for the release of 101 persons seized in an outbreak yesterday.

Justice Lloyd released 22. He held eight in bail as high as $10,000 each for the grand jury, and made a blanket order for $55,000 bail each for 93 others whose cases he will hear next Tuesday.

Hundreds of workers were virtual prisoners in the plant during the fighting today. Police Chief Arthur Colsey announced an hour after the usual closing time that all had left by seldom used exits while the crowds were gathered at other gates.

AUTO DEATHS IN 86 CITIES RISE TO 163 IN ONE WEEK

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—The commerce department reported today that automobile fatalities in eighty-six principal cities totaled 163 for the week ended July 11, compared with 146 the previous week and 150 for the same week a year ago.

For the first twenty-eight weeks of this year the total was 4,039, compared with 4,440 for the corresponding 1935 period.

With eighteen deaths New York led all other cities in fatalities for the week ended July 11.

Owner to Work Out Fine in County Jail.

Edward Eichstead, 23 years old, a steel worker living at 6915 Dante avenue, will serve 105 days in the county jail for permitting a drunken man to drive his car, it developed yesterday in the Safety court of Judge Edward S. Scheffler. It was the first time in the court's safety campaign which opened on May 4 that the owner of a a car has been held responsible for the improper operation of his machine by another driver.

Eichstead and William Manescalkey, 31 years old, 6112 Kimbark avenue, were arrested Friday after the car, which Manescalkey was driving, went past a stop light at Garfield boulevard and Damen avenue, and struck a light pole. Each of the men accused the other of being drunk.

Must Work Out Fine.

When Judge Scheffler heard the story he sentenced Manescalkey to 30 days in jail for drunk driving. Then he turned to Eichstead. "You are as guilty as the driver," the court said. "You provided him with a weapon which might have killed people. I'm sorry I can't send you to jail."

Judge Scheffler then fined Eichstead $200 and $8.50 costs. It developed, however, that Eichstead cannot pay the fine so he will have to serve it out in jail at the rate of $2 a day.

Two other men sentenced yesterday by Judge Scheffler are:

George Brooks, 28 years old, 664 Melrose street, a cab driver. Ten days in the county jail for reckless driving.

Speeder Fined $6.

Judge Frank M. Padden in the Automobile court imposed a fine of $6 on Graham Aldis, 40 years old, 135 Deerpath road, Lake Forest, real estate man, for driving 42 miles an hour in Peterson avenue between the 3200 and 4300 blocks.

A charge of reckless driving against Charles N. Steele, 43 years old, 1031 Sheridan road, Waukegan, president of the First National bank of Waukegan, was continued to July 28 by Judge Charles S. Dougherty in the Jury court. Steele was arrested Thursday after his car collided with one driven by Mrs. Bertha Pierce, 4032 Woodland avenue, Western Springs, in front of 5857 Sheridan road.

Mrs. Pierce said a statement printed yesterday that Steele had taken her to the Passavant hospital after the accident, was incorrect. She said she was taken to the hospital in her brother's car.

William F. Heibel, 40 years old, was held to the Du Page county grand jury yesterday on a charge of drunken driving by Magistrate Frank E. Herrick of Wheaton. Heibel, who lives at 221 North Scott street, Wheaton, was locked up in the Du Page county jail when he was unable to post $500 bond.

MORON HUNTED AFTER ATTACKS ON LITTLE GIRLS

The Brighton Park police started searching last night for a middle aged moron who enticed two girls, 8 and 7 years old, into a vacant lot at 35th street and Washtenaw avenue during the afternoon and raped them. The terrified children ran to their homes after the attacks and their fathers took them to the police station. A physician, Dr. Carl H. Schnaer, 4153 Archer avenue, said the girls had been raped. The girls told police the man spoke to them as they were playing in the yard of the Burroughs school, 3542 South Washtenaw avenue, and gave them a nickel for candy. They spent the nickel at a nearby store and returned to the school yard. Then the man induced them to go with him into the vacant lot. The degenerate was described as being 5 feet 6 inches tall and weighing about 160 pounds. He was wearing a straw hat, a dirty white shirt and black trousers.

M'NAIR TOURS CITY WITH 5TH DIRECTOR OF PUBLIC SAFETY

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 17.—(AP)—Mayor William N. McNair toured the police courts today, substituting for a police magistrate named "director of public safety No. 5."

The magistrate is slated to succeed Safety Director Thomas A. Dunn, at "war" with McNair, as director of the police and fire departments. Dunn refused to be "fired."

Dunn is holding firmly to his office room on the second floor of the city hall. Three floors above, a steady stream of directors for a day had been moving through another office where a temporary sign "director of public safety" is lettered on the glass.

STREET PARADE PORTRAYS STORY OF RAILS TODAY

Ends Celebration by Western Lines.

BY MARCIA WINN.

A pictorial history of the "iron horse," from the earliest puffing steam engine to the shining modern streamliner, will parade down Michigan avenue today as a spectacular conclusion for Chicago's celebration of the second annual Railroad week.

Starting at 3 p. m. the parade, sponsored by the western railways, will move south in Michigan avenue from Wacker drive to Eighth street, where the reviewing stand will be.

A police escort will head the parade, followed by the plancing lancers of the 122d field artillery. Twenty-five musical units, 14 of them from American Legion posts, will be interspersed among the 20,000 railroad marchers, dressed as Casey Joneses, Indians, and other figures representing the various lines.

Streamline Models on Parade.

Most colorful of all, however, will be the railroad floats, many of them bearing representations of famous locomotives of the past or present. Miniatures of most of the new streamliners operating on the western railways will be on parade.

Some 10,000 Chicagoans yesterday got a startling picture of railway men in action—on a street car track—when the handcar crew of the Chicago & North Western railway scooted an ancient handcar over half a mile of street car track in 1 minute and 50 seconds to win the second annual handcar derby.

The Derby was held on the surface lines rails in Franklin street from Madison street to the Merchandise Mart. The Milwaukee road crew came in second with a time of 1 minute 55 seconds for the half mile course. The Soo line, with 2:05, was third.

Trafic Club Has Luncheon.

The handcar derby, and a redcap race which followed it, both were features of Railroad week, as was a noon luncheon of the Trafic club of Chicago in the Palmer house.

Addressing the luncheon, L. W. Wallace, director of equipment research for the Association of American Railroads, declared that the most important procedure adopted by railroads during the last 20 years is air conditioning.

Today, after an expenditure of 50 million dollars, American and Canadian railways have a total of 6,736 air conditioned cars, he said, as compared to 50 in 1932.

COURT COMPELS ASYLUM TO TAKE 8 NEW PATIENTS

Acts After Delay Is Told by County Officials.

Eight mentally ill prisoners in the county jail were hurried to the state school and colony for the feeble minded at Lincoln, Ill., yesterday after A. L. Bowen, state director of public welfare, and Sherif John Toman had been threatened with contempt of court proceedings if there were further delay.

Some of the prisoners had awaited transfer for several weeks. The reason for this, Chief Deputy Sherif Joseph Lelivelt declared, was that state institutions have been refusing to accept mental charges from Cook county because of overcrowded conditions. Lelivelt estimated that nearly 1,000 mental deficients who have been committed to state institutions are at large in Cook county, paroled to relatives until the state can make room for them.

The contempt of court citations were threatened by Judge Joseph B. David in Superior court after he had called Lelivelt to explain the long delaying transferring Michael Sylvester, 17 years old, 2610 North Laramie avenue, to the Lincoln colony.

Spends 6 Weeks in Jail.

Relatives who sought a writ of habeas corpus for Sylvester's release pointed out that commitment papers for him were signed on June 2, and that he had been held in jail since that time. Sylvester originally had been charged with disorderly conduct on the accusation of a girl that he had molested her.

"We took Sylvester to Lincoln," Lelivelt told Judge David, "but we couldn't get him in. It was too crowded. In fact, we have seven others like him in jail now."

"You take those eight patients to Lincoln," Judge David told Lelivelt, "or I'll throw Sherif Toman in his own jail. If the officials refuse the patients, dump them on the doorstep."

The judge then tried to reach Gov. Horner and Bowen by telephone in Springfield, but was told by their secretaries that they were out of the city. The governor is on a vacation in Wisconsin. The judge warned the two secretaries to pave the way for the acceptance of the patients at Lincoln or he would cite Bowen for contempt of court.

"Disgrace to State."

"It's a disgrace to the state," Judge David said, "that it prides itself on the money it spends for roads, and the land it buys for parks, and yet can't provide for its mental patients."

Deputy sherifs arriving at the Lincoln colony with the eight prisoners had them accepted without difficulty. Dr. Raymond E. Holden, acting managing officer of the institution, said recent vacancies there had been created by the paroling of seventy-five inmates. He denied that he had ever refused to accept Cook county charges, but had asked judges to make commitments by appointment.

1,850 Ton Blast Bares Coal in Ural Mountains

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP)—Soviet engineers fired a blast of 1,850 tons of high explosive today to expose rich deposits of coal in the Ural mountains for surface mining. The blast was set off near Cheliabinsk, whose inhabitants retired three miles to escape injury.

RUNS AUTO OVER ROBBER; SAVES $1,000 FROM GANG

Walter Schreiber, owner of a bakery at 3702 North Kedzie avenue, put to rout four gunmen who sought to rob him of $1,000 yesterday.

Schreiber was returning to his bakery from a west side bank when the robbers, wearing handkerchief masks, stopped his car in front of 3091 Elbridge avenue. As the robbers were alighting from their automobile Schreiber put his car in gear and rammed the rear of their machine. Backing quickly, Schreiber again shot his car forward, running down one of the robbers. Then he drove onto the lawn, jammed on the brakes as the robbers fired four shots at him, and dashed, unhurt, into the house, from which he telephoned the Shakespeare avenue police.

The baker told the police that he watched through a window as the chagrined robbers picked up their injured companion, placed him in their car, and sped away. Four bullets were found imbedded in Schreiber's car.

GROUP COMPELS OHIO PAPER'S MANAGER TO CLOSE UP HIS PLANT

Wooster, O., July 17.—(AP)—A group of men forced Glenn Oyster, manager of the Press, a weekly paper at nearby Rittman, to close his establishment today.

Oyster said he acceded to their demand to lock his doors.

The Press, published an editorial yesterday sympathetic to employes of the Ohio Boxboard company, who wish to return to their jobs despite a strike of union workers.

Oyster said several of the men remained on picket duty in front of the newspaper office after he departed.

COOK COUNTY TAX COLLECTIONS.

The Cook county treasurer's office announced the other day that 65 per cent of the 1934 taxes has now been paid. That is, 122 million dollars has been collected against 187 million dollars billed. The collections are said to have been better than in any year since the start of the depression.

Any improvement in tax payments is to be welcomed, but surely there is nothing in the record to justify much rejoicing. Cook county is slowly getting back to schedule for the payment of taxes, but we are still half a year behind. In normal course the 1934 taxes would have gone into collection in the spring of 1935, and the 1935 taxes in the spring of this year. In fact, the bills for 1935 taxes are not yet prepared for mailing.

The rate of collection, even though it represents some improvement, is even more disturbing. All or almost all of the 187 million dollars was spent in 1934. Only two-thirds of the amount has come into the treasury. More or less similar results for previous years, running as far back as 1930, have created an accumulated deficit which can be concealed in one fashion or another for a time, but sooner or later must lead to a fiscal breakdown. If we are to avoid another era of unpaid public servants and defaulted municipal securities we must take steps now to prevent it.

It is in this connection that the more recent decision of Judge Jarecki in the County court, invalidating 11 million dollars of the 1934 levy, should be examined. Most of the illegal levies were known or at least suspected to be illegal when they were voted, and a number of tax experts were publicly quoted to that effect. Thousands of property owners withheld a portion of their taxes in the expectation, now realized, that the court would find for them. Thousands of other taxpayers paid in full. Those who paid have been penalized once more for doing so. These taxpayers, after repeated experiences of this sort, can hardly be blamed if they begin to think of themselves as the victims of a confidence game; to the extent that they think so, collections in future will decline.

A program for improving tax payments in Cook county will begin with honest levies which will stand the test of the courts. A second item in the program will be a redoubled effort to collect the unpaid taxes of previous years and for this purpose there must be a much closer coöperation between the county treasurer, the County court, and the state's attorney than has generally prevailed. Above all, the expenditures of the local governments must be trimmed wherever it is at all possible to do so. Public officials must be made to realize that they are spending more money than can be collected and therefore are preparing a financial catastrophe.

There will be a sharp increase in Cook county tax rates this year. It should be unnecessary to say—though evidently it is not—that higher rates will not bring about an improvement in the rate of collection. The federal and state governments are now taking so much money from Chicago each year that local tax bills are paid with increasing difficulty. With an increase in federal taxation as well as the new levy for relief to be met, the problem of finding money for the ordinary purposes of local government will be harder to solve than ever.

As matters stand, 65 per cent of the assessed property in Chicago is carrying 100 per cent of the burden. Property owners who pay their taxes are conscious of the injustice. In a sense, they are being penalized for paying their bills. Higher rates are not going to make them feel any happier over their situation, and certainly higher rates are not going to encourage those who have not been paying to change their habits.

MAINTAINING THE BRITISH CHARACTER.

King Edward, suddenly confronted with a pistol barrel, remained composed and continued riding at the head of the horse guards as if nothing untoward had happened. This was in character. British kings are not supposed to betray discomposure, whatever the incident. The more remarkable fact is that the whole British nation remained in character.

Thus it seems that at the moment the assassin, if such he was in real intent, was discovered the section of the crowd nearest him was agitated. There was a cry of "lynch him" and it would appear that the angry Britons piled on him before the police could reëstablish the serenity of the law. Now it may be that this was only a characteristic bit of American journalistic work of exaggeration. We are prepared to learn that it was. No doubt the first person who laid hands on the man was an unperturbed London policeman whose first words were: "I must warn you that anything you say will be used against you."

If we leave out the cry of "lynch him" and the alleged disorderly conduct of the people closest to the scene we find nothing to disturb the tradition of self-control and unruffled law enforcement. The police enabled the "woman in gray" who had knocked the gun out of the man's hands to escape any sensational consequences of her act by escorting her to a police car and to the home office, which immediately suppressed her name and protected her from journalistic inconveniences.

The man himself was taken to the Bow street station where he was charged with "being in unlawful possession of a firearm with attempt to endanger life." The formal charge was made by Police Inspector John Sands of Scotland Yard and all the immediate facts including such as may be important in the prisoner's defense were given the magistrate.

King Edward proceeded calmly to Buckingham palace, where he lunched, and later went to Sunningdale, where he played a game of golf before returning to London in the evening. In both the house of commons and the house of lords brief expressions of gratitude were made and the incident as any other on a routine police case involving a person in unlawful possession of a firearm apparently was closed. At the theaters there was a demonstrative singing of "God Save the King" more emotional than usual, but the British presented to the world the unruffled calm of an orderly people.

Probably the name of the lady in gray will be made public, but for the immediate occasion British journalism, which loves a sensation with as much avidity as the profession in any country, was under the official restraints of what is regarded as dignified in the public eye. The British character must be upheld.

CAMPBELL COUNTY ASKS WHY.

The efforts of the Tennessee Valley Authority to force the Southern Railway to abandon its La Follette branch would be comical if they were not so serious. According to the plans of the TVA, the right of way occupied by the railway branch will be under water when certain dams are completed, making train service impossible. Nevertheless, under a peculiar quirk of the law, the Southern Railway will be criminally liable if it abandons operation without permission. Of course, if proper application is made, the Southern could doubtless obtain the necessary permit—but why spend money in tearing up a paying piece of property? If the TVA needs the right of way, why shouldn't the government purchase it?

Now comes Campbell county, Tenn., to add its complication. According to a brief filed by its attorney, a flood control reservoir will not inundate the Southern tracks and the artificial lake is not necessary for navigation. Admittedly, the impounded water will be necessary for the operation of a power plant but the TVA is not building the dam to serve a power plant. O, mercy no—that would be unconstitutional. It is merely providing for flood control and improving navigation. Of course, if power can be produced as a by-product it can be sold at by-product prices.

What a nation of hypocrites the administration is making of the American people! It does not require a college course in engineering to see that a reservoir behind a dam would be valueless to restrain a flood if full of water. We have had similar experiences with the drip pan under the old icebox. Even the TVA, inured to the chimerical, would scarcely advocate its value for navigation or power purposes if empty. Of course, if floods occurred with clocklike regularity and could be predicted with the same accuracy as eclipses of the sun and certain other natural phenomena, the reservoir might be emptied for the reception of the scheduled torrent, but the trouble is that they are not.

Campbell county has a real grievance. The TVA has already robbed it of a substantial amount of taxable property. Now it wants to know whether the government is actually controlling floods or merely substituting a nonrevenue for a taxpaying public utility. It is a question that every other county in the country should ponder.

Editorial of the Day

[Texas Weekly.]

A fallacious theory that advertising adds materially to the consumer price of goods is often advanced by individuals and organizations that self-avowedly have the interests of the consumer at heart. This argument has been proved again and again to be without merit, but that does not keep it from bobbing up every so often. It has been heard again recently, so it might be worth while to repeat once more that there would be no mass consumption if there were no advertising—and if there were no mass consumption there would certainly be none of the prices that come as a result of mass production. This is so simple that it appears no one could have any difficulty in understanding it. But some gentlemen apparently do have such difficulty, and they are forever breaking out with statements as to the uselessness and waste of advertising. It is hard to believe that they do not realize that if it were not for advertising and the desire for possession that it causes, automobiles, for instance, would still be available only to the wealthy, and there would not be radio sets in millions of homes, and preparations would not now be going forward to install air conditioning equipment at prices that would have been impossible only a short time ago. We say it is hard to believe that these gentlemen who speak and write learnedly of "advertising waste" do not recognize these facts; indeed, it is almost impossible to believe that they do not recognize them. And that leaves us no other alternative than to conclude that there may be some other reasons than the ones the gentlemen give why they speak so bitterly against advertising. Advertising is an integral part of our present economic system. Is it unfair to conclude that these gentlemen who want to abolish advertising may also want to abolish our present economic system? They make a noise completely out of proportion to their numbers—they are, it seems, another organized minority group—but we think this is one case in which the consumer is not going to be easily fooled. The vital necessity of advertising in the economic life of America as presently constituted is too well known, the benefits of the mass production that can come only with mass consumption are too widely recognized for propaganda against advertising to be given much attention by the people. And the gentlemen had better be glad of it, for if they succeeded in abolishing advertising they would abolish more than a few business firms in this country—and there would be that many less to pay the taxes which keep at least some of these shriekers against advertising on the public pay roll!

KING EDWARD looked right into the muzzle of that wild man's gun the other day and never batted an eye. It is declared that he said nothing, but I'll bet he did. If those around the king had listened closely they would probably have heard him say under his breath as he looked at his would-be assassin, "Silly ass."

SOMETIMES I WONDER if country correspondents do not stretch the truth a little bit in their earnest desire to get their stuff into the city papers. Now that story sent by the correspondent out in Hooper's Prairie, in Nebraska, seems to me to be a little overdrawn. He says a farmer near there went fishing the other day, but the first fish he caught and got into the boat was so hot that it burned a hole right through the boat and the water came in just as the farmer threw down a lighted match after lighting his pipe. The match struck the water, which immediately burst into a blaze, but being near the shore the farmer got out all right, but his whiskers were burned off. Still, after sizzling in Chicago the last two weeks, I am not ready to say that the thing never happened.

The rain dance may turn out to be the baloney, but anything is worth trying.

Great grief, compacts in the pockets of a man's shirt! Compacts! And of course a compact means lipsticks, rouge, tweezers, and dab rags. The next thing we'll see will be men in an elevator making all the funny faces that the girls make as they paint up like a Sioux Indian on the warpath. This is too much! DESERTED LANDS.

The earth is winning back its own; the fields
Old fence rows lost beneath wild columbine
No longer mark the meadows where great shields
Of timothy once swayed; the bee now wields
His scepter undefied; a saturnine
Low-circling crow caw-caws and seeks a sign
Of corn in jimpson which the lowland yields.

The graveyard hidden by dense cedar thickets
Is overgrown with grasses; ivy runs
Its tendrils over crumbling stones; gray pickets
From gates long fallen rot in summer suns;
Wild roses carpet each slow-settling mound

MOTTLED TEETH.

THE chemical element, fluorine, is distributed widely throughout the world. While single deposits are not large, it exists in dilute form in the sea, in mineral springs, and in the water of deep-driven wells in certain regions. In the animal kingdom it is detectable in bones, blood, brain, and many secretions. Inasmuch as it will dissolve glass, the acid [hydrofluoric] is used for etching designs upon glass surfaces.

Our interest in this powerful chemical lies in its effect upon the enamel of human teeth during the growing period. If the teeth of children, instead of being smooth and glistening, are chalky white in some areas with brownish pits in others, it is quite likely that the water used by the household contains fluorine. The characteristic appearance has led to the adoption of the term "mottled teeth." Unfortunately, the defects are permanent. The brown deposits cannot be removed by any amount of cleaning and nothing can be done to replace the enamel that has failed to form. While the teeth look somewhat unsightly there is no interference with alignment or strength and there is no real evidence that they are prone to decay more quickly.

H. A. Fynn of Denver was the first observer to find the defect among children in the United States, although the ravages of fluorine are now recognized in more than 200 localities in this country as well as in other parts of the world, particularly Germany, Italy, Spain, and Holland. It was not until 1931, however, that extensive studies showed that the chemical in question existed in some domestic water supplies in varying proportions from a mere trace [not dangerous] to 13 to 14 parts per million [very dangerous]. Not long ago a survey made in the state of Iowa disclosed many sections in which mottled teeth were found.

We must recall that the condition is observed chiefly in the age group 9 to 12 years, although the damage is done during the period of development when the permanent teeth are undergoing calcification. In other words, if water with but a small amount of this enamel destroying element is used during the entire period of childhood the effect may be as noticeable as though a higher concentration were imbibed for a shorter period.

How many children are affected? The percentage varies in different districts, depending upon the amount of fluorine. In one community where the water showed 4.4 parts per million, 60 per cent of the children exhibited the symptom. In another, in which there were only 2.5 parts per million, injury to the enamel occurred in but 20 per cent. In a third, with 1.7 parts per million, there were no pronounced cases and but 7 per cent showed moderate involvement.

If mottled teeth appear in your neighborhood with any great degree of regularity the water should be tested and if the amount of fluorine exceeds 1.5 parts per million, steps should be taken to obtain water from a different source—one that is free from this deleterious substance. Changing the water supply, however, after children have passed the eighth or ninth year will have little effect, since the harm has already been done.

Water from rivers [other than mountain streams] and from fresh water lakes is usually safe. While the precipitation of fluorine can be accomplished through expensive chemical means, this is impracticable in many cases. Boiling does not help.

While the occurrence of excessive quantities of fluorine does not constitute a general health problem, it should give us concern as every one desires clean, even, pearly teeth. We may all possess them if the diet is adequate and contains a sufficient supply of vitamin D. But no healthy youngster—even with buckets of vitamins—can neutralize fluorine.

CANCER NOT CONTAGIOUS.

A. C. B. writes: My mother died at 55 from cancer. An operation probably prolonged her life over two years. At the time of operation I had a year old son, and the doctor advised my mother not to fondle or pet the baby or hold him close to her mouth. While he did not say outright that it was contagious, the doctor felt that her diseased condition was none too good for the young child.

There is now a patient in the family who has a large cancerous growth involving the stomach, and surgeons have refused to operate. She has had numerous transfusions, etc., but has come home from the hospital. In the house there is an 11 months old baby granddaughter, and this grandmother continually picks up the baby and fondles and hugs her, rubbing her face against the baby's and kissing her. The woman's breath is very foul and there is a strong odor about her body. She is losing ground daily.

Do you think an 11 months old infant should be subjected to this?

It is impossible to stop the grandmother unless perhaps some statement on the bad effect of the practice—if such is the case—could be shown to her. Is cancer contagious? Is the foul breath good for an infant to inhale? Should not this woman still be in a hospital where she would be properly treated and would not come in close contact with others, especially young children?

REPLY.

Cancer is not contagious. At any rate the most expert workers in this field are convinced that it is not. In other words, the grandmother cannot possibly transmit cancer to any one else. Nevertheless, she probably can and will convey a mouth infection, and certainly no person with a foul breath should fondle or kiss any one—a baby least of all. A fetid breath cannot fail to carry some bacteria on tiny particles of moisture exhaled. All kissing and intimate handling of babies should be tabooed.

ATHLETE'S FOOT.

A. B. D. writes: Every summer I develop athlete's foot. What can I do to cure it completely?

REPLY.

It may be that you become reinfected each summer because you are more likely to go barefooted. At the beaches or swimming pools use sandals or low slippers. Sometimes the infection is latent [hidden about the toenails, where it is unobserved]. When your feet perspire it may spread to the skin between your toes. We have some instructions on treating the condition, which you can get by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DAY BY DAY IN THE MAKING OF THE CONSTITUTION

BY JAMES MADISON.

[Father of the Constitution and Fourth President of the United States.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 18, 1787.—In convention. Resolved that the executive shall have the right to negative legislation not afterward passed by two-thirds of each branch. Agreed to without dissenting voice.

The Value of Money May Alter with the Price of Wheat

Resolved that a national judiciary be established to consist of one supreme tribunal. Agreed to. "The judges of which to be appointed by the second branch of the national legislature." Mr. Gorham of Massachusetts: He suggested that the judges be appointed by the executive with the advice and consent of the second branch in the mode provided by the constitution of Massachusetts. Mr. Wilson of Pennsylvania would still prefer an appointment by the executive, but if that could not be obtained would prefer in the next place the mode suggested by Mr. Gorham. Mr. Luther Martin of Delaware was strenuous for appointment by the second branch.

Mr. Gorham: As the executive will be responsible in point of character at least for a judicious and faithful discharge of his trust he will be careful to look through all the states for proper characters. Rhode Island is a full illustration of the insensibility to character produced by a participation of numbers in dishonorable measures and of the length to which a public body may carry wickedness and cabal. Mr. Sherman of Connecticut clearly was for an election by the senate. It would be composed of men nearly equal to the executive and would, of course, have more wisdom. They would bring into their deliberations a more diffuse knowledge of characters. It would be less easy for candidates to intrigue with them than with the executive magistry. Mr. Bedford of Delaware thought there were solid reasons against leaving the appointment to the executive. The responsibility of the executive so much talked of was chimerical. He could not be punished for mistakes. Mr. Gorham remarked that the senate could have no better information than the executive. The executive certainly would be more responsible for a good appointment, as the whole blame for a bad one would rest on him.

The question of referring the appointment of judges to the executive rather than the senate was defeated, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania aye. On the question of appointment with the advice and consent of the senate the vote was 4 to 4, Georgia absent. The question was postponed. On the question of fixed salaries for the judges. Mr. Gouverneur Morris: The value of money may not only alter but the state of society may alter. In this event the same quantity of wheat, the same value, would not be the same compensation. The amount of salaries must always be regulated by the manners and the style of living in a country. [The vote for striking out the provision for an increase of salary to the judges was 6 aye, 2 no, Georgia absent.] On the resolution that the national legislature be empowered to appoint inferior tribunals, Mr. Butler of South Carolina could see no necessity for such tribunals. The state tribunals could do the business. Mr. Luther Martin concurred. Mr. Randolph of Virginia observed that the courts of the states cannot be trusted with the administration of national laws. Mr. Gouverneur Morris also urged the necessity of such a provision. Col. Mason thought many circumstances might arise not now foreseen which might make such a power absolutely necessary. [The question was agreed to without dissent.]

Resolution No. 16: "Resolved that a republican constitution and its existing laws ought to be guaranteed to each state by the United States." Mr. Gouverneur Morris thought that the resolution was very objectionable. He should be very unwilling that such laws as exist in Rhode Island should be guaranteed. Mr. Wilson: The object merely is to secure the states against dangerous commotions, insurrections and rebellions. Col. Mason: If the general government should have no right to suppress rebellions against particular states it will be in a bad situation, indeed. Mr. Madison moved to substitute "that the constitutional authority of the states shall be guaranteed to them, respectively, against domestic as well as foreign violence." Mr. Houston of Georgia was afraid of perpetuating the existing constitutions of the states. That of Georgia was a very bad one and he hoped it would be revised and amended. Mr. Luther Martin was for leaving the states to suppress rebellions themselves. Mr. Gorham thought it strange that a rebellion should be known to exist in the empire and that the general government should be restrained from interposing to subdue it. Mr. Wilson moved as a better expression of the idea that "a republican form of government shall be guaranteed to each state and that each state shall be protected against foreign and domestic violence." Mr. Wilson's motion was agreed to without dissent.

FARMING

Q.—How many bushels of flax were imported into the United States last year, and how much land would be required to grow it?

A.—17,500,000 bushels of flax were imported. This would require about 1,750,000 acres of land.

A.—9,642,523 bushels. In 1932 we exported over 1,000,000 bushels of rye.

A CONTRAST.

Chicago, July 11.—Coming from the rural silences of the Carolina mountains after twenty years of absence from the district where I was born, it is natural that certain evidences of progress impress me with all the dynamic power of this great city.

Conversely, when I see surging life, cleanliness, courtesy in every nook and corner of this great Merchandise Mart except the Farley run postoffice of the federal government, I ask the reason why the dirty floors and lassitude of employés in this one spot where the central federal regimentation of our government holds sway.

In the light of common sense how can the people fail to see the brightness of these glorious institutions that grew in the twelve years that F. D. R. says were filled with terror, in contrast with the dinginess of the agency that Prince Farley of the dynasty of political privilege rules.

It may interest you to know that my research for the furniture company I serve carries me into the ancient homes of the old rice country of the Carolinas, and there I meet lifelong Democrats who see the truth of the present trends of the Democratic party. The men I meet tell me they are without a national party, that they are going to their party conventions determined to make the fight of their lives to free the delegates from any pledges to support their party beyond the town, county, and state.

SKIMPING THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, July 10.—The editorial in THE TRIBUNE July 3 on the elementary schools stated facts about a situation that has been causing general concern for several years. During the brief reign of the junior high school this intermediate school had new buildings, new equipment, and even the teachers were on a higher salary schedule than those who taught the same grades, the seventh and eighth, in the elementary schools. It was obvious to those that were informed that shortly the high schools and colleges were going to suffer from this shortsighted policy of discrimination against the school at the base of the whole educational structure. The remedial classes in the high school and junior college point back to this unfortunate situation in the elementary schools.

To provide more teachers so that classes may be smaller is a first requirement. A little investigation has brought to light a policy in the educational department which is general and has been practiced over a period of years. Classroom teachers are withdrawn from their classes to do special work in the downtown offices, at the same time drawing their salaries as teachers in the school from which they have been withdrawn. For example, a teacher in the X school is now employed in the child study department, but her salary is charged to the X school. In short, it means that the X school must operate with one less teacher than the membership entitles it to; that the children of that school sit in larger classes than the board of education has set as its standard.

If all the teachers so withdrawn would be returned to their classes a start would be made toward eliminating the huge classes now found, and the child study department would not need so large a staf. Let us focus some attention on the elementary school. Lower the class membership and teach the fundamental subjects more thoroughly and we would find fewer children failing, fewer truants, and less need for special schools, psychologists, and remedial classes.

RELATIVE HUMIDITY.

Chicago, July 13.—Though your weather reports give considerable details about the daily maximum and minimum temperatures, I feel, with several of my associates, that you neglect to mention the ever changing and all important relative humidity condition of the atmosphere. Sooner or later this rapidly advancing air conditioning industry will be of major importance to the country as a whole. In order to accelerate the public's demand for controled atmospheric conditions [either winter or summer] in buildings of all sorts, I recommend daily published readings of maximum and minimum relative humidity.

FROM A WIDOW.

Chicago, July 9.—Home owners must be taxed again for relief.

We widows are willing to work to keep our homes. We are satisfied to work. Why should we support people who don't want to work, but want to own automobiles and dress in the latest fashions?

Why not investigate thoroughly the people who expect to be supported in idleness, eliminate politics [can it be done?], and give us a break? Why persistently tax home owners in order to keep undesirable citizens in vanity? Why not tax amusements or all quit work and go on relief? What we need is just a little more honesty in our administration.

ELEVATED PASSES.

Chicago, July 14.—The "L" roads have decided to eliminate the weekly pass and issue in lieu thereof three fares for 25 cents. Would it not be better, if the roads are losing money on the pass, to run the price up to $1.50, $1.75, or $2 and issue transfers at this price? Now the pass is not used so much as it has no transfer value.

ESTATE PROBLEM.

Chicago, July 15.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My sister and [1] I have received summons from Rockford, Ill., in regard to a will. Our brother in Ohio, also an heir, has received none. 2. What must he do? 3. What is the proper procedure in filing answer to summons? 4. In summons some heirs are listed as plaintiffs and we are listed with defendants. We three are satisfied with the will. I will appreciate your advice.

A. B.

1. It is not clear whether you mean a mere notice that the application for letters of administration has been filed or a document which a lawyer would call a summons.

2. It is not clear whether any action on his part is called for, but it would do no harm for him to write to the clerk of the court stating his relationship to the deceased.

3. We cannot advise without knowing more clearly the nature of the document that you have received.

4. This implies that something more than the mere application for administration is involved. Presumably it is a will contest. If so, your brother's course will depend on whether he wishes to coöperate in the defense of the will.

SEPARATE MAINTENANCE.

Chicago, July 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please settle a dispute in the following case: A man, divorced this year in Illinois, is now paying alimony. Will he have to pay alimony for more than two years if there is no issue? M. L.

He probably will. The new legislation fixing the two year limit applies only to separate maintenance and temporary alimony as distinguished from permanent alimony payable after a decree of divorce.

REVOLT CHARGE HIT BY SEDITION TRIAL DEFENDANT

Porto Rican Accuses U.S. of Freedom Suppression.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, July 17.—(AP)—Pedro Albizu Campos, leader of the Porto Rican Nationalist party who is on trial for conspiracy to overthrow the United States administration by force, declared today the party was not guilty of conspiracy to revolt.

Albizu Campos asserted neither he nor any of the seven other Nationalists accused with him had committed overt acts, and charged that incidents of violence between Nationalists and police were due to attempts to suppress the islanders' freedom.

He read to the jury extracts from the Nationalist party program, under which military intervention by the United States in Porto Rico would be ended and a constitutional convention would be called to proclaim the island a republic as soon as the Nationalists rallied a majority of the voters to their cause.

Testifies on Murder Plan.

A witness testified that Albizu Campos once said Porto Rican authorities "plan to kill all Nationalists." The witness, Angel Nunez Prieto, said Albizu made the statement at the graves of four Nationalists who were killed by police last October.

He quoted the Harvard educated Nationalist party president as saying the four were heroes who had "fallen in line of duty. Albizu, with hand upraised, asked the throng at the funeral to pledge with him that the deaths of the four would not go unavenged, the witness stated.

"Yankee Crime."

Nunez also testified Albizu charged the deaths constituted "a Yankee crime," and that they were ordered by Col. E. Francis Riggs, chief of insular police, who was assassinated in February.

Other witnesses declared Albizu had told the citizens of Mayanguez, where President Roosevelt landed two years ago, that they were imbeciles for receiving him with flowers instead of bullets," and that he stated in 1932: "If the governor orders police to kill Nationalists, Nationalists will kill the governor."

Following testimony concerning the killing of Col. Riggs by two Nationalists on Feb. 23, prosecutors indicated the government would rest its case.

PRINCESS TO FLEE SULU FOR MANILA; FOE IS MADE SULTAN

MANILA, July 17.—(AP)—The powerful Moro princess, Dayang Dayang, planned tonight to sail for Manila without acknowledging the elevation of Rajah Muda to the sultanate of Sulu over her opposition. Rajah Muda, brother of the late Sultan Jamalul Kiram and asserted descendant of the prophet Mohammed, was crowned sultan of the Moros earlier in the day at Maibun, Jolo, to end a long controversy over the succession.

Princess Dayang, adopted daughter of the old sultan, acted as sultana after his death and once was reported as desirous of permanently ascending the Sulu throne.

While the datus [chieftains] elected Rajah Muda the princess remained away from the proceedings. Muda's followers celebrated with prayers and feasting. When they made arrangements to pay him formal homage tomorrow, the princess began packing her effects for the trip to the Philippine capital.

TOURISTS LACK WATER, FOOD IN MEXICAN STRIKE

Board Acts to Settle Electric Walkout.

MEXICO CITY, July 17.—(AP)—A conciliation board worked in vain today toward a settlement of Mexico strike. Late tonight the board declared the strike legal, but seemed far from obtaining settlement.

The city and its surrounding territory meanwhile adapted itself as best it could to strike conditions, with informed sources estimating 500,000 residents were using candles or lamps, 3,200 shops and factories were closed, and 60,000 industrial workers idle.

Lack of water and consequent absence of sewage disposal was the principal worry in several suburbs where electric pumps were unable to raise water from artesian wells.

Hundreds of tourists—the season is at its peak now—quartered on the upper stories of hotels had to climb long flights of stairs—no joke in Mexico City's altitude. They likewise were without water in their rooms and had difficulty finding places to eat, since the kitchens of most restaurants are equipped with electricity.

Supplies of meat, milk, and some fruits and vegetables grew short because of lack of refrigeration. Mexicans went without their customary tortillas, as electrically powered corn meal mills did not grind.

Bread was scantier, as electric ovens remained cold. Foodstuffs, candles, and lamps jumped in price, in some instances from 25 to 100 per cent.

2,400 Fighting Ships Is Goal of Department.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—Sixty new speedy fighting planes will zoom into the air every month during the rest of the year under perfected war department airplane procurement plans.

Before the end of the year 500 new planes will be ready for action, officials said. Plans have been made for the purchase of more than 600 planes of various types in 1937.

Revises Buying System.

Facing congressional criticism because of the slowness and quality of the army's aircraft, Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war, revise buying specifications and installed a new system, after an exhaustive development and test period, designed to provide the army with the world's finest fighting aircraft.

The planes already delivered and the two planes to be delivered each day during this year will provide the army air corps with machines that will carry greater loads for longer distances at higher speeds than was dreamed of a few years ago.

Speed Near 300 Miles an Hour.

The war department has contracted for 849 planes under the new policy, of which 181 have been delivered. The goal is 2,400 planes recommended by the Baker aviation board and the general staff.

Air corps' experts already have worked out preliminary plans for 1938 plane purchases and contracts are scheduled to be let by July of next year for at least 500.

MAYHEM CHARGES DISMISSED.

Two charges of mayhem brought against Charles Osin, 50 years old, 4839 North Kedzie avenue, accused of throwing hot water on two small boys on June 15, were dismissed by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan yesterday after police testified Osin's act was accidental.

SECRET SERVICE AGENT EXPLAINS WATCH ON G-MEN

Investigated Slaying in St. Paul.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Grady L. Boatwright, secret service agent in charge of the St. Paul, Minn., office, was questioned at length today by treasury officials concerning his investigation of J. Edgar Hoover's "G-men" and their habit of shooting first and asking questions afterward.

The examination was the first of a series of closed hearings at which secret service men are to be quizzed concerning their "unauthorized" inquiry into Hoover's federal bureau of investigation agents.

Hoover is said to have become greatly excited over the discovery that his men's actions were being subjected to examination by the secret service men. The latter have an inconcealed contempt for Hoover's G-men and the national advertising they have received. The secret service men shun newspaper notoriety, holding that publicity harms the success of their operations.

Admits Investigating Slaying.

Boatwright is said to have admitted that he conducted an inquiry in St. Paul into the fatal shooting in 1934 of Eddie Green, one of the Dillinger gang. The story is that the G-men killed Green merely on a supposition as to his identity and that the dead man might well have been the well known innocent bystander for all the FBI men knew.

Secret service agents in Chicago are also reported to have questioned police there about the shooting to death of John Dillinger by Hoover's men in July, 1934.

Boatwright, it was reported, named Joseph W. Murphy, assistant chief of the secret service, as the official who ordered him to make the inquiry. Murphy is en route to Washington from Los Angeles. He telephoned W. H. McReynolds, administrative assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, who is in Chicago for the present inquiry, that he was "horrified that anything I might have told my men may have been misconstrued."

Investigate 1934 Shootings.

Several shootings by Hoover's men in 1934 were the basis for the investigation by the secret service, it was reported. Secret service men, it was said, believed that some of the killings were unwaranted, that the men could have been captured without gun play, and that the quick-trigger work of the G-men was caused by desire for publicity.

McReynolds declared that treasury investigators have no authority to conduct investigations of other federal agencies. He said apologies would be tendered Hoover and Attorney General Cummings if the present inquiry supports evidence already in hand.

France Sends Baron to Jail for 10 Years as Nazi Spy

PARIS, July 17.—(AP)—A ten year prison sentence for espionage was imposed today on Baron Serge de Stackelberg, one-time Paris military attaché of the imperial Russian government. The former Russian officer, a military expert, was charged with supplying Germany with extensive information on the French army.

PARDON GRANTED TO EX-EDITOR BY THE PRESIDENT

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—Federal prison officials today said Joseph V. Stilson, war time editor of a Lithuanian Socialist newspaper, had been released from the Lewisburg, Pa., penitentiary with a "full and unconditional pardon" from President Roosevelt.

Stilson, as secretary of a Lithuanian society and editor of a newspaper, was convicted under wartime laws of encouraging "insubordination, disloyalty, and refusal of duty" and of "obstructing recruiting and enlistment."

Justice department officials said today that Stilson, who remained at liberty for several years after the Supreme court affirmed his conviction on Nov. 10, 1919, had conducted himself during that time in "a law abiding manner," residing with his wife and daughter in Brooklyn, and working as a linotype operater.

Officials who aided in prosecuting the Lithuanian approved the pardon, the officials added.

APPEALS COURT REVERSES RULING IN PICKET CASE

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday reversed a ruling of Federal Judge William H. Holly which denied an injunction to the Scavenger Service corporation, 4545 Cottage Grove avenue, to restrain local 731 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers of America from picketing the Scavenger corporation or interfering with its business.

The injunction suit arose from a dispute between the corporation and the union officials. The corporation, through its attorney, Joseph A. Strutt, charged State's Attorney Courtney and Capt. Daniel Gilbert, his chief investigator, with conspiring with the union. Judge Holly referred the case to Master in Chancery Thomas C. McConnell, who found that Gilbert and the union officials were involved in a conspiracy but exonerated Courtney. Judge Holly rejected the report, holding that no conspiracy existed.

Yesterday the court of appeals held that a conspiracy of union officials existed, but that neither Courtney nor Gilbert was involved. The court ordered damages of $1,000 to the Scavenger Service corporation and ordered the union to refrain from further interference or picketing.

CITY FEARS HOME RULE PERILED BY SUPREME COURT

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes said yesterday that the city will ask a rehearing of a case in which the Illinois Supreme court recently handed down an opinion curtailing the 435 rules governing practice in the Municipal court. The rules were promulgated by Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court and were regarded by attorneys as cumbersome.

Hodes said that he was neither defending or condoning the rules. He pointed out, however, that the opinion, as he interpreted it, gave the legislature power to invalidate any of the home rule provisions under which the city operates, even if approved by referendum.

The city was not a party to the original case, which involved the question of how a defendant could enter a nonsuit. Under the state civil practice act this must be done by affidavit or by special motion, while the Municipal court rules made it discretionary with the judge. By giving precedence to the state act, passed by the legislature, the Supreme court was in effect giving the legislature power to vitiate all home rule provisions, Hodes said.

GUERNSEY SHOW ATTRACTS DAIRY FARMERS TODAY

Dairy farmers in the Chicago area have been invited by the Northern Illinois Guernsey Breeders association to attend the first parish show to be held today at Albert D. Lasker's Mill Road farm near Lake Forest. Members of the association have entered the best animals in their Guernsey herds. The cattle will be judged by Louis Seitz, a dairy judging expert.

The association is introducing the parish type of show in Illinois. Prizes are offered in various classes to stimulate interest in this kind of show, which was made famous many years ago on Guernsey Island.

GOV. OLSON HAS RESTFUL HOURS AFTER SURGERY

Rochester, Minn., July 17.—(AP)—The Mayo clinic announced tonight that Gov. Floyd B. Olson, who underwent an operation yesterday, had experienced a "better than average second postoperative day."

The operation was for insertion of an intestinal tube to permit artificial feeding.

Gov. Olson slept for a while this afternoon. He read magazines occasionally and was in a cheerful mood. Earlier in the day the clinic predicted he may be released in two weeks.

Seminary in Evanston Gets $40,000 Bequest

The Rev. Dr. Frederick C. Grant, president of Seabury-Western Theological seminary, Evanston, yesterday announced a bequest of $40,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Harriet Adams Mead of Asheville, N. C., for unrestricted support of the seminary. Dr. Grant indicated the fund may be used for student loan funds and scholarships. Seabury-Western seminary represents the merger of Western Theological seminary and Seabury seminary, formerly of Faribault, Minn.

Surrenders in Shooting; Victim Calls It Accidental

August Bartz, 80 years old, was examing the chimney on the roof of his bungalow at 1309 Cora street, Joliet, on Thursday when he lost his footing and fell to the ground. In the fall he broke the porch railing and three steps. Apparently uninjured, Bartz got his carpenter tools and repaired the railing and steps. Yesterday he complained of feeling ill and it was learned he had suffered a rib fracture. Physicians assured Bartz he would be up and around again in a few days.

Russia Tries 13 for Rail Wreck in Which 51 Died

MOSCOW, July 17.—(AP)—Thirteen men went on trial today in connection with the train wreck near Chita in which 51 persons were killed June 22, a dispatch to the newspaper Pravda said. A trans-Siberian railway train ran into the rear of another train which had been halted on a grade because of mechanical difficulties. Those arrested included the men on duty at the station of Karymskaye and surviving members of the trains' crews.

AIR CONDITIONING

A Review and a Word of Prediction

JUST WHAT IS AIR CONDITIONING?

★ The prolonged intense heat which causes so much suffering throughout the country again makes news of air conditioning. For the past three summers, this has happened. When the thermometer soars, people seek air conditioning, appreciate it, talk about it. This year, the interest has been more intense than ever. The reason is obvious—more air conditioning is available than ever before. Engineers have been busy producing its effects in a greater variety of forms.

But air conditioning is not news to us. We have been interested in it since its inception. We have seen in it, not only a new market for our products—gas and electricity—but we have also seen it as the fulfillment of a great human need. Another development in the steady progress of Americans toward better living.

It is a fact that the majority of the people have come to think of air conditioning as a means of cooling the rooms they occupy . . . a method of relief from the intense heat of summer. But air conditioning, in the true sense, is considerably more than that. It actually includes, in addition to cooling, five other important processes in the preparation of more comfortable air to live in. These processes are circulating, cleaning, humidifying, dehumidifying and heating. Although cooling secures the greatest publicity for air conditioning, it is by no means its only function. Complete installations in theaters, stores, hospitals, public rooms of all sorts—and in many homes—include all six functions.

Just what is the present availability of air conditioning? Simply this: you can have it for your home, your store, your office, your theater, your restaurant—in fact anywhere you want it—in just about any form you desire. That is, you can have a unit which provides all the functions, or you can have one or more units which produce these effects separately. New buildings are being constructed with complete units. Older buildings and many existing homes are adding individual room coolers, air circulating fans and filters, attic ventilating fans, humidifiers which moisten dry winter air, and other types of equipment.

No, air conditioning is not new to us. We have been working in this field for several years. We have assisted in the development of several different units, suggested improvements to manufacturers, pointed out the needs of the ultimate user. We feel that we are abreast with the many fine types of air-conditioning equipment now being offered and in touch with new types being developed.

And now for a prediction. Air conditioning has only started its job of making our daily lives more comfortable. The next decade may see it reach an acceptance of the proportions that automatic refrigeration has now attained. Beyond that, it may compare with the universality of electric light. We are inclined to agree with the suggestion that has already been made, that in the years to come it may be considered one of the industrial developments that helped pull the country out of the depression.

The information we have collected on air conditioning has been helpful to many in the outlying Chicagoland territory we serve, and is available to you for the asking. We have engineers who have made thorough studies of this subject, and who can put you in touch with the many qualified dealers in air-conditioning equipment. Inquire at any of our stores or offices.

BRITAIN PROBES REASON FOR MOVE TO KILL MONARCH

Scotland Yard Hears More Stories of Attempt.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—Scotland Yard today was in the midst of an intensive investigation of the gun pointing incident on Constitution hill yesterday in which King Edward VIII. of England escaped possible death at the hands of an assassin.

In response to an appeal by the Yard for help in straightening out the story of what happened when George Andrew McMahon pointed a revolver at the British ruler as the latter rode his horse on Constitution hill toward Buckingham palace, dozens of persons in the crowd watching the royal procession came to tell their versions.

Continue Examination.

At the same time the examination and questioning of McMahon continued in a mental ward of the prison hospital. It developed that McMahon, 34 years old and baldish, had changed his name only a few years ago from Jerry Bannigan, and that he is not a Scotsman, as first reported, but an Irishman, the son of John Bannigan, 80 years old, of Glasgow.

Tears rolled down the cheeks of the aged Bannigan today when he had heard the story of his son's attempt on the life of the king.

"To think one of my family would come to this," he sobbed. "I cannot understand it. I must keep the news from my wife. She has been bedridden for 13 weeks and one never knows what effect the shock might have."

Moved from Ireland.

Bannigan said he came from Ireland to Glasgow 40 years ago. Unemployed, he lives in a tenement building near the working class area of the shipbuilding district.

McMahon's wife, employed in a London dress shop, declared she would stick by her husband, "whatever it means to me."

Meantime McMahon himself, described by other acquaintances as a social reformer and "rather a crank," continued to insist that he had never intended to shoot the king. He was reported to have said today that his loaded revolver was not knocked from his hand but that he threw it near the king "as a protest."

There was still, however, no indication as to just what he was protesting about. Police did not believe that it had anything to do with the execution the day before of the mother of five children for poisoning her husband.

No Word from "Woman in Gray."

Still to be heard from was the "woman in gray" who was said by eyewitnesses to have been the one who knocked the gun out of McMahon's hand.

It was rumored that the heroine of the occasion, who was immediately spirited away by police, is an American.

The British public acclaimed as the hero of the fateful incident Anthony Gordon Dick, police reservist. Dick overwhelmed McMahon just after the latter had pointed his gun.

"I acted almost instinctively," he explained. "As soon as I saw the little woman in gray make as if to strike the man and cry out, 'It's a revolver!' I smashed out at him with my fist."

Call Incident Isolated.

The nature of the charge against McMahon will depend upon the evidence being collected. it is understood. At present he is charged with being in unlawful possession of a firearm with intent to endanger life, the maximum penalty for which is 20 years in prison.

Authorities announced that they considered the incident to be an isolated one and not part of the work of an organized terrorist gang.

Edward himself went on about his business as usual today. On a drive from Buckingham palace to York house this afternoon he was cheered heartily by waiting crowds, cheers which he acknowledged with nods.

BRITISH CAVALRY UNIT JOINS HOLY LAND GARRISON

JERUSALEM, July 17.—(AP)—The British garrison in Palestine, already at its greatest strength since the world war, was today further reinforced by a cavalry regiment, the Eleventh Hussars, from Cairo.

The regiment, accompanied by a service company, brings the British man power in the Holy Land to more than 10,000, with other battalions on the way from Malta.

Arab disorders, now in their third month, today claimed the 45th Jewish victim. Jacob Israiloff, 40, died of wounds suffered on July 9. Arab newspapers reported that Arabs in the United States are contributing money to their brethren here engaged in a general strike of protest against Jewish immigration. The newspapers said the American Arabs have contributed $2,640.

10,000 Poles Proclaim Their Nation's Rights to Danzig

WARSAW, July 17.—(AP)—Ten thousand poles, including many Socialist workmen, met in a demonstration tonight and adopted a resolution proclaiming Poland's rights to the free city of Danzig. Placards carried by the crowd read: "Danzig Was and Must Be Polish"; "Germans—Keep Your Hands Off Danzig!"; "Down with Beck's [Foreign Minister Josef Beck] pro-German Policy."

GERMANS ATTACK CZECHS FOR TYING UP WITH RUSSIA

See Prague's Action as Threat to Peace.

BERLIN, July 17.—(AP)—Germany, uneasy over indications of closer cooperation between Russia, Czechoslovakia, and Rumania, launched an open attack today on the foreign policy of the Czech government as a danger to Europe's peace.

The Reich, through its foreign office mouthpiece, the Deutsche Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz, attacked particularly Czech financial support of Rumanian armament and the reported building of a strategic railway to connect soviet Russia and Czechoslovakia.

Some Call Railway a Myth.

The foreign office organ accused Czechoslovakia of injecting a new complication in the European situation at the very moment the Austro-German agreement promised definitly to relax long standing tension.

The Korrespondenz asserted the Czech radio service was referring to soviet air staf officers in Prague as "representatives of an army to which the Czech army is bound by brief but all the more cordial traditions of cooperation."

[Vienna reports said Czechoslovakia had guaranteed the industries in that country the payment of $8,200,000 for armaments delivered to Rumania. Another $3,690,000, which Rumania owed to Czechoslovakia, was reported converted into a new loan.]

The situation was watched with interest in diplomatic circles here, where conclusion of the Austro-German agreement aroused speculation as to whether the little entente [Czechoslovakia, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia] would now swing toward Germany or whether it would move closer to Russia.

The foreign office's outspoken attack indicated the government believed at least two of the entente members were edging toward Russia.

Railway for Red Army.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, July 17.—(AP)—A strategic railway across Bessarabia to connect Russia and Czechoslovakia was revealed tonight as a project of the little entente general staffs.

Informed sources said Czechoslovakia insisted on its construction and offered a loan to finance it to give Russian troops quick access to the heart of Europe in the event the Franco-Czech-Russian alliance is obliged to take military action.

The finance ministry disclosed a new bridge is to be built at Dniester, and that the line eventually will be double tracked. At first it will be built to accommodate standard European trains. The second line will be of wider guage, for Russian trains. Construction will start in the autumn.

ULSTER JAILS SIX IRISH REPUBLICAN ARMY MEMBERS

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland, July 17.—(AP)—A heavily chained and guarded Irish Republican tonight defiantly challenged the right of a British court to bring him before the bar of justice.

Hugh McAteer Jr., one of six men seized today in the Royal Ulster constabulary's ceaseless war against the revolutionary Irish Republican organization, declared before the bench:

"I deny the right of the court to try me or any citizen of the Irish Republic."

Sixty-eight sticks of gelignite [a gelatin dynamite], enough to blast away a city, formed the main exhibit in the short hearing for the six men. Police recorded their names as Thomas Carlin, James Cowle, Sean Dolin, Hugh McAteer, and his sons, Hugh and Daniel McAteer.

The prisoners were seized by four groups of police who entered twelve houses where they said they found the explosives, coils of fuse, arms, ammunition, bombs, and Irish Republican literature. It was in the McAteer home that authorities said they found the dynamite.

AUSTRALIA PLANS TO INCREASE ITS MILITIA TO 35,000

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

MELBOURNE, Australia, July 17.—Plans have been outlined for increasing the militia strength of the country to 35,000, as the nucleus of a force of 200,000 required to repel an aggressor, by attracting a greater number of volunteers through higher pay, improved equipment, and greater social and sports facilities.

It also was announced that when the cruisers Australia and Sydney return from the Mediterranean the navy will be the strongest since the depression, with three cruisers, four destroyers, and one sloop in commission. Provision probably will be made in the budget for the recommissioning of the aircraft carrier Albatross.

It is expected that before the end of the year the air force order for thirty-six bombers and thirty-six pursuit planes will be completely filled by British manufacturers. Several new fighting squadrons will be formed.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTES TO SEIZE WAR INDUSTRIES

Bill Gives Nation Right to Run Arms Factories.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 17.—The French New Deal, which on paper at least already has effected an economic and social revolution, advanced another step toward integral realization of its program today when the chamber of deputies voted in principle the nationalization of war industries.

The bill, passed by a vote of 484 to 85, now goes to the senate for approval. It confers on Premier Leon Blum's leftist government dictatorial powers and a free hand to expropriate private armament plants or leave them in the hands of their owners subject to any degree of government control it may wish to impose.

The program will be financed by forcing stockholders of the arms companies to turn in their shares for government bonds.

No Uniform Plan.

In practice the government will not apply any uniform program but will take over some plants entirely while merely exercising supervision over others. As a general rule only companies which have no other production except arms and munitions will be expropriated, but the government refused to pin itself down on this point.

Long demanded by leftists for sentimental reasons—they argued that "cannon merchants" foment wars in order to have a market for their wares—the bill was not seriously opposed by the nationalists.

A number of right wing deputies voted for the bill on the strength of the argument by Edouard Daladier, minister of war, that it would increase the country's efficiency and facilitate industrial mobilization in time of war.

State to Pocket Profits.

The right wingers were further reassured by Daladier's statement that under the new system sales of arms to foreign powers—denounced by pacifists as the most immoral part of the whole business—would not be suppressed, but that the state would simply replace the private "cannon merchants" in pocketing the profits.

Even the "cannon merchants" themselves do not appear to be greatly displeased with the measure. This curious reaction is in keeping with the tendency apparent among many French capitalists to accept or even solicit state control over their business as long as personal incomes are secure. Hence, it is hard to draw any political conclusions from the chamber's vote.

Debate on the bill hinged mostly on the issue of whether nationalization of war industries would reduce their efficiency by eliminating competition. Daladier and Pierre Cot, minister of aviation, argued that the competitive spirit among inventors and engineers could be maintained under the new system.

Cot gave a hint as to how the government proposes to achieve this. He explained that while the state would take over mass production of standardized airplane motors, it would depend on private aviation companies competing with one another to create and perfect new models.

CHINESE VERDICT IN MURDER TRIAL HALTED BY JAPS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, July 17.—Dzien Hungyen, Chinese judge, today sidestepped a decision in the trial of three Chinese for the murder of the Japanese petty naval officer, Hideo Nakayama, and announced the case would be reopened as a result of the discovery of new evidence. A few minutes prior to the hour of the court's sitting, Vice Admiral Eijiro-Kondo of the Japanese navy, accompanied by six naval officers wearing uniforms, strode into the courtroom and took seats directly in front of the judge.

The court was surrounded by Chinese and foreign police attached to the international settlement when the judge made his announcement. The Japanese Residents' corporation committee decided to call an emergency meeting.

Because of the threat of Admiral Kondo that the Japanese navy intended to take "drastic action" in the event that the Chinese court released the three Cantonese accused of murdering Nakayama last November, it was rumored that Nanking ordered the Chinese court to postpone the verdict.

Plan to Draft All Europeans for Kenya Colony Defense

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, July 17.—(AP)—A proposal for virtual conscription of all Europeans in Kenya colony as the nucleus for a big native defense army was contained today in a report of a government defense committee. Kenya colony borders Italy seized Ethiopia on the south.

ROPER TO ATTEND GARDEN PARTY OF KING EDWARD VIII.

Britain to Honor Two New Dealers.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 17.—Hands across the sea is the keynote of the reception and welcome being planned here for Daniel C. Roper, American secretary of commerce, who will arrive in Plymouth next Tuesday on the liner Manhattan for a three weeks' sojourn in England.

Roper, together with Ambassador Robert W. Bingham and the diplomatic corps, will attend King Edward's garden party in Buckingham palace on Wednesday. On the next day he and William Alexander Julian, treasurer of the United States, will be guests of honor at a special luncheon to be given by the Pilgrims society for promoting good relations between Great Britain and the United States. King Edward is a patron of the Pilgrims society and his uncle, the duke of Connaught, is president.

Bingham to Attend Luncheon.

Roper and Julian will be accompanied at this luncheon by Ambassador Bingham, who soon will receive an honorary degree at Oxford. It is expected Roper and Julian will make speeches in response to toasts at the luncheon.

Mrs. Roper and Mrs. Julian will be among the limited number of American women who will see King Edward seated upon his dais erected on the lawn in the Buckingham palace gardens next week. About 1,000 women who would have been presented at June courts, had they not been canceled through mourning for King George V., will be presented to the king on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

A special enclosure on the right of the dais will be reserved for members of the diplomatic corps. Facing the dais by a clump of trees on the left main path of the garden will be seating accommodations for women who will be included in the presentations but will not actually curtsey before the king.

Parties Mark "Season's" End.

The two garden parties mark the end of the "season." Tuesday, July 21, marks the end of the six months' period of full court mourning for King George, and after that only half mourning will be observed.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian and Mrs. Roper arrived in England the first of this week and have been spending the week sightseeing while awaiting the arrival of Secretary Roper.

U. S., GERMANY AGREE TO SETTLE BLACK TOM CASE

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

MUNICH, July 17.—The German-American mixed claims commission, which has been conferring here for two weeks, has reached a tentative agreement on United States war claims against Germany, including the Black Tom explosion case. Its findings will be communicated to the state department for approval.

Robert W. Bonynge, the United States agent before the commission, sailed for New York to report to Secretary of State Hull. The negotiators agreed not to discuss this agreement until Bonynge made his report.

Rehearing Granted.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Reports that the German government had agreed to a settlement of the Black Tom explosion case and other war claims were without official confirmation here today. Germany originally won in arbitration of the Black Tom case, but a rehearing was granted when Robert W. Bonynge said he had new evidence and charged that some of the German evidence in the first arbitration was fraudulent.

JAPAN TO SPEND $580,000,000 IN 5 YEARS ON NAVY

TOKIO, July 17.—(AP)—A five year naval program costing 2,000,000,000 yen [$580,000,000] was reported by two Japanese newspapers today. The program includes construction of at least two capital ships and extensive expansion of the naval air force in 1937-'38, the papers declared.

Admiral Osami Nagano, minister of the navy, will present the program to Premier Koki Hirota and other members of the cabinet in the near future, the newspaper Yomiuri said.

Yomiuri predicted naval appropriations for 1937-'38 would total between 650,000,000 and 700,000,000 yen [$185,500,000 and $203,000,000], as compared to 560,000,000 yen [$135,400,000] for 1936-'37.

Burke of Cincinnati, and Louis I. Biskupski of Peoria, Ill. Bishop Joseph P. Lynch of Dallas, Tex., was made an assistant at the papal threshold.

BOOKS

Famed Among the Naturalists Live in a Book

Romains' Fifth Volume Is Reviewed.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Green Laurels," by Donald Culross Peattie. [Simon & Schuster, $3.75.] Published Wednesday. August choice of the Literary Guild.

"The Earth Trembles," by Jules Romains. [Knopf, $3.] Published Monday.

"GREEN LAURELS," the Literary Guild's enthusiastic choice for August, is subtitled "The Lives and Achievements of the Great Naturalists," which gives the book a forbidding formality delightfully absent from its pages. Only to open the book at its foreword and read the first paragraph proves to the reader that he will find literary joys in the following pages, together with a rich, deep love of nature. "Of all things under the sun that man may love," writes Mr. Peattie, "the living world he loves most purely. In a lifetime's devotion to it there is no self-interest. Men so devoted tell us of their well-companioned days, but they are reticent about their best reward. In nature nothing is insignificant, nothing ignoble, nothing sinful, nothing repetitious. All the music is great music. All the lines have meaning."

What the reader finds is a book unlike any other. Filled with an infinitude of facts about the great naturalists, their individual lives and accomplishments is a long and lovely essay, rich with its author's own skilled observations of his material.

The book, begun in a March blizzard, indoors among musty books, tells first of the herbalists and the schoolmen, cramped in their observations, eager only for the rare, too "bookish" in their conclusions, trying to regiment nature to their own ideas. The book ends, in the summer, with the story of "one who cared little for books," the infinitely gentle, infinitely patient little school teacher of Provence who learned more about tiny common creatures than any man alive in his day, Jean Henri Fabre.

If you expect to find biographies of the great naturalists you will be disappointed. When you have finished reading about the arrogant Buffon, the unappreciated Reaumur; Linnæus, who gave his name to an age; Lamarck, who, like Reaumur, suffered from his enemies, but planted germs of thought which Darwin brought to full flower; Cuvier, who was a great scientist and a successful enemy; Bartram and Michaux, who first saw the beauties of the new continent with scientific eyes; Wilson and Audubon, who made their birds something more than lyric notes in a green wilderness; the hard working naturalists of New Harmony, Ind. [whose story will be a surprise to you, probably]; the romantic naturalists of Weimar, with Goethe as their poet laureate; Darwin, who was seasick for five years as the little beagle went nosing half way around the world, and Wallace, who stirred him into further dramatic conclusions on the pattern of nature, you will know a great many fascinating and interesting facts about a number of great men, but you will not have come to know any one of them intimately. What you will have come to know intimately is man's joy in searching for truth. These men are symbols of all men's passion for knowledge—the passion, if we may take the word of the prophets, which separates man from the beasts.

Mr. Peattie has a beautiful prose style. His "An Almanac for Moderns" was chosen last year as the book of the year most likely to become an American classic.

Mr. Peattie is a Chicagoan, the son of Elia W. Peattie, literary editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for some twenty years, and Robert Burns Peattie, a beloved editorial writer on THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. He is a naturalist by training and volition and a writer by the gift of God.

A History of Paris Written as Fiction.

Jules Romains' "Men of Good Will" is a tremendously vivid and impressive history of Paris in our times written in the form of fiction. How long it eventually will be only M. Romains can tell. The fifth volume, which gives us volumes nine and ten of the French edition, begins with the "dress rehersal" general strike in 1910 and ends with the Agadir crisis in 1911. There is no reason why, as long as M. Romains can write, the chronicle should ever stop—and that is said not in complaint but in hope, for this monumental novel is becoming one of the great fictional chronicles of all time.

Each of the books is self-contained in the sense that it has a fictional unity of idea, pattern, and movement. But for a complete knowledge one must read the series. Already the index of characters, which follows each volume, runs to thirty pages. It includes men, women, and children from Briand and other political leaders to the lowliest of the hungry in the streets.

The two volumes, "Flood Warning" and "The Powers That Be," included in "The Earth Trembles" celebrate the stirrings of revolution and of war in France in the days before the great war. The general strike "was not yet open revolution, but it was a dress rehersal which might eventually turn out to be the first act." War was not yet war, but a political juggling of fragile eggs which might well and did drop and smear a people and a world. How the politicians used the one threat against the other and how the workers did the same thing is the outermost structure of the two volumes. Its intricate inner structure is daily life in the great industrial suburbs north of Paris, in the halls of government, in the homes of the hundreds who people the pages.

Bentley Lauds G. K. Chesterton Autobiography

And Swinnerton Holds He Knows Subject.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON.—[Special Correspondence.]—When Mr. E. C. Bentley spoke recently about his old friend G. K. Chesterton, he expressed the opinion that Chesterton's Autobiography, which was finished two months ago, would be recognized as one of the great books of modern literature. And Mr. Bentley should know what he is talking about.

He and Chesterton were together at St. Paul school, and they have been closely associated ever since. While Chesterton stayed in London and attended the Slade school, Bentley went to Oxford, where he won a scholarship in history and was the contemporary of Mr. Hilaire Belloc. Thereafter the two men were constantly together and Mr. Bentley is one of the few who have had the pleasure of reading Chesterton's Autobiography in typescript. This book will be published by Hutchinson in September.

Mr. L. A. G. Strong's new novel, "The Last Enemy"* [Gollancz] is just published here, and will be found to be something in the vein of "Corporal Tune." The author, in a preface, expressly denies that the school portrayed is the one at which he taught for twelve years.

England shortly will be blazing with advertisments of the new novel by J. B. Priestley, "They Walk in the City,"† and the new novel by Francis Brett Young, "Far Forest,"‡ for which the publishers, Heinemanns, declare that they have set aside the greatest advertising appropriation given to any book or books in their list since the late Hall Caine's "Master of Man."

Both are long, Mr. Young's calculated to appeal to his regular readers, Mr. Priestley's perhaps likely to reach a wider public than any he has had since "Angel Pavement."

Mysteries of the Week

BY MORTIMER QUICK.

If you encountered that hard-headed, soft-hearted newspaper photographer, Kent Murdock, in "Murder with Pictures," you will be pleased to meet him again in "The Baretop Mystery" [Knopf, $2], by George Harmon Coxe. His rather oblique methods furnish considerable excitement and some surprises and the locale of the story in a small island in the Caribbean within hail of Barbados is interesting.

As Murdock investigates one murder a number of others take place but as nobody is of much account, anyway, no withers are wrung. However, out of not much of anything Mr. Coxe has built up a pretty good yarn and Murdock and his wife, Joyce, will probably be cruising around for the next few years turning up murders and malpractices.

The real hero of "The Dumb Witness" [Macaulay, $2], by T. Arthur Plummer is Skipper Marley, an engaging little black Schipperke, who suddenly goes berserk upon the sensational disappearance of his master and in the end is instrumental in bringing his murderer to justice. Nobody but Skipper could abide that master, Joseph Marley, but Skipper adored him and how he helped Andy Frampton of The Yard discover the secrets that made the Moated farm in Sussex a grim and murderous haunt makes a pretty entertaining story. Frampton is quite a nice sleuth though a little bright in the English manner, and there is a certain freshness in the way of recounting the various incidents of the tale that leads us to believe that Frampton may yet shine in the category with Inspectors French, Wilson, et al. Anyway, if you like dog stories this is a good mystery.

A Printer Supplies a Need with Book on Roadside Eating

Edward Lytton, the gentleman best known to histories of English literature as "Owen Meredith," author of "Lucile," wrote in that sentimental epic that

"We may live without friends; we may live without books;
But civilized man cannot live without cooks."

A statement which every motorist questions after eating too often in what barely escapes being the deathhouse. One of the greatest possible boons to travelers over the millions of miles of our vaunted concrete roads would be, I have always thought, a directory of good places to eat. And now comes "Adventures in Good Eating." It seems to be a labor of love, this guide to outstanding eating places in America.

Duncan Hines, the gentleman who has performed this service to motoring humankind, is a printer by profession who has compiled the book [and he prints it himself] because he and his wife like to motor and also like to eat. He has, he declares, "never accepted a free meal or any other consideration from any inn," and does not accept advertising for his directory.

Young Dexter Fairbank Will Wed Idaho Girl

Ceremony Will Take Place Late in August.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM Lewiston, Idaho, comes the announcement of the engagement of one of Chicago's young bachelors, Dexter Fairbank Jr., son of Mrs. Dexter Fairbank. Young Mr. Fairbank's bride-to-be is Miss Marjorie Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Billings, who live in Lewiston, and in that western town late in August, probably on the 28th, Mr. Fairbank and Miss Billings will be married.

The romantic news will come as a surprise to Chicago friends of the Fairbank family. The bridegroom-to-be has been in the lumber business in the far west since he was graduated from the University of Chicago a year and a half ago. Mr. Fairbank and his bride will live in Everett, Wash., for three months. After that he expects to be transferred east, so his relatives and friends here undoubtedly will have an opportunity to meet the new Mrs. Fairbank then.

Mrs. Fairbank met Mr. and Mrs. Billings and their daughter when she visited her son in Idaho last spring. Miss Billings went to school in Spokane, Wash., and was graduated in June from Mills college in California. Mrs. Fairbank, her daughter, Miss Lucy Fairbank, and her other son, Graham, are planning to go west for the wedding.

Next week Mrs. Fairbank is going to Harbor Springs, Mich., to visit Mrs. Joseph E. Otis at Birchwood farm and to help her arrange a sale that Mrs. Otis holds at the farm every summer for the benefit of the Vocational Society for Shut-Ins. The sale is to take place on July 28. The following week, at Charlevoix, Mrs. Frederick H. Scott is arranging another sale of the articles made by the Shut-Ins.

Season Hits Stride at Harbor Point.

The summer season at Harbor Point is getting into full swing today with the opening of the Little Harbor club tonight at a dinner-dance. Miss Sally Perry, sub-deb daughter of Mrs. I. Newton Perry, is giving a buffet supper at her mother's cottage before taking her guests to the club dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Barkhausen have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Helen Strong, to Andre James Perry on Saturday afternoon, Aug. 1, at 4 o'clock at their lovely cottage which they recently acquired. It has been many years since Harbor Point has been able to look forward to such a charming social event.

Mrs. Charles Renshaw and her son, Charles Jr., have arrived in Harbor Point to spend the rest of the season. Miss Harriet Monroe was a guest of Miss Joanna Fortune at Wequetonsing last week, and Mrs. Elizabeth Shay Ricker is visiting Miss Fortune now.

Fishing for lake trout is becoming a popular pastime. Lawrence Callahan and a group of friends have been early birds at the fishing grounds, and so have Andrew Berkey, who came north with friends. Mr. Berkey and his fishermen friends brought in one of the record catches of the season, four trout weighing sixty pounds.

Orville Taylor Flies to Bohemia Club Outing.

Orville Taylor left early yesterday by airplane for San Francisco to attend the annual outing of the Bohemia club of that city in its beautiful 2,000 acre tract of redwoods. This will be Mr. Taylor's first time at the Bohemia grove as a member, although he has been there several times as a guest. He and Irvin Cobb are new members of Woof Camp and during the next two weeks they and about 998 other men from all over the country will enjoy life in the Eveless paradise that they all consider Bohemia grove to be.

Today the cremation of care will take place and all worries will be burned. Next Saturday the festivities will be entitled Low Jinks and the outing will reach a closing climax the following Saturday, Aug. 1, with High Jinks. David A. Crawford and Charles A. Liddle are among the other Chicagoans to attend the affair, although they will not be there for the opening ceremonies for they are going west by train, stopping en route in Dallas to visit the Texas Centennial. Charles Knickerbocker, another Chicago member, is in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., for the summer.

John Bordens and Niece Return to Muskegon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Borden and their niece, Miss Mary Borden Turner, have returned to Muskegon after spending several days here. Miss Turner is the daughter of Mr. Borden's sister, Mrs. Edward L. Spears of London. The Bordens spent a day in Lake Forest introducing Miss Turner to her cousins, Mrs. Adlai E. Stevenson, and Mrs. Robert S. Pirie. Next week Miss Turner is returning east to visit her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Zlatko Balokovic, the former Joyce Borden, who are occupying the old Borden summer home at Camden, Me., for the season.

Parties Will Precede Lassie Stakes Today.

There will be many parties at the Post and Paddock club at the Arlington race track this afternoon where the annual Lassie stakes, the second richest event of its kind in the United States, is being run. Among those who will be entertaining are Mr. and Mrs. John E. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Silas H. Strawn, Thomas E. Wilson,

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A Chicago beauty salon has inaugurated a summer "repair service" for wilting women. In between visits to the beauty shop one can stop in to have hair ends curled, nail polish changed and face freshened by a brief treatment and a makeup. It's perfect after a week-end or at the end of a hard day that is to be climaxed by an engagement. [TRIBUNE Studio Photo.]

A Chicago beauty salon has a nice innovation for those of us who must carry on, well groomed and serene, no matter what the thermometer reads nor how tired we are. This is called a "Summer repair service" and here's how it works:

If you've had a hectic week-end that has left its mark on the manicure, the hair-do, and the general feeling of being spruced up that you found in the beauty salon the preceding Thursday or Friday you can stop in at this salon on Monday morning for repairs. They'll change the polish on your nails, curl up the ends of your hair and give you a brief, rejuvenating facial and a swell makeup; in the course of an hour you'll look and feel fresh again.

Or if you're a business girl you can avail yourself of this repair service between visits to your regular beauty operator. If a heavy date pops up the night before you're due to get all fixed up as usual, stop in at the salon on your way to dinner [phone first for an appointment, though] and get your looks organized. The end curls dribbling down your neck will be tightened up, which is always a great help.

The brisk clean-up treatment consists of a little stimulation and plenty of creaming. The makeup that follows is artful and expertly applied.

This summer repair service is sold only in courses. Buy six at a time and spread them out over the summer, popping in to have one when you know you need it most. You'll find that each visit to be spruced up a bit is a pleasant, soothing experience. And we don't have to tell you what it means to have face and hair refreshed for important occasions. Psychologically, it's grand!

New Handbags Match Colors of the Dress

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Summer life is strenuous on all-white costume accessories, especially the bags that are carried persistently with colors or dark costumes. Gloves and footgear clean with regularity, while the handbags defy the daily tub or sponge with an infuriating quality that ruins the best disposition. Especially is this true of fabric handbags. But the trick is to wear white gloves, hats, and shoes, and use bags the color of your dress. Therefore the newest finds should go out fast—the goodly collections of colored linen numbers to be found in the shops.

One assortment is more than easy to take . . . prices, colors, and styles are what you want. Big flat models, stunning pouches, and effective envelopes with lether trim are found in this collection. But it's the colors that make them the big spotlight stealers among the appreciative shop hounds. Black, a nice dull black, natural color, henna, a lovely raspberry red, orchid, yellow, china blue, and a darker shade are but a few of the finds. Luscious shades to match any dress or costume you have.

The linen is a smooth soft texture, not stiff or bulky, or starchy looking; the frames are mostly covered with the same linen, or may be found in smooth, soft brown wood or the cool white woods. These bags are fully lined with the linen that covers the outside surface, the coin purses, and extra slits or compartments are also of the same linen, skilfully tailored and designed.

Russell Thaw, Kay Roberts Are Wed in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—[Special.]—Russell W. Thaw, 29, son of Evelyn Nesbit and Harry K. Thaw, was married here today to Miss Kay Roberts, of a socially prominent Los Angeles family. The ceremony took place in the drawing room of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Roberts, parents of the bride. The bride is 22. There were no attendants. The couple will reside at White Plains, New York, where Thaw is an aviation company officer.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. George Wenban of Lake Forest announce the engagement of their daughter, Jane, to Dr. Donald Wilson Hastings, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Hastings of Madison, Wis. The wedding will take place on Aug. 22 at the Presbyterian church in Lake Forest and Dr. Hastings and his bride will live in Philadelphia. Miss Wenban is a graduate of Ferry Hall and Lake Forest college and attended Northwestern university. Dr. Hastings is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin medical school.

WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. John Hunt Burke of 905 Michigan avenue, Evanston, announce the marriage this afternoon of their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, to Bonham McFarland Fox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Fox of Asbury avenue, Evanston. The ceremony will take place at 4 o'clock at the Georgian hotel, Evanston, followed by a reception. The bride's sister, Mrs. Wesley Wigginton, will be matron of honor, and Mr. Wigginton will be best man.

Too Much Exposure to Sun May Rob Hair of Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Don't get reckless with your hair, girls. The sun can rob it of oil, of color, of texture in a brief time of exposure. After all, the beach season only lasts a two or three of the twelve months, and a little care now will spare you months of reconditioning work later. I speak with fervor on the subject because I just have seen an amazing color washout due to the sun's devastating rays.

There's nothing better for the oily haired woman than to sun her hair daily, separating the strands to let the sun get right to the roots. But the dry haired girls are in for it, if they don't cover up those locks during two, three and four hour sessions on the beach. True, one must dry the hair after coming out of the water. But soon as it is dry, cover it with one of the beach headgear offerings.

If you have had any tinting done to your hair, be especially careful. A lightly hennaed head I saw the other day was coming through with orange streaks from the strong ray contact. Blondes, especially, must preserve their hair from overexposure to the sun.

I repeat that a little sun is good for all hair. But a great deal of sun will extract the oil from the hair just as it does from the skin. And there is no becoming makeup for the hair to cover the damage done.

Unless the hair is extremely oily, wash the salt water out quickly. You get a hard, brittle effect otherwise. The sun pouring down on a salt-water-soaked head does things to the natural hair coloring.

And don't go around with wet hair, as many do claiming that they did not have time to dry the hair after the swim. Take time to dry it thoroughly if you wish to escape future hair problems. You may wash your hair as often as you like, providing you dry it thoroughly. You might arm yourself with one of those little kits containing cake of soap and shampoo oil when you go to the beach.

Should Poverty Weary Mother Get Vacation?

Your Gift to Camp Fund May Decide.

BY MARCIA WINN.

It was a festive occasion at Camp Algonquin last night. A hundred new campers, awed at the sight of trees and running water and vast stretches of sky, had arrived, and the "old" campers, veterans of a week, set out to entertain them.

All the campers gathered in the assembly grounds, a vast semi-circular hollow near the banks of the Fox river. The campers are all Chicago tenement mothers and children sent out for two week encampments by readers of THE TRIBUNE and the United Charities.

The new hundred, slightly abashed at this strange new world so devoid of blistering heat, policemen, street cars, bill collectors, and mundane worries, sat a little apart at first. And looked.

Gradually, however, they crowded in closer toward the center of the circle. There was a play, "The King Falls." And dancing. And group games. And finally, that universal breaker of reserve, music—and loud, lusty songs. And again, for the ninth time this summer, a new hundredfold had found happiness in Camp Algonquin.

The arrival of the new 100 at the Tribune camp, located forty-five miles northwest of Chicago, makes a total of 340 mothers and children now at the camp, free for two weeks of worry, poverty, and empty larders, and a total of 880 who have been there already this summer.

Readers of THE TRIBUNE are not sending in contributions this year, however, with their customary speed and generosity, and unless the camp fund shows a sudden increase, many Algonquin activities may have to be curtailed, and many would-be campers will have to remain vacationless.

A gift of $9.10 makes the two week outing possible for one child, $25.20 for a mother and her two children. Donations of any amount, from pennies, on, will be gladly accepted. Yesterday's contributions were:

David and Belly Newey	$ 5.00

'Bride Walks Out' Is an Ideal Comedy Drama

"THE BRIDE WALKS OUT."
Produced by RKO-Radio.
Directed by Leigh Jason.
From a story by Howard Emmett Rogers.
Presented at the Palace theater.

THE CAST

Carolyn Martin	Barbara Stanwyck
Michael Martin	Gene Raymond
Hugh McKenzie	Robert Young
Paul Dodson	Ned Sparks
Mattie Dodson	Helen Broderick
Smokie	Willie Best
Mr. McKenzie	Robert Warwick
Donovan	Billy Gilbert
Malmie	Hattie McDaniels

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Two can live as cheaply as one." You've heard it said, haven't you?

Well, the hero of this movie, a budding civil engineer, believes such to be true. The heroine, a mannequin—doesn't. When circumstances seem to prove the lady is right, why—she walks out.

This production presents an odd sort of triangle. The "other man" [Robert Young] proves a cement instead of a separator!

You will find "The Bride Walks Out" really a peach of a comedy drama. Barbara Stanwyck—she looks a lot happier since she left Frank Faye—is at her delightful best. Gene Raymond doesn't fail to do the usual—turn out a performance sure to make feminine hearts flutter and masculine ones shrivel up like grapes in California sunshine.

As for Robert Young—he's just grand! He's been turning out some nicely balanced comedy stuff lately.

Helen Broderick, Ned Sparks, and Billy Gilbert cause you to laugh and laugh. All told the cast is an excellent one.

Several rib tickling situations, bright dialog and a palatable seasoning of pathos do their bit toward making "The Bride Walks Out" what it is—ideal summer film fare.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Did you boys and girls ever know a pleasant secret you were just busting to tell? Well, that's the spot I'm in right now. I have some good news, concerning our next party, which I can't tell you until tomorrow, but I know you're going to be tickled when you do find out about it.

The Sunday TRIBUNE will tell you all about it, and how to win an invitation to our next entertainment. You'll also find the list containing the names and addresses of the boys and girls who will be invited to our Stevens hotel party next Thursday, when we'll go up to the big playroom, 'way up high in the big building, and have a grand time.

Naturally some of the youngsters who wrote in will be disappointed—I wish I could take every child who sent in a request, but 100 boys and girls are about all I can manage at one time. I had to eliminate a number of letters because the writers forgot our rules and left out some of the necessary information. There were quite a few children who didn't mail their letters in time, and they didn't reach me until too late.

However, you'll all have a chance to try again, and when you see the announcement of our next party—I know that wild horses won't keep you from writing a letter in a hurry!

Women Have Special Evening at Grant Park

Their Orchestra, Choruses Give Program.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Last night's Grant park concert—the seventeenth of the series—was dedicated in an especial manner to the women of the Chicago district.

On the stage of the band shell, as the hour of 8 approached, were the Women's Symphony orchestra, under Ebba Sundstrom, and a singing group made up of the Elmhurst Woman's Choral club and the Medinah Ladies' chorus. In the vast, sky roofed auditorium which stretches south toward the Field museum waited a large concourse of people composed in part of various women's organizations of the city and suburbs bent on honoring the famous orchestra and bidding Miss Sundstrom, who is leaving shortly for Europe, a friendly farewell.

The musicians rose nobly to the occasion and gave the fertile Mr. Suppe's "Schöne Galathea" overture and the smiling "Italian" symphony of Mendelssohn performances whose verve and brightness accorded well with the gala spirit of the evening.

This symphony is a good outdoor item. Mendelssohn succeeded in filling its four sanguine movements with the spiritual essence of that aspect of nature represented by bland skies, cheerful sunlight, and a moderate degree of lushness. He allowed no moody questionings to creep into the work.

Miss Sundstrom set a smart pace in the symphony but kept its swift joyousness lucid throughout. The ovation at the end she passed on to the orchestra.

Helen Leefelt took Miss Sundstrom's baton to direct the singing group through three numbers. Her spirited beat made much of the lilting "Blue Danube" and "Carmena"; in the contrasting "Homing" which stood between there was enough definition of rhythm to prevent any of the dragginess which can so easily disfigure performances of songs as sentimental as this. The chorus has a round, satisfying tone, rather than extreme brilliance.

Before the intermission, Pierre Andre, commentator for the Grant park concerts, introduced several women prominent in the artistic life of Chicago. Among them was Mrs. Edward Morris, president of the Woman's Symphony Orchestral association.

Before a crowd which filled every seat in the recently erected stands and milled in thousands over the encircling lawns, the Chicago park district presented last night at Buckingham fountain a dance pageant based on the story of Undine the Water Sprite. Much of it took place in the watery jets themselves, with vari-colored lights adding brilliance to the spectacle.

Taking part in the production were about 300 girls, most of them trained in the various park centers of the city. Erika Thimey, who had worked out the choreography, danced the leading rôle. The music was drawn entirely from Gluck.

There will be two more performances at the fountain—tonight and tomorrow night at 9:00 o'clock.

Bust of Mundelein Is Unveiled at Club for Catholic Women

A bust of Cardinal Mundelein was unveiled last night in the ballroom of the Illinois Club for Catholic Women at 820 North Michigan avenue in recognition of the club's program of social service work and the cardinal's inspiration of this service. The presentation was one of the events of the club's three day fiesta, which ends tonight.

Eugene Romeo, the sculptor, praised the social service work of the club. Mrs. Frank J. Lewis, president of the club, accepted the bust.

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil unveiled the bust.

Front Views and Profiles

By June Provines

REMEMBER the story of the spinster who, asked to come to a party at the Broadmoor Country club dressed to represent a book title, arrived wearing the word "Quintuplets" in large letters across her front, thus representing Sinclair Lewis' "It Can't Happen Here"? A girl named Vincent writes from Plattsville, Wis., that a group at the country club there was laughing about the incident, and it was related to one man who had not read the story.

Guess—Sign—Vacation.

"Now, Clyde, what book do you think the spinster represented?" inquired one woman before the narrator had arrived at the point.

"Magnificent Obsession," he retorted.

* *

"DI E AND DANCE."

Dance and Di e would have been more to the point, however.

* *

THERE will be no "Front Views and Profiles" for two weeks. Instead of pondering what the next paragraph will be, we shall bend our fragile wits toward deciding whether to recline under the trees or go down to the beach. Whether to walk with the terriers through a winding woodland path of pine needles and moss that springs under the foot or read Thomas Mann's "Stories of Three Decades" lying with uncut pages, at hand. Thornton Wilder once commented to his class at the University of Chicago that life is made up of innumerable tiny choosings. Which is either a comforting or an appalling thought, depending upon your temperament.

* *

WE shall be in a lodgelike domicile in the north Michigan woods, on a bluff overlooking Little Traverse bay, blue vistas of which greet the eye, seen between the trunks of white birch and pine and maple. A half hour to the west are two Indian villages; a half hour to the east is the town, where ancient surreys pulled by horses wait at the railroad station and old canoes filled with petunias are considered the perfect adornment for the front yard.

There is a place, near the lodge, to pick fresh mint for the mint juleps beside a little spring that gushes out of the hill; the cream, thick and lumpy, is bought from a farmer in the vicinity, and the garden vegetables from Mrs. Robinson, a piece down the main road. Chipmunks hide in the dry leaves, offering a perpetual game for Sandy, the terrier, who will, as usual, remain bright-eyed, eager, and watchful even during his reprimands for chasing them; black squirrels scurry across the paths, and, unless woodland ways have changed in this vicinity, the sound of the song sparrow may be heard until 8 o'clock in the evening. . . . Boy! Copy ready! The last column for two weeks. We're going home to pack shorts and slacks and bathing suits and, in case it should turn cool, happy thought—sweaters and a lether jacket.

Women Seek to Curb Politics in Federation

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

While the board members of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs were discussing the extension of the merit system in public office yesterday in the Stevens hotel, they cast a critical eye about their own dooryard.

There can be politics—and very bitter politics—in the most non-partisan, idealistic organization, they agreed. But what to do about it?

Clean up federation elections, they concluded. Put the best qualified women into the jobs. Forget about frayed traditions that dictate, for instance, that the vice president should succeed to the presidency.

"If she is the best person for the job it is quite all right to make the vice president or the convention chairman the new president, but it's foolish to let old-fashioned precedent dictate if she isn't the best qualified," commented Miss Charl O. Williams of Washington, D. C., national president of the business and professional women.

In line with the "clean up" program the federation directors banned special trains for carrying delegates to organization conventions.

The frosting on the cake, as far as the board meeting was concerned, came last night when the members dressed up in their formal gowns and attended their annual banquet. Mrs. Mary R. Beard, historian and lecturer, and Miss Grace Abbott of the University of Chicago discussed the business woman's special responsibilities.

In her address Mrs. Beard warned against dictatorship. "The Nazis declare that 'Man is soldier and servant of the state; woman is mother and servant of man,'" Mrs. Beard said. "In that social, economic, political system there is no room for attention to individuality. The state alone has personality. Its subjects are merged in its objectives. Its dictator alone has self-responsibility. And should Fascism get a hold on American soil, it is such a concept of the perfect good that business women, with all other women, would have to accept."

SHERIDAN ROAD

By Helen Topping Miller

SYNOPSIS.

Eden Faraday, young secretary, opens the door of a taxi and finds a man murdered. She is taken to the police station, where she meets Jack Garnett, newspaper cameraman, and Owen Field, assistant district attorney, who arranges her release. Eden had been mistaken for Gracie Lincoln, a gunman's widow. The man murdered was a notorious racketeer, Grappi. Eden's mother, Bridget Faraday, sells gowns and is in love with suave Sidney Creighton. Eden and her spoiled young sister, Robin, and brother, Coburn, depend on their peppery grandmother. Because of a rumor that Eden can identify the murderers Owen Field has her guarded. Raquel Rusak, an older woman, is trying to force Coburn Faraday to marry her. Robin is carrying on a secret flirtation with Sidney Creighton. Eden goes with Garnett to see Gracie Lincoln, now married to Clint Jarvis, a taxi driver, who has been forced to drive the murderers of Grappi. Eden promises to help Clint gain an audience with Mat Burke, district attorney, friend of her grandmother. On his way there Clint is deliberately run down by a car. Garnett, with Eden and Gran, brings Gracie to the hospital. Coburn has told Eden about Raquel and she promises to get him money to go away. Gran leaves to meet Coburn. Owen Field drives Eden home. Gran returns without seeing Coburn. Garnett brings Gracie Lincoln to Eden's home. Running away from Raquel, Coburn calls at Sidney Creighton's and finds Robin there. She tells him they were married that afternoon.

INSTALMENT XXX.

BOTH IN WRONG.

"I see it all, Coburn." Robin's blue eyes were icy. "Papa went out and bought an expensive shotgun because it was to be a very informal wedding."

"You're crazy, as usual. You've got me wrong. She hasn't any claim on me—she says she's in love with me——"

"Congenital idiocy, of course."

"Go on and say any damn thing you please, only don't shove me out there where she can see me."

"You mean she's out there—hunting for you in this building? I don't believe it."

"Bobs—don't open that door!"

Robin considered him, her small, lovely, too matured face grave. "You're really scared," she agreed at length. "My heavens, tell the female you don't want her!"

"It's no use. I've told her. I've insulted her. She hasn't any pride. I'd have to kill her, Bobs, to get away. She walked into the gym over at school today and dragged me out. I had to go or have a sensational scene pulled off before all those fellows. I was going to skip out—go south on a fruit boat——"

"Not a bad idea. You can still skip, can't you?"

"Not if you open that door. Not if she finds me."

"She must be a ruthless creature. Who is this Amazon?"

"You wouldn't know her."

"We might as well sit down. I'll explain you to Sidney and we'll think up something. And we might talk about me. I'm married. You haven't said anything about that."

Coburn sat dizzily on the edge of a chair. He felt queerly light and empty. He was very young and had eaten only a sketchy breakfast and no lunch. The odors of food from Ricco's kitchen made him giddy. Robin looked at him sharply.

"You need a drink," she said.

But he shook his head. "No—I don't want anything. Some coffee, maybe, if you've got any——"

"Ricco can make some. I'll tell him." She pattered away in her babyish sandals, her toenails enameled sapphire blue to match her pajamas.

Coburn relaxed a little. For the first time in days he felt safe. The reaction was a little upsetting. His stomach quivered and was cold. He felt wistfully young, as though he wanted to cry.

He dragged his thoughts away from his own troubles and thought about Bobs. She was a bride. She had married Sidney Creighton. Their mother—Coburn wondered if she knew. She would take it badly.

Robin had been planning this all along—the sly little devil!

She wanted money and ease, she was deliberately selfish. Now she had married a man twenty-five or thirty years older than herself. But she appeared to be happy and satisfied.

She moved through the rooms with a childish pride of possession, with a little flourish of triumph. And there was nothing to be done now but accept things as they were. His mother would have to see that.

Thinking of his mother made him feel a little weak with self-pity. Tears came into his eyes and his throat hurt. He would, he told himself solemnly, go away—make something of himself, make them all proud of him. He would go south and ride the proud trade winds home.

"O, I know. I'm an ass. I admit it. But—if I can just get away, Bobs—it's in my blood—ships, blue water—the salt wind! All this school business has been a rotten waste. Mother will hate it——"

"Mother will hate my marrying Sidney. We're both in wrong—we might as well stick together. But you can just skip out and write a letter. I can't—I have to live here. Almost on the same street—seeing them every day——"

"I hate hurting mother," Coburn said ruefully. "She's so darned proud and capable. You feel that she despises you so thoroughly. She wants us to be magnificent, scholars, rating Phi Beta keys and all that rot, yet we didn't come from magnificence, as I see it. Our father was no dazzling success. I've heard enough to know that."

"That's why mother has fought so hard, Coburn. She must have loved him but she despised him a little too. Women always despise a man who doesn't click even when they're quite mad about them. She wanted to prove to him—even after he was dead—she wanted to show Gran and all of us that success was easy. That all any one needed was a brain and a terrible purpose. She wanted that comforting sense of superiority and the chance to be a trifle arrogant. It helps with a mother-in-law, you know. Mother had to have that. And then, because she had missed all the tender things a woman needs along, she got too fond of Sidney. I'm never going to be forgiven. She may pretend to—but she never will, really."

Tears misted Robin's blue eyes, and Coburn felt a sudden surge of protective tenderness. He had never seen Robin disturbed before. Always she had been pert, assured, glassily self-sufficient. He put an arm around her and they clung together, childishly. Robin sniffed and scrubbed her small nose and laughed shakily.

"Odd—we never have talked before, Coburn. I wish we had. Sidney should be in soon. He'll know what's best for you to do. He'll help you get away. Don't worry."

"No. I think I want to rest a little."

"Take this pillow—there." She straightened his limbs with little motherly gestures, her eyes shining.

She noticed for the first time in her nineteen years that Coburn was really very good looking. Just a trace of weakness in the mouth and chin—the same arrogant arch of brow and nostril that gave all the Faradays a flair of distinction.

When Creighton came a few minutes later, Coburn was fast asleep.

Creighton listened gravely to Robin's whispered account of the boy's predicament.

"We'll get ourselves in even worse favor with Bridget than we are now," he said. "If we help him get away—but I'll do whatever you say, Bobby."

"I love you when you are fatherly like this! We'll help him, I think. And some day mother will see that we are right."

Sidney Creighton smiled, crookedly, and rumpled her hair. He was a little sorry for Bridget. Bridget would never understand that he was a young man, yet. Only a little older than Robin at this moment.

Owen Field was angry.

His anger had been mounting through the day, and when late in the afternoon he stopped in at the hospital and learned from the man he had left on guard there that Gracie Lincoln had disappeared, his wrath flared into bitter rage.

That Garnett had had something to do with her disappearance, he was convinced. And after blasting the man who had let Gracie elude him, Field set out on a determined crusade, first to the office of the Tribune, but little was to be learned there. Jack Garnett, he was informed, was a free lance operator, loosely attached to the paper.

Henry Ford to Speak at McGuffey Ceremony Today

Oxford, O., July 17.—(AP)—Citizens of this little southwestern Ohio village swung today into the final week of preparations for observing the centennial of the "McGuffey Readers."

July 24 and 25. Henry Ford, possessor of one of the largest collections of McGuffey lore, is to speak tomorrow, as will W. T. H. Howe, president of a book publishing house which for many years published the readers. The famous old school books first appeared in 1836.

BY MARY MEADE.

The Old Witch's house had a gingerbread roof all right. But of what do you suppose the window-sills were made? Chocolate waffles! Hansel and Gretel just couldn't help nibbling and that's how the old witch caught them.

But since it all came out right in the end, and the Old Witch instead of Gretel got baked in the oven, the children were never sorry they'd eaten the waffle window-sills. The story book forgot to mention this, youngsters, but the very next week after their adventure, Hansel and Gretel called on the Old Troll baker who had baked the window-sills and most of the gingerbread roof for the Old Witch, and asked him for his recipe for chocolate waffles.

First, the Old Troll told the boy and girl, remember that these waffles are dessert. Stir up your waffle-batter, starting about a half hour before mealtime, and have the mixture ready in a pitcher or bowl so that you can start in to bake them as soon as the dishes from the dinner course have been cleared away. The waffle iron must be hot—hot enough to make a nice sizzling noise when you drop a sprinkle of water on it.

1. You'll need a mixing bowl, an egg beater, a wooden spoon, and the measuring cup and measuring spoons. You'll also want butter, sugar, eggs, milk, pastry flour, chocolate, cinnamon, vanilla, baking powder, and salt. And some whipping cream to make a snowy topping for the waffles.

2. Measure ½ cup of butter into your bowl and mix it with the spoon until it is soft and creamy. This will take a good deal of "elbow grease" but it will be worth it.

3. Now add 1 cup of sugar to the butter, a little at a time, stirring it in well so that it makes a light, fluffy mixture. The more you mix the sugar with the butter, the better the waffles should be.

4. Break 2 eggs into another bowl and beat them with the egg beater until they are very frothy.

5. Pour the beaten eggs into the butter and sugar and also pour in ½ cup of milk. Mix in carefully without spattering over the edge of the bowl.

6. Now melt 2 squares of chocolate over a very low fire—just enough heat to warm it.

7. While the chocolate is melting, sift some flour into a pan and measure out 1½ cups of it, spooning the flour lightly into the cup. Now sift the measured flour two or three times, adding 2 teaspoons of baking powder [level the teaspoons off with a knife], and a pinch of salt.

8. Sift the flour mixture into the first mixture now, beating hard. Use the egg beater again to get out all the lumps. Now add the chocolate and 1 teaspoon of vanilla and a pinch of cinnamon. Stir the batter until the chocolate is well mixed.

9. Pour the batter into a clean pitcher or bowl and place in the refrigerator until you are ready to bake the waffles.

10. Pour ½ pint of whipping cream into a clean bowl and beat it with the egg beater until it begins to thicken. Then add gradually ½ cup powdered sugar and beat until it is stiff. Now add ½ teaspoon vanilla, a few grains of salt and allow to set in refrigerator until time to spoon it generously to the baked waffles. That's all!

Film Actress Kissed 467 Times in Day to Test Leading Men

She was kissed exactly 467 times. Director Howard Hawks was testing three young leading men for a rôle opposite her in the film, "Come and Get It." The major part of the work in the picture will consist of kissing kissable Miss Leeds. So they started the trial osculations.

Francis X. Shields, black haired New Yorker, and former tennis champion, kissed her from 9 until noon. Boy Lowrey took up the "task" for two hours after luncheon. And then John Payne went into action. A script clerk kept track of the number of tests, and figured the number of kisses.

Shirt Frock for Juniors

JUNIOR SPORTS DRESS.

Juniors have been the greatest sponsors of the shirtwaist mode, and the delightful version illustrated today is designed especially for them. Young girls can't possibly possess too many tailored frocks in their summer wardrobes, and this model is a new version of a perennially favored mode.

The sleeves are plaited, giving extra room for the arm in action with tennis racket or golf club. The shirtwaist collar is rather wide, resulting in a decidedly youthful and girlish effect. A grosgrain ribbon bow to match the belt enhances the neckline. The yoke of the waist is squared, with the bodice shirred into it, providing adequate fullness. Generously sized buttons embellish the front closing.

The skirt has a center seam and a wide inverted plait, one of the important requisites for active sports frocks. One large pocket does duty on the side of the skirt.

Yellow cotton shirting madras is the fabric chosen for the original version of this smart dress. The belt and bow tie are of dark brown grosgrain ribbon.

This frock also is attractive, cool, and summery in sheer seersucker, piqué, shantung, cottons with linen weaves, linens themselves, and tub silks.

Style No. 2994 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17, and 19 years. Size 15 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material, with ½ yard of 2 inch ribbon for the bow.

Shirley Temple's Dad Trips Switch; Kidnap Bedlam Breaks Loose

Santa Monica, Cal., July 17.—(AP)—Shirley Temple's father accidentally demonstrated today that the stories of complicated mechanical "bodyguards" for famous movie children have a real background of fact.

Bells clanged, lights blazed, and a siren whined when the little star's father, George Temple, set off the apparatus in the Temple home while tripping the master switch this morning.

The houses of other million dollar babies are similarly protected with automatic gadgets. Should an intruder disturb them they are designed to light the house and grounds, lock the outer gates, and set up an ear-splitting jangle of bells and whistles fit to waken the neighborhood for miles around.

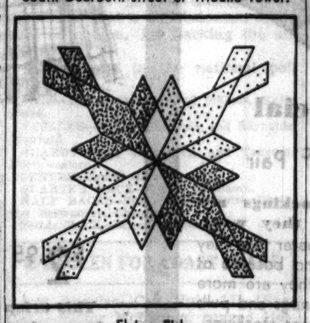
'Flying Fish' Quilt Had Its Origin in Maine Village

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices: One South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.



Flying Fish.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Flying Fish" also has been known as "Swallows." The first title is probably the best known, since that was the original name given the block when it was first pieced. A small village on the coast of Maine was the home of the block, and the original design was made of two shades of red and blue print materials set together and appliqued on a white ground. Thirty-two appliqués and thirty-one plain blocks surrounded by an eight inch border form a quilt which measures 86 by 106 inches.

According to CULBERTSON

STUBBORNNESS DOESN'T PAY.

Just as most brilliant plays can be placed in a definite category: Vienna coup, double squeeze, elimination play, etc., so the "bulls" at the bridge table run according to type. One of these types occurs frequently in the defense of no trump contracts. A defender doggedly plugs away at establishing a suit even though it would do him no good to establish it, since, as the bridgism goes, "he couldn't get into his own hand with a jimmy." Such a play as West made today, for instance.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	2 diamonds	Pass
*2 no trump	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

*South's two no trump bid was a distinct stretch.

West opened his fourth highest heart and dummy's nine could have held, but declarer saw at a glance that the bulk of his tricks had to come from the diamond suit. Therefore he overtook with the ten spot and led a diamond up to dummy. East captured the king with his ace and returned the five of hearts. Declarer ducked and West won with the king. Now, despite the fact that a long diamond suit, either established or within a trick of establishment, stared him in the face, and further despite the fact that he would have no quick entry for his heart suit after forcing out declarer's ace, West stubbornly continued with hearts. Declarer won, and after conceding the jack of diamonds to East, laid down the hand for nine tricks without even attempting a club finesse for the queen.

After West took the king of hearts elementary reasoning would have demanded a shift of leads. The diamond suit menace was pressing; it was vital to try a suit that might produce at least two tricks and produce them quickly! Dummy's club holding made that shift look unpropitious. The one remaining chance was in spades. That the declarer had started with a spade bid should have cut absolutely no ice; if the defenders couldn't get two spade tricks, they couldn't get two from anywhere!

Obviously, a spade shift would have defeated the contract handily.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: Defending against a no trump contract my partner opened a king of a suit in which dummy then showed the 9 6 4 and I held the 8 7 3. What card should I have played?

Answer: It depends on the rest of dummy's hand and the rest of yours. You might have wanted partner to shift, for all I can tell. But, generally speaking, the king lead against no trump calls for partner's second highest.

Child's Well Being Parents' First Concern

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"But you do put parents 'in a spot,'" she said, as we were finishing luncheon and personal concerns, and invariably returning to the subject of children. "You always put it up to them—at least you have in every article I've ever read."

"Not always," I said defensively. "You've missed the ones in which I admit that there are limits to the things for which a parent can be held responsible."

"But I'm not quarreling with you, I agree with you!" she protested.

"And," I went on, intent upon easing my conscience, "I've never had a letter from one of 'my mothers' in which I was accused of scolding them or giving them 'counsels of perfection,' or of being unsympathetic with their troubles."

If a purely academic or theoretical background were all that lay behind these talks, I might hold parents to account for all that happens to their children. But life as it is, not as it might be always is in the picture as I write, and so an understanding of the obstacles that get in the path of perfection always tempers my advice.

Where general advice is given in this column, and where personal advice is given in letters, it always is borne in mind that ideal conditions rarely exist. There are circumstances that we cannot always control—money, illness, neighborhood environment, relatives, marital difficulties, death, and these things I take into consideration.

But even so, we can't "take it" lying down. So, you as parents, and I as an adviser, would be lacking in courage, initiative, and determination if we did not realize that often where there's a will, there's a way, at least a pretty good way, and that we can modify those adverse conditions with which we are faced. We can give our children so much loving and intelligent care that they live at least normally, if not ideally.

Film Reflects Change in Style of Chorus Girls

Hollywood, Cal., July 17.—(AP)—Styles in chorus girls are changing, too. A census of 24 dancers working with Fred Astaire in the film "Swing Time" disclosed today that not one has dyed hair. They make up without false eyelashes or rouge.

Dogs of Films Get New Home on 5 Acre Lot

Owning 38 Canine Actors Is Profitable Business.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 17.—Henry East, who has accumulated a moderate fortune out of twelve years of training dogs for movies, is now being indulgent toward his dogs. He owns thirty-eight of them, some like Corky, a part Irish terrier, working in films nearly all the time, and others like his Great Danes, appearing only occasionally when dogs of dignity are required as "dress extras."

East has purchased a five acre tract near North Hollywood and is erecting an eight room bungalow. All eight rooms will house dogs.

The thirty-eight dogs will live in the house. Each room will have doors for the dogs. There is a special bathroom. Each dog's apartment will have its own cold running water.

Frank Weatherwax is the trainer of Corky and some of the other dogs although the boss himself generally handles Beans, the well known brindle and white bull terrier comedian of dog actors. Beans is now 12 and the W. C. Fields of dog actors.

Corky, an intelligent actor, made his most recent appearance as the pet of C. Aubrey Smith, in Marlene Dietrich's "Garden of Allah." Corky's first film appearance was with Jackie Cooper when only a four months old puppy. Corky just lapped up the business. Since then he has played everything from just dog to a cripple or a bark in the distance.

Beans is an actor who got to think so casually of his profession that, according to East, Beans' vast experience turned into a drawback. The dog got so he learned the difference between a rehersal and a "take" and wouldn't act when the director said "now let's just go through with the action." But he would snap into what was expected of him whentold "turn 'em over."

Veloz and Yolanda, the dance team, have arrived for featured rôles in "Champagne Waltz" with Gladys Swarthout at Parmount. The dancers evolved the waltz they will do for the special music in this picture from a recording of Ralph Rainger music mailed to them during personal appearances in the east.

Constance Bennett has returned to movies here after a considerable absence. Her picture, "Ladies in Love," at the Twentieth Century, has plenty of potential feminine thunder clouds, for Connie's co-featured players are Janet Gaynor, Simone Simon and Loretta Young. So far Miss Bennett has an edge onthe other girls for swank. An imported English limousine, about thirty feet long, stands in front of the sound stage. The car has a liveried chauffeur always ready to drive her from the sound stage to her dressing room, which is less than 100 feet distant. Several such auto trips are made daily. They do it in complete solemnity.

Edward H. Griffith, one time Chicago newspaperman, is the director who tackles the assignment, not so much of making the picture, but of trying to keep the four leading feminine players working together during the making of it.

Jackie Moran of Chicago is playing the boy rôle in Miss George's film "Valiant Is the Word for Carrie" at Paramount.

Summer Shoes Reduced to $4.95 pair

Higher priced shoes reduced (you have our late arriving warm weather to thank for their low price).

Dozens of styles—different versions of sandals, straps, and oxfords—the choice of the season's favored styles. They have the utmost in fashion and quality. In the group are white fabric, buckskin, white patent leather, pink, blue, green patent, combinations of white and pastel patent. Also white buckskin with black, blue or brown trimming. Every size in this group, but not in every style. The three styles sketched give you just an idea!

Shoes, Third Floor.

Turbans crown the smartest heads these days. This one of crepe is a particularly wearable style that is flattering to many different types. You can induce it to give you just the look you want—dignified or youthful, as the case may be—simply by adjusting the slant at which you place it on your head. One of the most favored ways is as illustrated. Crepe in white and colors. Also to be had in black milliner's velvet. Headsizes 22 to 23½.

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

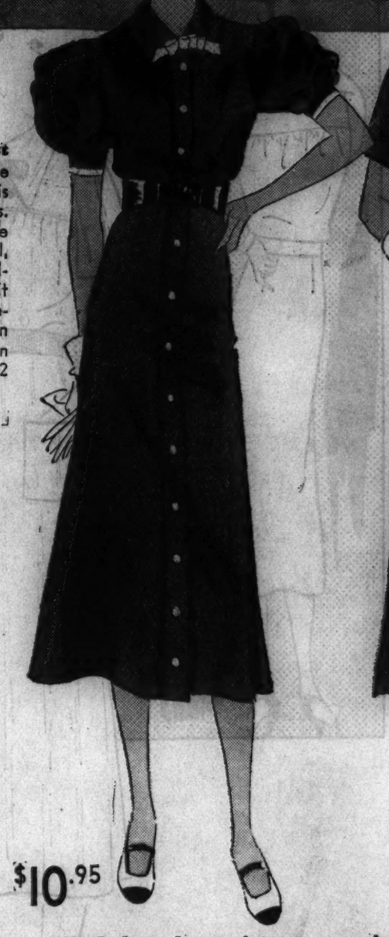
This crisp organdy has plenty of assurance wherever you wear it—it can even go out to dinner, if you like. Pleatings follow the buttons all the way from neck to hem, and there's a deep pleated flounce around the bottom. This frock is just one of several styles in permanent finish organdy. They come in a variety of shades, including one style in all white. 12 to 20. $2.95.

Sorry, No Mail Orders.
Cotton Shop, Fourth Floor.



$10.95

Dark sheers have a future as well as a present. This frock will continue to make a smart impression in town when the calendar says "Fall"—yet it is of a sheerness that can cope with high temperatures. The sleeves achieve their puffiness by shirring down the center. In black, brown, Scott green, romance blue with detachable white accents. 12 to 20.

Misses' Moderate Price Frocks, Fourth Floor.

A fall color in a summer fabric — and you have the type of dress that you can put on immediately for town wear, and keep wearing through September at the very least. This sharkskin weave sheer is a shirtwaist style, and uses sharp white accents to relieve the dark tones. In black, brown, navy. 12 to 42. $8.95.

Sorry, No Mail Orders.
Sports Shop, Fourth Floor.

$2.95

Bows for Teenya! Crisp organdy bows on shoulders and belt. This tennis frock of pindot dimity has a smart square neck, low in back. Red, aqua, navy, powder blue, or brown and white.

The same style may be had in pique (see back view in small sketch) flesh, white, powder, blue, or maize, with contrasting bows. 1 to 17. Each, $2.95.

Teenya Section, Fourth Floor.

Pique fashions this girls' frock, which is smart enough for "very best," and yet can take a play day in the sturdiest manner. It is pleated down the front, wears loop embroidery and cream colored collar and cuffs. Comes in the gayest of colors—Dubonnet, rust, peacock blue, navy. Sizes 7 to 12. One of many styles at $1.95.

15 RUN TODAY IN $37,100 LASSIE STAKES

BEES HALT CUBS, 5 TO 1; SOX BEAT SENATORS, 16 TO 5

BERGER SMACKS OUT HOME RUN WITH 2 ON BASE

Smith Holds Chicago to Six Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Old Bob Smith, who has spent most of his life thwarting the Cubs when and wherever opportunity offered, stood the lads on their heads again yesterday. The Chicagoans won the first two games of the series on a grand total of three runs, a fact that smokescreened a batting slump. But yesterday the Boston Bees weren't shut out as on Wednesday and Thursday, and the Cubs' shyness with their sticks was glaring. The Bees won with the greatest of ease, 5 to 1.

It is perhaps just as well that the light scoring Cub brethren were shown up in their recent slogan, "Let the pitchers do it." It was a grand idea while the pitchers were pitching shutouts almost every day. But they found yesterday that pitchers can't keep up a shutout program. It now may occur to the swatters that it will be a safe precaution to resume swatting.

The day's business here and in St. Louis, where a late homer by Johnny Mize enabled the Cards to salvage a game in the Philly series, left the Cubs in first place by a margin of one game, plus a slight percentage edge. The Cubs and Cards now have won the same number of games, but the Cardinals have suffered two more losses. The teams exchange adversaries today, the Bees going to St. Louis and the Phils coming to Chicago.

Well, It Was Somebody's Idea.

There was a whimsical touch to the fact that the Cubs' slumpful run producers weren't able to ride on the back of a pitcher yesterday. Curt Davis was started after two days' rest in order that Larry French and Bill Lee might rest a full week. This was not Larry's or Bill's idea, for neither is a petitioner for week long relaxation. And it probably wasn't Davis' idea, either, although he was perhaps plenty willing to make a try for his tenth victory of the season.

It sufficeth to say that the idea took a big flop in the fifth inning. Singles by Al Lopez and Rabbit Warstler, a double by Ruppert Thompson, a force play by Gene Moore and Wally Berger's No. 14 homer, knocked with Thompson and Moore on base, gave the Bees four runs in the fifth. This cluster broke a 1-all tie established in the first inning. Davis said adieu after that. Root and Bryant held the Bees scoreless the rest of the way.

Hack Scores Cubs' Run.

The Cubs made six hits off Smith, all singles and half of them by Bill Herman. Two of Herman's efforts were wiped out when Ken O'Dea hit into double plays. The other Cub hits were propelled by Phil Cavarretta and Pinch Batter Johnny Gill in the fifth and by Augie Galan, who scratched a hit off Tony Cuccinello's glove in the ninth. Smith walked only one. That one was Stan Hack at the start of the Cub offensive. Stan thereafter scored the only Chicago run.

The Bees played a nice series here and certainly rated at least the one victory in the set. It was the first game they had won at the Wrigley field in eight played here. It was their third victory in 15 played with the Cubs this season.

A ladies' day crowd of 23,508, of whom 7,508 were cash customers, saw the Bees score their victory.

Bees Finally Score.

The Bees made their first run of the series after two were out in the first inning. Moore doubled to right and scored on Berger's single to left. Berger reached third of Cuccinello's single to center, but the inning ended when Herman tossed out Lee.

The Cubs tied the score in their

Chelini Stops Senators as Sox Pile Up 16 to 5 Victory

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—There seems to be no limit to the skill of the versatile White Sox. Today they cruised to their fourth straight triumph, not in the manner of gentlemen, but in the fashion of big, bad, bold bruisers. They literally knocked the Senators to bits with a barrage of base hits and made a sweep of the three game series, 16 to 5. It was the eleventh victory for the revived Chicagoans in their last 14 battles.

As an appetizer for the Senators Manager Jim Dykes served an Italian dish known as Italo Chelini. The harassed locals didn't take kindly to the stuff with the southpaw flavor. They nicked the youngster at times, but mostly toward the finish, when his lead was so healthy that there was no reason to worry about the clinching of his third big league victory in four starts.

Chelini Can Tame Senators.

One of his previous decisions was over the same gang that suffered extensively today while pursuing his sweeping curve ball.

In keeping with the plan that proved so helpful in the two other games here, the Sox put on a big inning. They scored three in the first and one in the second, but these were merely warmups. They burst loose with the real doings in the third, and weren't stopped until eight runs had scored.

There were thirteen batters involved in this noisy escapade which swept Earl [Lefty] Whitehill out of the picture and caused no end of trouble for Syd Cohen, his rescuer. A bit later Cohen was roughed up some more and so was Pete Appleton, who was fairly good as a rescuer until the eighth.

Everybody Enjoys Field Day.

Rip Radcliff got in on enough of the hitting to keep himself close to Lou Gehrig in the hitting race. Rip helped himself to three hits in seven appearances. He was one of four Chicagoans who contributed three hits to the giddy doings. Zeke Bonura compiled three hits in three innings and scoring judgment cost him a fourth later on. Larry Rosenthal delivered three times after taking Mike Kreevich's place. Luke Sewell was the other three time contributor, two of his safeties appearing in that crazy third inning.

Sox Held to 3 Runs.

A stabbed line drive was all that kept the Sox from scoring about five instead of three in the first inning. Kreevich doubled with one out, and retired because of his injured ankle. Haas walked. Bonura singled to right, scoring Rosenthal, who had sup-

Largest Fleet Will Start 29th Mackinac Race Today

The 42 yachts leaving off Belmont harbor this afternoon for Mackinac island, and the five which started last night for Round island, constitute the largest fleet ever entered in a salt water or fresh water long distance sailing race. The Mackinac is the 29th annual race sponsored by the Chicago Yacht club. The Round island race is the first. Both races, each 331 statute miles in distance, finish at the same place.

Entries from thirteen yacht clubs, the largest representation in the history of the Mackinac race, will make the trip. Yacht clubs represented are the Seawanhaka-Corinthian, New York, Toledo, Grand Rapids, Spring Lake, Mich., South Shore, Milwaukee, Waukegan, Chicago, Chicago Corinthian, Columbia, Jackson Park, and Lake Shore A. C., of Chicago. Four years ago the Mackinac racing squadron numbered about 20. Last year, 38 sailers started from Belmont harbor.

About a third of the present fleet is entered for the first time. Interest of yachtsmen centers on four of these yachts, Southern Cross and Suez II. in class A, Rubaiyat in class B, and Warrior in the racing division.

Southern Cross is Old Vamare.

Southern Cross is Commodore Robert P. Benedict's new name for the 55 foot ketch Vamare, which recently he altered to a yawl rig. As Vamare, the yacht competed in the 630 mile New York-Bermuda race in 1932, has raced from Port Huron, Mich., to Mackinac Island, and since then has sailed on Lake Superior. Southern Cross' navagator will be Alfred Loomis.

Suez II. is a 60 foot schooner, owned by Charles Van Brunt Reilly, of the Milwaukee Yacht club. Rubaiyat, Commodore Nathaniel Rubinkam's 43 foot cutter, less than a year old, has won every race it has entered so far. Warrior has entered only one race on Lake Michigan under its owner, Fred Wacker, but finished first in that.

Escanaba, the 165 foot coast guard cutter which has escorted the yachts for two years, again will accompany the fleet to Mackinac Island.

No Two Boats Alike.

As no boats in the race are alike, the result will depend on the time allowance handicapping. The largest boat is 68 feet long, the smallest 25 feet. Boats in the cruising division, three quarters of the entire fleet, are more heavily built, wider, and with more ballast. Racing boats are not designed for cruising, but for short, quick dashes. They are usually long, slender in beam, and carry tall tails.

If the weather between here and Mackinac Island is stormy during the race, cruising yachts likely will stand up better than racers. The opposite is true if light winds are encountered.

The sloop, single masters, always are favored if the wind is from the north or northern quadrant. Boats of this type can beat to windward much faster than two masted windjammers. Schooners, ketches, and yawls, all with two masts, can travel at their best speed when the wind is abeam or astern. In the Mackinac race this would be from the east, west, or south.

The Macinkac cup will be awarded the winner in the cruising division. For the racing yachts, the newer Chicago-Mackinac trophy will be posted. Amateur skippers and crews of the first three boats in each division also will receive awards. The entry list:

KIZER PREDICTS ALL-STARS WILL DEFEAT LIONS

Purdue Coach Picks Team to Face Detroit.

Lafayette, Ind., July 17.—[Special.]—Noble Kizer, director of athletics and football coach at Purdue university, who was head coach of the first all-star team which played the Chicago Bears to a scoreless tie two years ago, today said he believed this year's team will whip the Detroit Lions.

Kizer continued his comment by adding: "With all due respect to the two previous groups of players and their contests with the Bears, I think this 1936 game should be the outstanding one of the series. The decision to start the eleven college men who receive the most votes will be helpful to the coaching staff. It's a game I'm going to see and I know the football fans of the country will be there too.

He's Backing All-Stars.

"The first year, there seemed to be more outstanding linemen than there were backs. Last year I thought the all-star team had a better class of backs while the line did not have sufficient replacements. From the list of men available for the game Sept. 1 at Soldiers' field in Chicago I am convinced that a well balanced squad will be chosen. I'm backing the all-stars."

Kizer's vote in the national poll follows:

GUARDS—Oech, Minnesota, and Tangora, Northwestern.
CENTER—Jones, Ohio State.
QUARTER BACK—Smith, Alabama.
FULL BACK—Beise, Minnesota.

M'LAGLEN FOR COAST STARS

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—[Special.]—Victor McLaglen, rugged Hollywood he-man who conducts a sports center as a hobby, today paid his respects to Texas and the Pacific coast by voting for ten westerners on the all-star college eleven which is to meet the Detroit Lions at Chicago Sept. 1. The hero of many a rough and tumble movie went east of Texas for only one man—Wayne Milliner of Notre Dame.

"In the last two years I've seen some of the greatest football talent of the country perform on the west coast," McLaglen said. "Therefore I feel confident that my all-star selections are based on direct knowledge of the players' abilities rather than on hearsay or guess work. I never saw a better end in my life than Monk Moscrip of Stanford or a full back as tough as Bobby Grayson, from the same school."

ENDS—Moscrip, Stanford; Milner, Notre Dame.
TACKLES — Spain, Southern Methodist;

Five Tie for St. Paul Open Lead with 68

St. Paul, Minn., July 17.—(AP)—Playing under a hot sun in the morning and later in a wind and rain storm, five professional golfers gave par a four stroke licking today to tie for the lead in the $6,000 St. Paul open tournament.

Disregarding the varied elements to score 68s for the opening 18 holes were Abe Espinosa, Chicago; Bill Mehlhorn, Louisville; Ky Laffoon, Chicago; Byron Nelson of Ridgewood, N. J., and Gunnard Johnson of Minneapolis.

Eight others were under par and of the first twelve men only Johnny Revolta of Chicago, with a 71, has finished in top money in the last six tournaments. Harry Cooper, twice winner, and Horton Smith, both of Chicago, each has 73s, and Jim Foulis, Hinsdale, Ill., with 76, the fourth player to win the title here, were on the outside looking in—for the present at least.

Second 18 Holes Today.

A lull in the brisk wind favored Espinosa and Mehlhorn in breaking par. Just as Johnson, Laffoon, and Ralph Guldahl of St. Louis approached the eighteenth green a hard wind broke loose and rain fell for some time, catching some of the other favorites and making it necessary for them to stage a strong comeback on the second 18 holes Saturday.

Just back of the first five, besides Guldahl, were Clarence Doser of

CANZONERI FIGHT OFF; BRADDOCK BOUT MAY BE, TOO

New York, July 17.—(AP)—They were laying odds tonight that James J. Braddock and Max Schmeling will not fight for the heavyweight title this fall.

Negotiations between Mike Jacobs and Madison Square Garden collapsed today. Since the Garden controls the champion and Schmeling is under contract to Jacobs, the situation is at a complete stand still.

The proposed deal blew up when the Garden admitted its failure to deliver Tony Canzoneri, the lightweight champion, to Jacobs in return for Schmeling's contract. Had this gone through Jacobs would have staged a Barney Ross-Canzoneri fight at the Yankee stadium in August, leaving the Garden to put on the heavyweight show at its Long Island bowl in September.

HEADLEY ENTRY RULES FAVORITE AT ARLINGTON

3 Year Olds Vie for Top Place.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There is grave danger that the leading 2 year old fillies in America who have been powdering their noses for months in preparation for their big show in the $37,100 Lassie stakes at Arlington Park this afternoon are going to have the spotlight taken from them and switched over to a secondary number on the program.

This situation has developed because Racing Secretary Charles McLennan also arranged a race for 3 year olds today which was concocted as a final prep for candidates in next Saturday's $30,000 Classic.

Just take a look at the 3 year olds which accepted the issue in this overnight handicap. They are:

Horse. Jocky.	Wt.	Prob. Odds.
Granville, J. Stout	122	8-5
Isolator, I. Hanford	104	8-5
Mr. Bones, J. Gilbert	119	2-1
Hollyrood, E. Steffen	119	4-1
Count Morse, E. Arcaro	113	10-1
Floradora, No boy	102	15-1
Carvola, N. Wall	108	20-1

Granville Vs. Mr. Bones!

Now if you don't think the winner of the Classic stakes is in this group, then where in the world is he, for the lineup in the mile and an eighth gallop this afternoon includes the four leading candidates for Arlington's famous 3 year old special. It will pit Granville vs. Mr. Bones.

The east and west alike have been waiting for that battle ever since the two finished noses apart in the Belmont stakes in New York. Then to toss our two best western 3 year olds—Hollyrood and Count Morse—at them at the same time is really something to sit down immediately and write home about.

Granville gives Mr. Bones three pounds on the scale. That should even up that nose verdict Granville scored over the Whitney horse in the Belmont. He will also give Hollyrood three pounds and Count Morse nine pounds. Mr. Harry I. Day, you had better have your Eye in the Sky in perfect order when these fellows start thundering down toward the finish line.

Attracts Fashionable Lassies.

The Lassie stakes, which is the richest special arranged for 2 year old fillies in the world, attracted its usual fashionable field. The overnight group includes 15 and not a top rank filly in America that is physically fit is missing from the lineup. As was the case last year when Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Forever Yours won it and then went on to capture the 2 year old filly championship, the title in this division will no doubt again be decided in today's race.

Overnight the betting showed that Hal Price Headley's entry of Apogee and The Queen will rule as the favorite. This simply had to be because of Apogee's great race in the Hyde Park stakes a week ago in which she was beaten only by inches by the Milky Way farm stable's colt Nation's Taste.

Drawbridge Rated Highly.

Joseph E. Widener's Drawbridge, which scored a sparkling victory at Arlington earlier in the week, possibly will rule as the second choice. There will be backing for every filly in the race for each owner believes to the extent of a $1,000 starting fee that his filly is the one that will carry away the richest of all 2 year old filly prizes.

This will be the eighth running of the Lassie and ever since it was added to the Arlington program back in 1929 it has been one of the most talked about races run there each season.

Capture Wins First Lassie.

Harry F. Sinclair's Capture was the winner of the first running of the Lassie. The next year the rich prize went to Mrs. John Hertz' Risque. In 1931 Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's Top Flight won it. She wound up her racing career as the biggest money winning mare in the history of the turf.

Audley Farm's Hilena was the next winner. She skipped the six furlongs in 1:10 2-5, which is the fastest time ever registered in the race. The 1933 winner was Dixiana's great filly Mata Hari. A year later there came another C. V. Whitney victory when Motto showed 'em the shortest way home. Last year's prize went to the brilliant Forever Yours.

Not a bad race mare has ever triumphed in a renewal of the Lassie and that's the reason it has come to be ranked as one of the most important fixtures run each year in America.

Canada Sends Squad of 104 to Olympic Games

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., July 17.—Canada's best athletes sailed for the Olympic games in Berlin today. More than 100 boarded the ship. Canadian Olympic officials said 104 were on the sailing list last night, but they informed several other athletes they could make the trip if they raised the money.

YANKEES HIT 3 HOMERS IN 3D; BEAT TIGERS, 9-4

Equal Record; Detroit Gets Three in Game.

New York, July 17. — (AP) — The Yankees equaled an American league home run record and walloped the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 4, today.

The defeat sent the Tigers down to fourth place in the American league.

The Yankees equaled the home run record in the third inning when Red Rolfe, Lou Gehrig and Bill Dickey smashed out circuit drives. The mark was first set by Washington in 1902 and repeated by various clubs since. It was the eighth time the Yanks have done the trick, with Gehrig in the barrage on seven occasions.

The Tigers also did some homer-hammering, with Goose Goslin getting two and Charley Gehringer one.

In addition to the three third inning homers, the Yanks also got one in the second, when Tony Lazzeri hit out of the park with two mates on base.

In addition to equaling the American league record for homers in one inning, the Yankees wrote these marks into the record books:

"Passed the 100 home run mark for the season."

Boosted their record for more than 100 homers in consecutive seasons to 12—from 1925 through 1936.

RED SOX, 2; BROWNS, 1.

Boston, Mass., July 17.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx boosted the wobbly Red Sox back into third place today by singling with the bases loaded in the ninth and driving in the runs needed for a 2 to 1 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Wes Ferrell, with only two days' rest, held the Browns to eight hits. He lengthened his win-ning record to thirteen victories. Ivy Andrews held the home boys to seven hits until the last of the ninth. Score:

Cards Defeat Phillies, 5 to 4; Dean Wins 15

St. Louis, Mo., July 17.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean won his 15th victory of the season today as the Cardinals beat the Phillies, 5 to 4. Dean, who was driven from the mound yesterday, went in as a relief pitcher in the sixth. He didn't allow a hit and in the ninth struck out three Philadelphia batsmen in a row.

Johnny Mize, a pinch hitter, lifted a home run on top of the right field pavilion in the eighth, driving in Lynn King ahead of him for the victory.

Frisch was back at second base for the first time since early season because of the illness of Stuart Martin, rookie infielder.

TOUGH JOB, SAYS STEFFEN

Judge Walter P. Steffen, former University of Chicago football star and for many years coach at Carnegie Tech, finds that it is a tough job to select a single team. "I feel that I could pick a second team of about equal strength," Judge Steffen said yesterday.

"I had considerable difficulty deciding on the ends because I didn't like to leave off Bob Shuler of the Army. I really flipped a coin to decide between Shakespeare of Notre Dame and Bobby Wilson of Southern Methodist. There are four great full backs, but the position goes to Grayson of Stanford by the flip of a coin. The others are Chuck Duval of Northwestern, the most underrated player last year; Sheldon Beise of Minnesota, and Dick Crayne of Iowa."

Judge Steffen's selections:

GUARDS—John Weller, Princeton, and Ed Gryboski, Illinois.
CENTER—Darrell Lester, Texas Christian.
QUARTER BACK—Glenn Seidel, Minnesota.
FULL BACK—Bobby Grayson, Stanford.

CARLETON FAVORS SOUTH

Pitcher Tex Carleton of the Chicago Cubs, an alumnus of Texas Christian university, who believes southwestern football last year produced some of the leading players in the nation, yesterday selected a team of All-Americans. Tex picked the following players:

ENDS—Topping, Stanford, and Millner, Notre Dame.
TACKLES—Orr, Southern Methodist, and Spain, Southern Methodist.
GUARDS—Tangora, Northwestern, and Oech, Minnesota.
CENTER—Lester, Texas Christian.
QUARTER BACK—McCauley, Rice.
HALF BACKS—Lawrence, Texas Christian, and Wilson, Southern Methodist.
FULL BACK—Manton, Texas Christian.

CREIGHTON'S GLAD

Milan Creighton, coach of the Chicago Cardinals of the National Professional league, yesterday prefaced his All-American selection with the notation: "Eleven fellows I'm glad won't be around for the All-Star game when the Cardinals win the pro championship." Creighton's team:

ENDS—Millner, Notre Dame, and Erdelatz, St. Mary's [Cal.].
TACKLES—Dick Smith, Minnesota, and Reynolds, Stanford.
GUARDS—Carter, Oregon, and Seci, Iowa.
CENTER—Jones, Ohio State.
QUARTER BACK—Riley Smith, Alabama.
HALF BACKS—Grayson, Stanford, and Lawrence, Texas Christian.
FULL BACK—Crayne, Iowa.

CAN BEAT LIONS

Jim Kelly, director of athletics and coach of football and basketball at De Paul university, yesterday picked an All-Star team which, he thinks, can beat the Lions by two touchdowns:

The lineup follows:

ENDS—Millner, Notre Dame, and Moscrip, Stanford.
GUARDS—Oech, Minnesota, and Tangora, Northwestern.
CENTER—Lester, Texas Christian.
QUARTER BACK—Berwanger, Chicago.
HALF BACKS—Crayne, Iowa, and Grayson, Stanford.
FULL BACK—Beise, Minnesota.

Roy Henshaw to Throw His Hooks at Phils Today

Lefty Roy Henshaw this afternoon will have an opportunity to return to victorious form, for he has been assigned to pitch the opener of the Cub series with the Phillies. Roy has been a bit unsteady in recent appearances but nothing ails him and a victory is anticipated by the Cub management.

Use of Henshaw today will give the Sabbath customers a chance to view two top flight performers—Larry French in one of the games of a double header and Bill Lee in the other. Larry pitched a 4 to 2 victory over the Giants his last time out and Lee beat the same opposition 1 to 0 the last time he pitched.

The weather being what it is the Cubs will not break their necks trying to catch a train out of Chicago after tomorrow's double header. They will not depart for the Brooklyn series until 11:15 o'clock at night.

Smith Checks Cubs; Bees Triumph, 5-1

half. Hack walked, took third on Herman's rolling single to left and ran home on Galan's fly to Berger.

Coscarart opened the second inning with the fourth Boston hit, but he was thrown out at second by O'Dea when Lopez failed to function on the hit and run play. Jurges, who erred in each of three attempts to throw out Lopez in Thursday's game, showed the folks it could be done. He then made a sparkling stop to his right and a great throw to get Smith. Demaree, Stainback, and Cavarretta went out in order in the Cub half.

Berger Singles, Steals.

Berger led off the fourth with his second single to left, but Cuccinello fanned. Berger stole second. Then Lee flied to Demaree. Coscarart lined to Galan.

Herman opened the home fourth with his second hit, a single to center. Bill reached second while Galan was bouncing out to Cuccinello. O'Dea whiffed and Demaree tapped to Cuccinello.

Lopez pushed off with a single at the start of the fifth and Smith was out when he bunted foul on the third strike. Warstler beat out a bunt to Davis. When Warstler was called safe the Cubs swarmed on Umpire Pinelli claiming he had failed to notice that Cavarretta tagged Warstler before he got to the bag. The protest met with the usual results and when the game was resumed Thompson doubled to left center, Lopez scoring and Warstler stopping at third. Moore grounded to Herman and Warstler was out at the plate, Herman to O'Dea. Then Berger socked his No. 14 homer over the left field wall, scoring behind Thompson and Moore. Jurges threw out Cuccinello.

Herman Gets Third Hit.

Root took over the pitching job in the sixth. Jurges committed his fourth error in two days on Lopez, but otherwise the session was calm.

With two out in the seventh Cavarretta came up with Moore's grounder, but Root was slow covering first and the effort went for a single. Berger then obliged by flying to Demaree. The Cubs went out in order in their half.

Cuccinello launched the eighth inning with the eleventh Boston hit, a single to right, but he was forced by Lee. Then Coscarart hit into a double play.

C. S. CONNELL IS BAR ASSOCIATION TOURNEY WINNER

Lawyer Shoots Kildeer Course in 73.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

That celebrated legal battle, the Chicago Bar association vs. a golf course, reached its annual dénouement yesterday when 300 judges, lawyers and state, county and city officials gathered for their 1936 tournament at the Kildeer Country club. It was the largest battery of talent that had substituted putts for torts in the history of the C. B. A.

The defendants were Kildeer's woods and water courses, with the latter layout being tried on the championship count. Attorney Charles S. Connell, one of the younger prosecutors of the case, obtained a speedy conviction with a 34—39—73, one over par for the course, and thereby caused his name to be engraved on the Callaghan trophy as champion of the association.

Waud Shoots a 75.

Other convincing arguments for the state were submitted by Morrison Waud, former Princeton player, who finished with 37—38—75; Fred Gariepy, ten times champion, 38—38—76, and C. E. [Chuck] McGuire, one time tackle at the University of Chicago. McGuire, playing the back nine first, was around in 35, two under par, but faltered coming home, taking a 41 for a 76.

Eddie Murphy, Midlothian star, who competed as a guest, shot the best round of the day, a 70, two under par. He played the back nine first in 39, two over, and then blazed home in 31.

Howard Baal Jr. of Edgewood shot 40—37—77 yesterday to lead the scoring at Beverly in a Chicago district handicap tournament. Ben Stevenson had 39—39—78; Gus Fetz of Nordic, 42—37—79; Bob Doughtery of Southmoor, 40—40—80; Bill Andrews, Lincolnshire, 41—40—81, and Paul Day, unattached, 43—39—82.

Prize winners for low net scoring were:

CLASS A, 1 to 8 inclusive—H. E. Baal Jr., 77—5—72, and Ben Stevenson, 78—6—72.

CLASS C, 16 and up—J. H. Ibe, Lincolnshire, 88—18—70, and Dan Piwranos, Southmoor, 94—23—71.

Semi-final matches in the women's intradistrict team competition were played yesterday at Oak Park, where the north side sextet piled up 27½ points. This, added to 18 amassed at Beverly in the first round, gave the north district a total of 45½.

South side, with 25 in the first matches, earned 16½ yesterday for a total of 41½. West side trailed with 10 and a total of 21 for the double round.

Rena Nelson shot 39—41—80 for the north side. Mrs. Pearl Indig had 84 as the best card among the west side sextet, while Mildred Hackl's 86 was the best in the south side group. Summaries:

NORTH SIDE—Rena Nelson, Exmoor, 6; Mrs. Charles F. Dennehy, Onwentsia, 6; Mrs. S. L. Reinhardt, Northmoor, 2½; Virginia Ingram, Sunset Ridge, 3½; Shirley Johnson, Sunset Ridge, 5½; Mrs. Lawrence Selz, Northmoor, 4. Total, 27½.

SOUTH SIDE—Eleanor Dudley, Ridge, ½; Mrs. Melvin Jonas, Flossmoor, 3; Hilda Livengood, Flossmoor, 5½; Mrs. A. R. Copeland, South Shore, 0; Mildred Hackl, Midlothian, 3½; Diane Marks, Calumet, 4. Total, 16½.

WEST SIDE—Mrs. Pearl Indig, Mohawk, 2½; Mrs. C. J. McDyer, Mohawk, 0; Louise Johnson, Mohawk, 1; Mary Slibeck, Medinah, 5½; Mrs. O. F. Burnett, Medinah, 0; Virginia Jensen, Mohawk, 1. Total, 10.

MRS. MARSHALL, MISS SOUCHEK IN COUNTY FINAL

Finalists in the Women's Cook county open golf tournament today at Jackson park will be Josephine Souchek of Ridgemoor and Mrs. Rose Marshall of Cog Hill. They will play 36 holes starting at 9 o'clock, this morning.

Josephine yesterday defeated Mrs. Mae Bachman of the home club, 1 up, while Mrs. Marshall won, 2 and 1, over Mrs. Evelyn Moore of the Jackson Park club.

The championship consolation was brought up to date with Mrs. Mildred Simmons' victory of 2 and 1 over Mrs. Armin Friedman of Evergreen. Mrs. Simmons today meets Mrs. Thelma Kurry of Lincolnshire in the final.

Mrs. D. A. Carne of Lincoln won the first flight final, 5 and 4, against Mrs. Violet Himmel of Jackson.

J., and Bob MacDonald, Chicago, Clarence Norsworthy, Mexico, Mo., and Lawson Little, Springfield, Mass., with par 72.

Nelson Shoots a 31.

Nelson quickly drew a large gallery when he posted a 31 for the first nine, but the stiff cross wind carried him into trouble coming back. Dodson had a 33 on the outward trip, but needed a 37 on the back nine.

Tony Manero, the National Open champion, had a 77.

Munger Sets Record; Loses in Omaha Golf

Omaha, Neb., July 17.—[Special.]—Although he established a competitive course record, Jack Munger of Dallas, Tex., was defeated today in the quarter-finals of the western amateur tournament at the Happy Hollow Country club.

Three down at the end of the first eighteen holes, Munger staged a comeback during the afternoon round that brought a 66 medal for eighteen holes, six strokes under par, and squared his match with Paul Leslie of Jefferson City, Mo., on the home green. Munger then went down to defeat on the 38th hole, 1 up.

The 66 has never been bettered in competition at this course, Rodney Bliss of the home club having toured it in 65, but not in competition. Jack had a 32 on the way out this afternoon, five under par, posted 34 coming back, and followed the card for the two extra holes. It wasn't good enough to beat Leslie, runnerup in the recent national intercollegiate. Paul bettered Jack's four on the 38th with a birdie three, holing a 40 foot putt to end the match. Leslie had a 69.

A gallery of more than 2,000 watched Paul drop the long putt that gave him the right to meet Johnny Lehman, Olympia Fields, Chicago, in the semi-finals tomorrow.

Lehman Falters, but Wins.

Lehman, who was eight under par yesterday when he eliminated P. A. Lyck of Omaha, in the first round, and Charlie Yates, Atlanta, defending champion and Walker Cup selection in the second round, didn't play that brand of golf today. But he beat one of the tournament favorites, Don Schumacher, Texas champion from Dallas, 1 up.

An unknown youngster, 20 year old Bob Fraser of Omaha, provided today's upset. He defeated Freddie Haas Jr., New Orleans, one of the country's best young golfers, 4 and 3. Haas, national intercollegiate medalist, who lost to his teammate, Leslie in that tournament's semi-finals and to Munger in the southern amateur tournament, wilted badly today, at one time being seven down to his opponent.

Grable Duvall Jr. of Kansas City, the Heart of America champion, sent Denmar Miller, Des Moines, out of the running by a 4 and 3 count. Miller, after being two down at the luncheon hour, won five of the first six holes this afternoon, but faded the rest of the way.

NEW WAYLAND COACH.

Decorah, Ia., July 17.—[Special.]—Ted Ellingson, coach at the Dolliver, Ia., High school the last two years, has been engaged by Wayland academy, a junior college, at Beaver Dam, Wis.

WOODS TO PLAY SAMPSON FOR MIDWEST TITLE

Jim Woods Jr. of Lincoln park will meet Bob Sampson of Evergreen in the 36 hole final for the ninth annual Midwest Public links golf championship at the Waveland avenue course of Lincoln park today.

Woods, who has been competing in the Midwest golf since 1933, earned the right to play in the final by defeating John Krutilla of Lansing airport, 3 and 2. Sampson eliminated Eddie Wietecha of Big Oaks, 1 up.

Moe Springer, 12 year old Lincoln park boy, came through the semi-final round in the first flight by defeating Ted Ruwich, 5 and 4. He will meet a teammate, Vic King, in the final today.

SMALLWOOD IS KEY TO OLYMPIC RELAY LINEUPS

[Copyright: 1936: By the New York Times.]

ABOARD THE S. S. MANHATTAN, July 17.—The composition of the United States Olympic relay teams was the chief concern today of Lawson Robertson, track coach. He admitted some of the men who had been expected to compete in the relays may be replaced by others.

Frank Wykoff of Glendale, Cal., a member of the 1928 and 1932 teams; Ralph Metcalfe of the Marquette club, Milwaukee; Sam Stoller of Michigan, and Foy Draper of Southern California, probably will make up the 400 meter team. This combination looks unbeatable and should break the Olympic record of forty seconds made by a Wykoff anchored quartet at the 1932 games at Los Angeles.

The makeup of the 1,600 meter team still is somewhat uncertain because of the condition of Harold Smallwood, national 400 meter champion from Southern California, who was stricken with an appendicitis attack Wednesday.

However, the committee has decided to gamble on his being ready, and William J. Bingham, manager of the track team, announced tonight that the original lineup of Archie Williams of California, Smallwood and James Lu Valle of U. C. L. A., will be retained in the 400 meter run. Thus, Alfred Fitch of Southern California will not be taken from the 1,600 meter relay to replace Smallwood in the 400 meter individual event.

Smallwood showed greater improvement today, eating solid foods. He still is kept in bed as a precautionary measure, but is expected to make an appearance on deck tomorrow.

LIQUORS OF QUALITY

Try Irvin S. Cobb's Recipe for a "Mint Julep"

Put 12 sprigs of fresh mint in bowl, cover with powdered sugar and enough water to dissolve sugar. Crush with muddler. Place half of the mint and liquid in tumbler. Fill glass half full of finely crushed ice. Add rest of crushed mint and fill remainder of glass with crushed ice. Add Four Roses Whiskey till glass is brimming. Place in ice box at least an hour before serving.

Did You Know?

At one time during the Nineteenth Century practically every vineyard in France had been destroyed by a plague of minute insects which attacked the roots of the vine. The plague was conquered by planting American roots, which were hardier and more immune to disease.

You cannot make good drinks with inferior ingredients. Cheap, artificially flavored ingredients are not worth their price. None but quality liquors are ever offered at Walgreen's.

The "proof" of a liquor is the percent of alcohol by volume multiplied by two. For example, 100 proof means 50 per cent alcohol by volume.

Kenneally Named Captain of C. Y. O. Squad.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Chicago's west side gave the visiting New York Catholic Youth association boxing team a tumultuous reception last night at Garfield park. It was a second of the series of open air receptions, and more than 50,000 greeted the lads who will face the Catholic Youth organization team of Chicago at Soldiers' field Wednesday night.

Despite the demands of hospitality, the New York boys still have kept to their definite training schedule. Promptly at 3:30 yesterday afternoon the squad reported on the roof of the Palmer house for their boxing drills under the supervision of Coach Pete Mello. Nearly all of the boys are underweight, and Mello anticipates no trouble in preparing them for the fights.

Will Exchange Lists of Boxers.

The rules for the tournament, the second in the series, call for a sealed list of contestants to be exchanged 24 hours before the fights. This list also will specify which boy in each weight will fight in the championship position, and which will box as runnerup.

The New York lineup might be announced now except that it is not known whether or not Willie Tweedie, bantam weight champion, will be able to obtain leave from the Long Island railroad, where he is employed as a clerk. Tweedie hopes to arrive here Monday. If he cannot come then George Coyle, the spectacular Golden Gloves fighter, who won a bout here in the C. Y. O. tournament last summer, will be shifted to the 118 pound class.

Coyle now weighs 124 pounds, and it is hoped he will fight in the featherweight class. He fought Johnny Brown and lost a close decision in the Golden Gloves fights in New York last March. Mello believes Coyle can make 118 pounds, but he naturally would prefer to have him in the higher weight class.

They'll Seek Revenge.

Two other New York boys, members of this team, fought at Wrigley field last July, when New York was beaten by the C. Y. O., 10 to 6. Tony Minnecola, lightweight, was outpointed by Ed Garvey, and Frank Murphy, middleweight champion, was defeated by Ray Wozniak.

Phil Kenneally, C. Y. O. lightweight champion in 1933, has been named captain of the Chicago squad. The announcement of Kenneally's selection was made yesterday by Tom O'Connell, director of boxing for the Catholic Youth organization.

He's a Middleweight.

Against New York Phil will fight as a middleweight, having gained both in height and weight since winning the 135 pound crown two years ago. He now weighs 155 pounds.

The lineup of the C. Y. O. boxers, now in training at Lockport, Ill., will be announced Monday morning, but whether the boys will fight in the championship pairings or as runnersup will not be known until the official lists are exchanged.

Open Trials in Tribune's Swim Today

The first sectional trial in THE TRIBUNE'S seventh annual 100 yard free style swimming championships will be held this afternoon at Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill. All swimmers must report at 1 o'clock for assignment in the races. The first race is scheduled for 2 o'clock.

Tomorrow afternoon the contestants who registered for the Whealan pool trials will have their opportunity to win gold medal qualifying badges at the forest preserve pool located at Milwaukee and Devon avenues. All swimmers will receive merit buttons. The winners of each race will receive ribbon badges. The number of qualifying medals awarded will be in proportion to the number of contestants in each of the age classes and to the number registered for each sectional.

Final Trials Next Saturday.

The final preliminary meet, which will be the largest of the sectionals, will be held next Saturday at the Lincoln park lagoon. Entries closed at midnight yesterday, but entries received today by mail will be accepted. In yesterday's mail team entries were received from the Englewood Y. M. C. A., Jackson Park Natatorium, Elgin, Ill., Y. M. C. A., and the Medinah club of Chicago.

The Englewood Y. M. C. A. will be represented by 13 boys. The Elgin swimmers are all registered in the first three age divisions for boys with the exception of Norman Knabush who will compete in Class D for boys 17 and 18 years of age. Gordon Silvey, physical director, believes that his team will win several qualifying awards and that these boys will have a splendid opportunity to win a championship gold medal in the finals at Lincoln park July 26.

Harriet Vance to Compete.

Harriet Vance of the Peoria, Ill., Country club, who has won two swim championships, will compete in the trials at Lincoln park lagoon according to announcement yesterday by her coach, Al Klingel. Miss Vance won the title for girls 15 and 16 years of age last year, and this year, although she still is only 15 years of age, she will compete in the Class D event.

Doyle guided the comeback campaign of Jess Willard. . . . He now operates the Huntington Park arena in suburban Los Angeles. . . . Veteran baseball men cannot recall of a major league game being postponed because of heat. . . . Van Mungo, Brooklyn's star right-handed pitcher, can throw left-handed from the outfield with the best of the big league gardeners. . . . George Marshall, owner of the Boston Redskins, and his bride, the former Corrine Griffith of the films, have returned to Washington after a visit in Chicago. . . . Maurice [Clipper] Smith was in the loop yesterday on his way from Santa Clara university to Villanova, outside Philadelphia, where he will become football coach and athletic director next month. . . .

Bill Hargiss, Glenn Cunningham's coach, fears Stanley Witterson of England in the 1,500 meters run at Berlin. . . . The Bees' field in Boston, where the All-Star baseball game was held last week, has not been sold out since the Giants and Braves met there in a crucial series on Labor day week-end in 1933. . . . Max Schmeling never talks disparagingly about an opponent and never allows his handlers to do so. . . . Weems Baskin, coach of Forest Towns, Olympic hurdler, will let the lanky southerner try out for the Georgia football team this fall. . . . One of the fireworks displays at the New York-Chicago C. Y. O. bouts Wednesday night will show Louis being knocked out by Schmeling. . . . Pepper Constable, Princeton full back, whose middle name really is Pepper, will enroll in the Johns Hopkins medical school in the fall. . . . Speedy Dado, Filipino bantamweight boxer, has replaced Chalky Wright, colored featherweight, as Mae West's chauffeur and body guard. . . .

When Dave Foulis came to the Hinsdale Golf club sixteen years ago there were exactly twelve bunkers on the course. . . . Now there are more than 200 and every green has been changed. . . . If any one thinks sixteen years is a long time to spend at one club, let him consider that before coming to Hinsdale Foulis had spent twenty-one years at Chicago Golf. . . . Larry Doyle, old Cub second baseman, had to lash his bat to his wrist with a lether thong to safeguard the lives of opposing infielders. . . . Horace Heidt, the band leader, shot a 77 at Ridgemoor the other day. . . . The removal of the old wooden bleachers and replacement with modern concrete at Yankee stadium in New York will run up a bill of $800,000 on Owner Jake Ruppert. . . . Pie Traynor, manager of the Pirates, is one of the most popular men in baseball. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—A crowd of 32,000 saw Charley Root and the Cubs defeat the Giants, 2 to 1. . . . Charley Pyle sailed for France to sign Suzanne Lenglen for a tour of the United States. . . . Tex Rickard planned to announce in a few days whether Chicago was going to get the Jack Dempsey-Gene Tunney title bout. . . . Hack Wilson of the Cubs was leading the National league home run hitters with thirteen.

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: I was much interested in a Helper's reminiscence about prize fights at Old Tattersalls on 16th street. This Helper, however, omitted one detail of the Kid McCoy-Tommy Ryan bout which I'm sure remains vivid with every one who saw the six round affair in 1900.

McCoy and Ryan both were crafty boxers and hard hitters. McCoy was about eight to ten pounds heavier, and this weight advantage was just about the only difference between the pair in ring equality. At the end of six rounds Referee Malachy Hogan held up McCoy's hand as victor, whereupon Tommy Ryan took a poke at Malachy. The latter, a good rough and tumble battler, if necessity arose, went right back at Tommy, and police had to clear the ring to prevent a free-for-all.

Moreover, as I recall, it was not a dispute over bandages which delayed the start, but because McCoy demanded his $6,000 guarantee be paid before he entered the ring.

Not many now remember that Jim Jeffries had a brother, Jack, also aspirant for heavyweight honors. Their father, a traveling evangelist, did not wish another fighter in the family, but finally agreed to come to Tattersalls to see Brother Jack in action against Jack Beauscholte, a good performer of the time just short of the top flight. After being knocked out by Beauscholte I don't remember hearing of Jack Jeffries again. Probably he took his father's advice.

I have an old dance program of "Our Club," which held a party at Snow's academy Oct. 8, 1872. W. C. Smith was president and J. P. Waner treasurer, but I'm more interested in the order of dances. Here is the order for the first half, then thirty minutes' intermission, then substantially the same order:

Grand march, "Our Welcome"....
1. Quadrille ..... Strauss
2. Waltz and esmeralda, "Blue Danube"
3. Lanciers, "Newport"....
4. Polka redowa, "Tête-à-tête"....
5. Contradance, "Monie Musk"....
6. Highland schottische, "Roy's Wife"
7. Quadrille, "De Boulevard"....
8. Redowa and galop, "Forest Queen"
9. Quadrille, "Prairie Queen"....
10. Waltz, "Lincola"....

Campaign Slogans.

Harvey: Much stuff one reads these days should be prefaced with "The publisher disclaims responsibility for the author's views. The author also is not responsible." With this thought in mind listen to my Campaign Slogan, "Win[d] with Landon".

Wait till the month of November,
When the leaves will be turning brown,
Then you will see, believe you me,

Eastern Teams at Bottom.

Harvey: Did you notice that for several days, and right now, all western teams in the National league are in the first division and all eastern teams are in the second division? Have been following baseball for forty years and don't ever recall that before. Ephgrave.

[Editor's Note: The National league pennant race of 1926 ended: St. Louis, Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, Chicago. That's the only season this century in the National league that eastern teams have not earned a first division berth at the finish.]

MIDGET AUTOS RACE TONIGHT AT TORRENCE TRACK

The first event will start at 8:30 o'clock. Preceding the races will come time trials starting at 6:30. The eight races on the card will enlist some of the best known drivers in the big and small car sport, including Jimmy Snyder, Ted Tetterton, Emil Andres, Pat Warren, Cowboy O'Rourke, Paul Russo, and Art Hartsfeld. Snyder holds both the outdoor and indoor midget title.

The Torrence midget speedway is located on route 330, which is crossed by a number of much traveled east-west highways.

Black Horse Poloists to Play Artillerymen Tonight

The Black Horse Troop polo team tonight will play the 122d Field Artillery trio in the feature game of the polo double-header at the Lincolnwood arena, Lincoln and Devon avenues. In the opening game, which will begin at 8:30 o'clock, the Flying Vee Eff club will meet the Officers club.

Horse Wins, but Trainer Is Sad Man

The cause for trainer Pelleteri's great grief was the fact that Bottle Cap is not eligible to the Arlington Futurity. "He's the best 2 year old in the country," trainer Pelleteri said. The colt has run that way in his only two starts both of which brought impressive victories.

He came up from behind like a genuine route runner in the Hiawatha and went on to win by a length and a half. John Hay Whitney's No Dice, a star from the east, finished second and Fair Lead, a colt from California was third.

Bottle Cap carried 116 pounds, the top weight impost in the race. He was bred by Alex Gordon and Mr. Gordon also was a bit sad after the race because he had sold the fast runner to the Millsdale stable.

The long shot players got a thrill out of the mile and a sixteenth race over the turf course yesterday. Court, paying $86.80 for a two dollar ticket charged up on the outside in the stretch and got the decision by a length over Mrs. Emil Denemark's Gay Dog. Portfolio wound up in third place.

Walter H. Donovan, president of the National Association of State racing commissioners, was a visitor at Arlington yesterday. He will remain in Chicago for ten days to enjoy the racing at the northside course.

"There is no track in America which so fully typifies the true spirit of sport," commented Donovan, referring to the non-profit operation of Arlington Park. "It fills an important niche in American racing."

Jocky Johnny Longden, riding star of the New England campaign, has been engaged to ride the Lone Star stables' Jewel Dorsett in the Lassie stakes.

Time, :23, :46 3-5, 1:12 1-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Kabo $4.00 straight, $2.60 place, $2.40 show; Mary Cardinal $2.80 place, $2.40 show; Margaret G. $3.00 show. Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 2:02½. Post minute.

KABO, away well and rushed into command, was steadied around the turn and, holding on well under occasional light pressure in the stretch, held MARY CARDINAL safe. Latter, away slowly, began to move up fast after going to outside on the turn, slowly shook off BRERAY in the stretch and finishing fast was getting to the winner. MARGARET G., given a hustling ride, had speed from the start, but weakened.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $600; second, $100; third, $75; fourth, $25.

DARK SEEKER, raced wide throughout and never a great distance back, stood strong riding gamely the final quarter and outdistanced FOXIANA at the end. Latter raced between horses on the turn and also when moving up fast soon after reaching the stretch, good, vigorous riding gamely, but was not quite good enough. IMPERIAL PAL, away well but unable to keep up, closed with a rush on outside through the stretch.

ONWENTSIA, away fast and having speed, began to draw away approaching the turn and continuing well after opening up a wide advantage held away to win with something left. CEALLAIGH, quick to begin and steadied along for about five-eighths, stood pressure, gamely responding later. BLUE BUD, given a timid ride and raced wide the final half mile, held on well.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

BOTTLE CAP, forced to lose much ground but never a great distance back, improved his position gradually after reaching the final three-eighths and sustaining fine speed to the end came away in the last eighth. NO DICE, on inside throughout and hard to straighten through in the stretch, stood strong, though no match for the winner. FAIR LEAD forced the early pace under light restraint, was racing well when impeded in stretch and never fully recovered but outstayed.

THOMAS PORTER DIES; EX-ACE OF SECRET SERVICE

Former Head of Unit Here Passes Away, Aged 90.

Capt. Thomas I. Porter, who was head of the United States secret service in the Chicago area for 41 years until his retirement in 1926, died yesterday at his home in Long Beach, Cal. He was 90 years old.

CAPT. THOMAS I. PORTER.

Word of Capt. Porter's death was received here by Capt. Thomas J. Callaghan, who has headed the secret service in Chicago since Capt. Porter's retirement. Capt. Callaghan and many other government officials had joined in sending congratulations to Capt. Porter when he celebrated his 90th birthday last May 19.

Had Brilliant Record.

During Capt. Porter's service with the government he was recognized as one of the outstanding law enforcement officials of the nation. He worked on many important counterfeiting cases, postal robberies and national bank robberies. He won convictions of the persons involved.

Capt. Porter was the inventor of a device for sealing money bags, an innovation which proved of widespread assistance in forestalling robberies.

Capt. Porter fought in the Civil war and was sheriff of Holt county, Illinois, for two terms before entering the secret service in 1885.

His Widow Survives.

When he retired from the secret service he went to live in Long Beach where his home was at 660 Obispo avenue. He is survived by his widow, Maybelle, and a daughter, Mrs. Daisy P. Hay of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Monday in Long Beach. The body will be sent here for burial.

2D DIVISION VETS SALUTE UNKNOWN SOLDIER'S TOMB

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Here for their annual reunion, hundreds of veterans of the Second division, who achieved a distinguished record at Chateau Thierry in the world war, stood with bared heads today before the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington cemetery.

The tribute was marked by the placing of a wreath on the tomb by Capt. Louis Cukela, holder of the congressional medal of honor.

The veterans poured into the city during the day and more than four thousand are expected for the climaxing ceremony of the reunion tomorrow. This will be the dedication of a monument to their 6,200 companions who were killed overseas. The exercises will include the massing of colors and a twenty-one gun salute.

Among the first to arrive was Maj. Gen. John A. Lejeune, one of the wartime commanders of the division. When he arrived by train last night the veterans who had served under him gave him a 20 minute ovation.

Gen. Lejeune took command of the division in the summer of 1918 and was in charge during the St. Mihiel drive and when the troops stormed Mont Blanc ridge in the Champagne country.

The other two wartime commanders are Maj. Gen. James G. Harbord, who arrived for the reunion today, and Maj. Gen. Omar Bundy, ill in Walter Reed hospital.

W. W. BALDWIN, ONCE RAILROAD EXECUTIVE, DIES

William Wright Baldwin of Evanston, a former vice president of the Burlington railroad, died in the Evanston hospital yesterday after a long illness. He was 90 years old.

Mr. Baldwin was born in Keosauqua, Ia. He was a student in the University of Iowa when the civil war broke out and left at once to join the Union forces. He returned to the university after the war and was graduated in 1866. He practiced law in Burlington, Ia., until 1879, when he became land grant commissioner for the Burlington railroad. He moved to the Chicago area in 1914.

Two sons and a daughter survive. Mr. Baldwin's wife, the former Alice Tuttle of Des Moines, Ia., died in 1928. The body was sent to Burlington where funeral services will be held on Monday afternoon.

Dr. Philip A. Graves, 59, Dies in Oak Park Home

Dr. Philip Abernethy Graves, a specialist in diseases of the eye, ear, nose, and throat, died last evening in his home at 1107 Holley court, Oak Park. He was 59 years old. Dr. Graves was graduated from the University of Illinois medical school in 1908 and since that time had practiced in Chicago and Oak Park. He had been a resident of the suburb for thirty-five years. For many years he was attending surgeon at the Chicago Eye, Ear, Nose, and Throat hospital. His widow, Jane, survives him.

Mrs. Eva Sanders, Long a Geneva Resident, Dies

Mrs. Eva Sophia Sanders, 228 North 6th street, Geneva, a resident of that town for more than fifty years, died yesterday in the Community hospital, Geneva, from injuries suffered in a fall. She was 74 years old. Two sons and two daughters survive. The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Emmanuel Lutheran church of Geneva.

Michael O'Brien, 67 years old, conductor on Chicago and North Western railway suburban trains out of Chicago for the last 45 years, died Thursday night in his home at 1220 Central street, Evanston, after a brief illness.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. today from the chapel at 1732 Wilson avenue to St. Athanasius' church in Evanston. Burial will be in Janesville, Wis., near Mr. O'Brien's boyhood home.

Known familiarly as "Mike" to hundreds of Chicago commuters, Mr. O'Brien had served regularly on the 8:30 a. m. incoming and the 5:17 outgoing suburban trains since 1891. He went to work for the North Western in 1886 as "call boy," became a brakeman three years later, and a conductor two years after that.

GREENFIELD, IND., WILL BUY HOME OF POET RILEY

Greenfield, Ind., July 17.—[Special.]—The Greenfield city council prepared today to purchase for $3,500 the James Whitcomb Riley homestead here. The home belongs to heirs of the poet, Mary R. Payne, a sister; Edmund H. Eitel, nephew, and Elizabeth W. Miesse, a niece.

Restrictions were placed on the property sale, specifying that it shall be maintained by the city only as a memorial to Riley and that it never shall be "given over to any commercial purpose or used for private profit." Riley was born in the house October 7, 1849.

Rites to Be Held Monday for Mrs. Irene McDermed

Funeral services for Mrs. Irene McDermed, for 52 years a resident of the northwest side, will be held at 2:30 p. m. Monday from the chapel at 3421 Fullerton avenue. Burial will be in Forest Home. Mrs. McDermed, who was born at Avon, Ill., 78 years ago, died on Thursday evening in her home at 1633 North Monticello avenue. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Maud Willits of Chicago.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Carveth Wells, noted globe trotter, is to start on an 8,000 mile exploration tour of America on Monday in his new "land yacht." His motoring adventures, which are to take him through 22 states, will give him background for his forthcoming radio series which he titles "Exploring America." These are to be aired over W-G-N and a large network beginning Sunday, Sept. 27. Mr. Wells will give a preliminary talk over W-G-N at 10:15 tomorrow morning. On Monday evening he is to give a lecture, open to the public, at the Morrison and then he embarks on his new travels in his new covered wagon.

This trailer has sleeping quarters for four, and a big radio with one of those windmill generating systems atop to provide power for the batteries. And it is air conditioned!

Orville Knapp, who was killed in a crash of his own airplane Thursday, was regarded as one of the most promising young band leaders on the radio horizon. Like Guy Lombardo, Hal Kemp, Wayne King, Ted Fio-Rito [who was one of his mentors], Benny Goodman and Glen Gray's Casa Loma, Knapp had developed a highly individual style. His band had been operating only about two years but during that time he had played at some of the choicest orchestra spots.

In a letter received at almost the same hour of his death he told us about his plans to follow Wayne King at the Waldorf Astoria in New York within a fortnight and of a prospective sponsored program for fall.

A special program is to be aired from Fort Worth at 9:30 tonight over WCFL-NBC. Billy Rose will let the nation sample his Texas Frontier celebration which he is putting on at Fort Worth in competition with the exposition at Dallas. In addition to Rose, Gov. Allred, Senator Thomas Connally, Elliott Roosevelt, Amon Carter, and others will be presented.

Bits about broadcasters: Helen Morgan will make a guest appearance on the NBC Jamboree at 8 tonight. . . . Popeye the Sailor Man will be back on CBS at 6:15 Aug. 31. Floyd Thomas Buckley plays the part of the big spinach eater. . . . Dorothy Russell, Horace Heidt's new 16 year old songstress, was working in a department store up to the time he found her through his "Opportunity Contest."

DEATH CLAIMS ISAAC SHAFFER AT AGE OF 103

Isaac Shaffer, who celebrated his 103d birthday last March 10, died yesterday in his home at 1301 North Campbell avenue after a brief illness of pneumonia. New York, July 17.—Conflicting price movements characterized trading in bonds today on the New York Stock exchange. United States government loans declined still further in fairly heavy volumne, although some support entered the market for those issues in late trading which lifted the closing prices slightly above the lows of the day. Net declines, however, ranged from 1-32 to 8-32 point. The most recent issue of treasury 2¾s, due 1951 to 1954, touched a new low mark of 100 23-32, but closed at 100 25-32.

Corporation List Uneven.

Domestic corporation bonds fluctuated irregularly, with trading marked by special price swings in individual issues. Strong spots included International Cement 4s, which advanced 3⅜ points, and Wickwire Spencer first 7s, which closed up 4⅞ points.

Among the rails the issues of the western carriers were in demand. Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, St. Louis Southwestern, and Wabash bonds all responded to a fairly good demand with substantial gains.

Record Sharp Declines.

Contrasting movements in the corporate list were marked by declines of 3 points in both Allis Chalmers 4s and Franciscan Sugar 7½s. Studebaker 6s sagged 1½ points.

Polish government 6s suffered another setback, yielding 4¾ points. Siemens & Halske 7s rose 8⅝ points. Narrow and mixed movements ruled elsewhere among the foreign dollar loans.

SILVER FUTURES.

MONTREAL, Que., July 17.—(AP)—Silver futures closed steady, 6 to 10 points lower; no sales. Closing bids: July, 44.55c per oz; Sept., 44.75c; Dec., 45.05c.

Great Western Sugar.

Investors' Guide: Please give me information about Great Western Sugar company stock and financial situation—J. J. K.

Answer: Great Western Sugar company is the largest producer of beet sugar in the United States. It owns 21 beet sugar factories in Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Montana. Capacity for slicing 42,000 tons of beets daily is double that of any competitor.

The company also owns the 100 mile Great Western railway, quarries producing limestone for purification of sugar juices, and has a land company which owns and operates irrigation systems and 2,200 acres of farm property and real estate.

Beets are obtained mostly through contract with growers cultivating land near company factories. A new type of contract was introduced in 1932, eliminating minimum guarantees to growers on the ground that amounts paid in recent years were higher than market prices for refined sugar justified. Payments now are adjusted according to the quality of the beets and prices of sugar.

The company's output of refined sugar reached a peak of 1,080,600,000 pounds in the 1930-'31 fiscal year. It struck a low of 742,400,000 pounds in the 1934-'35 year because of late planting and the severe 1934 drouth. Mill operations were restricted and prices were lower than the previous year. Price weakness caused inventory losses, as in 1930 and 1931, and earnings declined again. The decrease in profits last year was less than expected, better prices largely offsetting loss of volume in recent short crops. Output was 754,800,000 pounds.

Net income was $5,515,000 or $2.48 a share in the fiscal year ended Feb. 29, 1936, compared with $5,762,000 or $2.62 a share the previous year, and $6,414,000 or $2.98 a share in the 1934-'35 year. Net income was $2,562,000 or 84 cents a share in the year ended Feb. 28, 1933, compared with income of $1,017,000 and $489,000 in the preceding two years. These are the only losses reported in recent years.

Financial position is strong, current assets being $35,856,000, against current liabilities of only $2,386,000 last Feb. 29.

Capitalization consists of 150,000 shares of 7 per cent $100 preferred stock which is high grade, and 1,800,000 no par common shares which deserve a rather good rating.

The company's outlook has been improved by strengthening of sugar prices in recent months and the prospect of operating all of its plants this year because of substantially larger acreage under contract.

CORN CONTINUES TO RISE; PRICES BEST OF SEASON

CropDamageGrows; Wheat Recedes.

New high levels for the season were established for cash corn and futures on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday, with the July delivery opening 4 cents higher at 93 cents per bushel, the maximum permitted for one day under exchange regulations, and 8 cents above Wednesday's close. It was the seventh time in 14 business days that the limitations on one day's advance or decline had been effective. The close was ¾ cent under the top at 92⅞ cents. Distant futures were up 2½ to 2⅞ cents.

December corn, which represents the 1936 harvest, sold at 84⅞ cents at the top, showing ⅞ above the highest figure reached during the excited market in July and August, 1934, when intense heat and drouth resulted in the smallest crop since 1894. Prevailing prices for cash corn and futures are the highest for July since 1929.

Flood of Damage Reports.

Seldom has the grain trade received such a flood of reports of damage to the corn crop as yesterday. Purdue university experts estimated the prospective yield in Indiana had been reduced about 20,000,000 bushels as compared with the July 1 indication of 152,000,000 bushels, but said the bulk of the crop could be saved if it receives rain soon.

James E. Bennett and company had a report from their Iowa traveling representative expressing the belief that even with rain that state might not harvest over 200,000,000 bushels. This compared with a prospective yield of 420,000,000 bushels on July 1, as given by the department of agriculture. In 1934 the state raised 234,000,000 bushels.

No. 2 white corn in the sample market sold at $1.03½ per bushel in carlots and No. 2 yellow as high as 95 cents.

Corn Belt Still Lacks Rain.

No rain of consequence was received overnight in the main corn belt and temperatures around 100 degrees prevailed again yesterday. The trade paid little attention to the forecast suggesting unsettled weather over the week-end.

Closing prices on the September delivery of leading grains, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Thurs.	Wk. ago.	Mo. ago.
Wheat	$1.05	$1.05⅝	$1.09½	$ .92⅝
Corn	.89⅝	.87	.82⅝	.69⅜
Oats	.39⅛	.39⅝	.40⅛	.28⅞
Rye	.72¼	.73⅝	.75⅛	.61¼

Wheat made a strong start and a tame finish. Sensational reports of damage to the Canadian spring wheat crop, coupled with an advance to a new high level for the season in Liverpool and Winnipeg futures, lifted prices as much as 1⅞ cents in the local pit early, but hedging pressure and profit taking caused a quick recession and the finish showed net losses of around 1 cent per bushel.

Hedging Causes Wheat Reaction.

The reaction, according to pit brokers, was due in large part to the hedging pressure being too heavy for the limited outside trade to absorb. Winnipeg closed a small fraction higher and Minneapolis was off 1 cent or more with some selling there attributed to Winnipeg interests. Kansas City eased factionally.

Sales of No. 2 yellow soy beans were made yesterday at $1.29 per bushel, a new high for some years, and 44½ cents above the early June level. Timothy hay prices are up $5 per ton since early June with $17 per ton paid yesterday, showing an advance of $2 per ton so far this week.

THREE LIVE STOCK EXCHANGES QUIT NATIONAL BOARD

Three leading live stock exchanges—Chicago, Omaha, and Kansas City—have withdrawn from membership in the National Live Stock exchange, it was learned yesterday. The move was said to have been an economy measure following Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's order reducing commission rates.

Officials of the National exchange met here yesterday at the Palmer House, but denied their discussions were concerned with the split in ranks. However, local live stock men reasoned that with the three largest exchanges out of the organization the national group faces a problem for its existence.

Dwindling business has reduced the earning capacity of commission men to a point where many complain they are unable to earn a living. The action for membership withdrawal is said to be an effort to cut overhead expense of the local exchanges and thereby reduce fees of individual members.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. Awarded Federal Contract

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—The Caterpillar Tractor company of Peoria, Ill., has been awarded a contract by the department of agriculture for 169 tractors at $848,958 and 58 graders at $207,920 for the use of the Civilian Conservation corps. Other Illinois contracts announced today by the department for the CCC were Keystone Steel and Wire company, $4,278; Wood Preserving corporation, $4,3004, and Aermotor company, $10,521.

Illinois Agriculture Group to Meet in Chicago in '37

Directors of the Illinois Agricultural association voted today to hold the twenty-second annual convention in Chicago Jan. 27 to 29, 1937.

Drouth, Heat End Hopes for Big Corn Crop

Hope of a large crop of corn this season is regarded by the grain trade as having been blasted by the continued intense heat and dry weather. During the first two weeks of July the crop in the north central states, according to an official report, had to endure temperatures about 9 degrees above normal with only about 25 per cent of normal rainfall, following a dry June.

The rate of deterioration of crops since July 1, as indicated by an estimate by the department of agriculture, probably has been as great as during the corresponding period in 1934. In the latter year the July 1 condition of corn was placed at 71.8 per cent of normal, compared with 72.8 on July 1 this year. On Aug. 1, 1934, the condition had dropped to 49.1, with further losses shown in the September and October reports.

The corn yield for the country in 1934, as given in the revised estimate by the department of agriculture, was 1,478,000,000 bushels from 92,133,000 acres, with an average return of 16 bushels per acre. On July 1, this year, the crop was estimated at 2,245,000,000 bushels with 98,517,000 acres planted.

If the decline in the prospective yield during July, 1936, equals the 5.4 bushels per acre reduction for that period in 1934, the grain trade figures would result in a loss of over 500,000,000 bushels from the 2,245,000,000 bushels suggested on the first of the current month. The crop would be the smallest since 1891 with the exception of 1934.

As a result of the sensational upturn in feedstuffs, the index of wholesale prices, as reported by the bureau of agricultural economics, is now 107.5 per cent of the 1926 level, compared with 71 per cent in the first week in June, when the advance began. Prices have advanced 28 per cent in the last three weeks, and over 50 per cent since June 1. Last year the index was 78.7, and in 1934 it was 87.5 per cent of the 1926 level.

Included in exports of corn from the Argentine last week were 646,000 bushels to the United States.

H. C. Donovan, crop expert, in a report to Thomson & McKinnon from Vulcan, Alberta, estimated the yield of spring wheat in the southern part of the province would average around five bushels per acre. About 25 per cent of the total acreage in the province is in the southern section.

Total permanent damage to wheat from all causes in the Canadian northwest up to July 15 is estimated by Sanford Evans, a Winnipeg authority, at 43 per cent, based on wire reports received from 322 points. Deterioration was still under way at the time the reports were filed, according to 236 correspondents. An area estimated at 14,000,000 to 16,000,000 acres of wheat is in grave danger.

RFC CONSIDERS COOK COUNTY'S BOND REFUNDING

Officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation have taken Cook county's proposed bond retirement plan under consideration and will send the county board their decision at a later date, Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board, reported yesterday upon his return from Washington.

The plan, adopted unanimously by the county board Wednesday, provides that proceeds from the sale of $12,252,000 of 4 per cent refunding bonds would be used to retire a like amount of county poor relief bonds held by the RFC.

A syndicate headed by Stifel, Nicolaus & Co. and A. C. Allyn & Co. originated the plan, which also provides that the county split with the syndicate the premium at which the new bonds would be sold. The syndicate agreed to buy the old bonds and guaranteed that it would bid not less than 102 on the new ones, allowing the county and the syndicate each a minimum of $122,520.

"We also proposed to the RFC officials," Smith said, "that some arrangement be worked out whereby we could exchange the bonds and then have them give the county all of the premium they would receive through the sale of the new bonds, but they made no commitment on this proposition."

PUBLISHING COMPANY FINANCES TO PAY LOAN AND BUY NEWSPAPERS

A banking group headed by Lehman Brothers yesterday offered $4,200,000 of Northwest Publications, Inc., 4½ per cent sinking fund debentures, due July 1, 1948, at par and accrued interest. The publishing concern was formerly the Dispatch-Pioneer Press company, and publishes daily and Sunday newspapers at St. Paul, Minn.

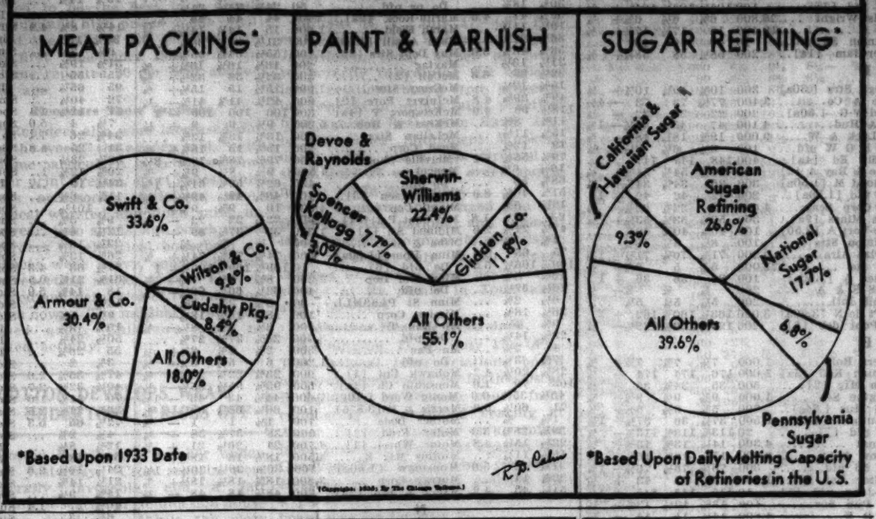
Of the net proceeds of $3,976,610 to be derived from the financing, approximately $2,492,880 will be used for the redemption on Sept. 1 of the outstanding 6 per cent fifteen year sinking fund debentures, due Sept. 1, 1942.

Approximately $750,000 will be used for the purchase of the entire capital stock of the News-Tribune company, publishing the Duluth News-Tribune, a daily, and approximately $750,000 for the acquisition of certain of the assets of the Herald company, publisher of the Duluth Herald.

The bonds will be redeemable on any interest date at 103 and accrued interest to July 1, 1939; at 102½ thereafter to July 1, 1942; at 101½ thereafter to July 1, 1945; at 100¾ thereafter to July 1, 1947, and at par from that date until maturity.

As a sinking fund the corporation agrees to turn over to the trustee $200,000 in cash or in debentures at cost each year, beginning July 1, 1937.

Extent of Concentration in 3 Leading Fields in 1935



Bank Bill Rate Boost First in Over 3 Years

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—The first change in bankers' acceptance rates since Oct. 24, 1934, and the first advance in such rates since the bank holiday in March 1933, was made today when a few dealers raised their discounts on bills up to four months.

The change, which was an aftermath of the announcement on Tuesday of the reserve board's intention to increase member bank reserve requirements, was not followed by all dealers. The Discount corporation, largest house in the field, kept its rates unaltered, but the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, in its daily listing of all rates, took cognizance of the rise by quoting split rates on one to four month paper.

Bank Lists New Rates.

The rates listed by the reserve bank were: For 30, 60, and 90 day bills, 3-16 to ¼ per cent bid, ¼ per cent asked; for four months bills, ¼ to 5-16 per cent bid, 3-16 to ¼ per cent asked. Rates on five and six month bills were unchanged at ⅜ per cent bid, 5-16 per cent asked. Prior to today the rates on the shorter bills had been 3-16 per cent bid, ⅛ asked for 30, 60, and 90 days; ¼ per cent bid, 3-16 per cent asked for four months.

Bankers' acceptances, as the highest type of commercial credit instrument, second in standing only to treasury bills, are extremely sensitive to changes in the credit situation. The yield on bills fell rapidly after the bank holiday as the growing ease in money became apparent and by the autumn of 1934 had been reduced to what was regarded about the lowest rate at which business could be done and was certainly the lowest in the history of the dollar acceptance.

Unchanged for Long Time.

Since then, while the credit situation in general became easier, bill rates have remained unchanged until today. Except for the artificial increase in call money rates last spring, today's firming of bill rates was the first sign of a rising tendency in interest rates since the bank holiday.

The change appeared, to be chiefly precautionary. Leading dealers reported that they were not meeting with large offerings of bills and that they were finding ready buyers for those that came in.

The reserve bank reported commercial paper outstanding June 30 aggregated $168,700,000 compared with $184,000,000 at the end of May and $159,000,000 on June 30, 1935.

PWA CLEARS WAY FOR SPREAD OF POWER PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—The way for an amplified nation-wide power program was cleared today when a report from regional PWA officers that relief labor is available for construction of $100,000,000 worth of approved power projects in 141 cities and towns was received at PWA headquarters. President Roosevelt has required PWA to carry out only those projects for which needy jobless are locally available.

The 141 power projects reported upon have been approved by PWA, which proposes to make grants up to 45 per cent of the cost of the project, with localities supplying the remaining funds. Power projects were submitted to President Roosevelt in the first batch of new PWA projects totaling $80,000,000 and are still upon his desk here.

Officials said today that power undertakings are likely to play a larger part in the new PWA program than in the past. To date PWA has undertaken 269 power projects costing but $76,000,000. The new projects are to be handled under the $300,000,000 appropriated at the last session of congress.

Holds Railroad Too Poor to Get $90,000 RFC Loan

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission declined today to approve an application of the Milwaukee, Rockford, and Southwestern railroad to the Reconstruction Finance corporation for a $90,000 loan. The commission held the present and prospective earning power of the road and the security offered for the loan "are not such as afford reasonable assurance of its ability to repay the loan."

U. S. OFFERS TO SELL RARE 'POTATO STAMP' (NEVER WAS ISSUED)

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—Taking its cue from foreign governments, the United States treasury today offered one of its demonetized stamp issues for sale to the highest bidder.

Dealers in stamps for collectors were offered the entire issue of "tax exempt" potato revenue stamps in a circular just made public. Bids will close Aug. 10. The stamps are those designed to be used on sacks of potatoes that would not have had to pay the taxes levied by the erstwhile potato control law. They never were issued.

A few of the potato tax stamps—the stamps used on taxed potatoes—were sold in Florida and later the treasury sold them to stamp collectors at face value.

Governments of small countries for many years have sold "remainders"—leftover stamps—of demonetized issues at auction. Dealers and collectors here, however, said the treasury offering was the first time in history the United States had done this.

SEARS, ROEBUCK IS NEGOTIATING FOR TIRE SUPPLY

Sears, Roebuck & Co. indicated yesterday that definite arrangements have not been made for its tire supply since termination of the contract between the mail order house and Goodyear Tire and Rubber company and declined to disclose the names of tire companies with which it was negotiating.

Tire interests in this area, however, pointed out the eight manufacturers most likely to benefit from Sears' trade. The policy will be to deal with companies not affected by the Robinson-Patman [anti-chain store] act, which prohibits price discounts in certain instances.

These companies, it is said, are eligible through size and distribution to deal exclusively with Sears: Fisk Rubber company, Chicopee Falls, Mass.; Pharis Tire and Rubber company, Newark, O.; Gates Rubber company, Denver, Colo.; Pennsylvania Rubber company, Jeannette, Pa.; Dayton Rubber Manufacturing company, Dayton, O.; Lake Shore Tire and Rubber company, Des Moines, Ia.; Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, Mansfield, O., and Inland Rubber company, Chicago.

It is believed that five or six will ultimately get Sears' tire business, with the largest share going to Fisk. Lake Shore Tire and Rubber has been making first line tires for Sears exclusively. Inland Rubber officials said they were considering the entering of bids up to 250,000 tires a year.

SUIT TO REGAIN $505,139 FROM BANK DISMISSED

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday dismissed a suit of Charles P. Megan as trustee of the Chicago and North Western railway which sought to recover $505,139 from the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company.

According to the complaint, the Continental on June 27, 1935, the day before the road filed a petition in bankruptcy under amended federal laws, appropriated this sum from a $1,600,000 account which the railroad had on deposit with the bank, in payment of principal and interest on a promissory note for $500,000 which the Continental had extended to the railroad on Oct. 13, 1934. Trustee Megan charged the money was wrongfully applied.

Judge Barnes dismissed the suit for lack of jurisdiction. He said the action appeared to be a contested matter of right involving room for controversy. Megan said he would appeal the ruling.

First Land Purchased for Housing Project

Transfer of the first parcel of land for the federal housing project for south side colored families was made yesterday to the housing division of the Public Works administration at the office of Frederic Z. Marx, special attorney of the United States. The property transferred is at 3823 Elmwood avenue. A sign announcing title is in the government was nailed to the front door by Chester A. Inman, Chicago district manager of the housing division. Charles S. Glaze of 507 Oakwood boulevard, owner, received $3.500.

South. Pacific Net Operating Income Soars

The Southern Pacific company yesterday reported sharply rising net operating income. The June figure was $3,318,142 compared with $1,231,781 in May and $1,297,289 a year ago. Gross income in the period rose from $13,272,187 a year ago to $17,566,950.

This lifted the gross income for the first six months of the year to $90,237,034 from $75,634,496 in the corresponding period of last year. The half year net income was $9,804,870 against $6,658,003 a year ago.

Parmalee Profit Climbs.

Parmalee Transportation company and subsidiaries announced net profit of $198,947 after charges, but before federal taxes, for the six months ended June 30. This compared with net loss of $142,582 in the same 1935 period. June quarter net amounted to $112,976, against profit of $85,070 in the previous quarter and a loss of $72,255 in the second quarter of 1935.

International Cement corporation announced net profit of $746,981 for the three months ended June 30, equal to $1.10 a share on capital stock. This compared with $468,304, or 71 cents a share.

Howe Sound company, nonferrous metals producer, reported for the same quarter net of $561,405 after tax and all charges except depletion, equal to $1.18 a share, against $521,832, or $1.10 a share, in 1935.

Harbison-Walker Figures.

Harbison-Walker Refractories company estimated net profit for the June quarter at $807,700, compared with $316,200 last year.

L. A. Young Spring and Wire corporation disclosed its net income for the first six months of 1936 was $1,166,352, equal to $2.85 a share, against $1,067,575 or $2.74 a share on a slightly smaller capitalization in the corresponding period a year ago.

Glidden company, paint, varnish, and food products manufacturer, had June net of $242,842, against $215,234 in the same month of 1935.

Consolidated Film Industries, Inc., reported for the first half year net of $486,007, equal to 16 cents a common share, compared with $477,657, or 15 cents a share, a year ago.

Report Big Gain Over 1935.

A compilation by the Associated Press of earnings statements of the first 45 companies reporting for the second quarter disclosed a gain of 36.8 per cent over the same period last year. The same companies showed a gain of 35.6 for the first six months of 1936.

Total profit of the group for the June quarter was $41,440,038, against $29,891,267 in the same 1935 quarter. The half year total was $72,904,116, against $53,738,205. Conspicuous gains were registered by such companies as Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company, General Electric company, United Fruit company, Johns-Manville company, and United corporation.

KENNEDY SEES LONG PERIOD OF BUSINESS GAINS

New York, July 17.—(AP)—Joseph P. Kennedy, former chairman of the securities and exchange commission, says a "long period of general business gain seems definitly ahead." He analyzed business prospects as a background for his report on the affairs of Paramount Pictures, Inc.

The report cites "the foundation of genuine recovery laid by enormously increased operating efficiency of industry, unprecedented excess banking reserves, vast accumulations of deferred demands in heavy industries, all indicating long life to the period of business improvement and continued increase in purchasing power and spending ability on the part of the public which supports the motion picture industry."

Corn Products Advanced Again, Due to Grain Rise

New York, July 17.—(AP)—A second advance in prices of corn products was announced late today in wake of the rise of grain quotations. Leading makers lifted prices on bulk corn products 20 cents a hundred pounds for prompt delivery on top of a 15 cent increase early in July.

STOCKS FORGE AHEAD DESPITE PROFIT TAKING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 17.—Another display of bullish strength resulted in irregularly higher prices for stocks today, although profit taking restricted gains in most issues to modest proportions and in some instances wiped them out. Closing prices in most major groups were generally under their best of the day on a volume of around 1,527,000 shares.

Although gains were small in most instances because of realizing sales, there was no indication of lack of demand, and many issues spurted to new highs for the movement. At one time during the session the industrial averages were at their best peak in five years.

Some "Drouth" Shares Dip.

While most of the list ignored the drouth news, farm implement shares were hammered down considerably. The volatile J. I. Case, while by no means active, was hit with a loss of 8 points. Deere was likewise weak, giving up 4½ points, while International Harvester sustained a loss exceeding a point and Oliver Farm was only a little better.

Montgomery Ward lost more than a point in the mail order division, while Sears Roebuck, heading in the opposite direction, set a new high of 80¼ before liquidation reduced its gain to a modest fraction.

Carrier shares were popular for a good part of the session following publication of freight car loadings for last week, which revealed that trafic had reached a new top for the year. Closing gains in the group were for the most part limited to small fractions. Union Pacific, however, rose 4 points and Chesapeake corporation halted at a new high of 85 on a gain of 2½ points. New York Central was under pressure.

Rail accessories moved higher under the leadership of Pullman.

Steel Shares Finish Higher.

Steel shares met with some profit taking in late dealings, but most were able to retain good parts of their early advances. United States Steel closed with a gain of nearly a point.

Motor shares were sluggish and only fractionally changed. Du Pont led the chemical group with a spurt of 2 points and climbed to a new high. Allied Chemical also set a new high before coming to a halt.

Copper shares were buoyant on reports of foreign demand for the metal. Chile Copper leaped 3¾ points, equaling its high mark of the year, and Kennecott set a new high on a small gain.

Some of Strongest Issues.

Phillip Morris was one of the fanciest performers in the list, its gain at one time extending to more than 5 points. Other bright spots were Amerada Oil, Johns Manville, Greyhound Bus, General Steel Castings, Holly Sugar, International Cement, and Zenith Radio.

With oil companies enjoying favorable earnings, Standard of New Jersey pushed ahead another major fraction. Airplanes shares rose easily, with Douglas, Bendix, and Wright each gaining a point or more. Utilities generally finished lower.

TRADERS WARY OF FRANC AND VALUE EASES

Traders yesterday showed reluctance to enter into fresh commitments on the French franc, in view of the move by the French government to assume control of the Bank of France, and the franc dipped slightly in the New York market.

The close was 6.63 cents, off ¾ point, raising the value of the dollar against francs to 100.05 cents from 100 cents on Thursday. Trading generally was quiet as other gold bloc currencies fell into line with the franc.

Dutch guilders lost 2 points at 68.16 cents and Swiss francs declined 1½ points to 32.75½ cents. British pound sterling closed at $5.03 for a gain of ⅛ cent.

WEEK'S PRODUCTION OF AUTOS FALLS WELL BELOW 100,000 MARK

A decline in production of automobiles in the United States and Canada this week was indicated in estimates made yesterday by two leading statistical agencies. Ward's Reports, Inc., placed output at 97,768 units, compared with 100,648 last week and 82,820 in the corresponding period last year. The survey indicated that July assemblies would approximate 425,000 cars and trucks.

Cram's Reports estimated this week's output at 91,317 assemblies, against 97,933 last week and 83,255 a year ago.

Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation, announced export sales for the first half of 1936 totaled 6,633 cars and trucks, a new high level for the period. This compared with 5,069 in the same half year of 1935, a gain of 31 per cent.

In the first 10 days of July deliveries in the United States amounted to 1,754 units, compared with 1,345 last year, an upturn of 30 per cent, Hoffman said. Retail deliveries for the year to date were 69 per cent ahead of 1935—39,918 against 23,557.

Nash Motors Buys Seaman Body Concern

The Nash Motors company has purchased the $5,000,000 Seaman Body corporation of Milwaukee, Wis., C. W. Nash, chairman of the board of Nash Motors, announced last night. The Nash company acquired a half interest in the Seaman company in 1919, shown at a book value of $2,645,695 in the November, 1935, balance sheet.

C. W. NASH.

The purchase marks a major expansion for Nash Motors, with the company now making every important item used in producing its cars. Seaman's entire business had been devoted to building bodies for Nash cars. The move was decided upon, Nash said, because of the company's conviction that the automobile business today permits only one manufacturing profit.

Will Retain Personnel.

Personnel of the Seaman corporation will remain unchanged under the new ownership, Nash said. H. H. Seaman will continue as president of the corporation and a director of Nash Motors, and Irving Seaman as vice president and treasurer.

"The principal object of the transaction is to further consolidate the operations of our company," Nash said. "The purchase of the Seaman corporation will eliminate a profit factor in the manufacture of our cars in that the Seaman corporation will now be a wholly owned subsidiary. The Nash company will now be in more active control of all policies affecting the manufacturing supplies it consumes.

"The transaction is in the nature of an expansion of the operations of the Nash company, renders it a more compact and more easily directed organization and places it in an even better competitive position in the industry."

Seaman Plant in Milwaukee.

Physical assets involved in the transaction include the plant at Milwaukee, built in 1919, and added to from 1921 to 1928. It is a five story structure with floor space of 1,250,000 square feet, a capacity of 130,000 bodies per year and a minimum employé roll of 2,000.

The purchase marks the termination of one of the most unusual partnerships in the history of the automobile business, it was pointed out in making the announcement. It began shortly after Nash went to Kenosha, Wis., to begin manufacturing the car bearing his name, continued on a basis of friendship without written contract for nearly seventeen years and ended by mutual agreement.

JUDGE BARNES TEMPERS REBUKE TO ATTORNEYS

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday entered an order modifying his memorandum of June 29, in which a number of attorneys were rebuked in connection with delay of bankruptcy proceedings of the Federal Pure Food company and petitions for fees in the case.

On petition of Blanksten and Lansing, attorneys for the Greek American Sponge company, one of the creditors in the case, Judge Barnes found that this law firm's name had been included erroneously in the report of Referee Carl R. Chindblom and the subsequent memorandum of the court.

"The court being fully advised," said the order of Judge Barnes yesterday, "finds that Blanksten and Lansing filed no petition nor made any request for fees, nor did they participate in any dispute concerning fees, nor were they guilty of or chargeable with any delay in prosecuting these proceedings."

Judge Barnes ordered any reference to Blanksten and Lansing in connection with controversy over fees or delay of the case stricken from both the referee's report and the court's memorandum.

New York Central Official to Head Car Wheel Makers

F. H. Hardin, assistant to the president of the New York Central railroad, will resign that post to become president of the Association of Manufacturers of Chilled Car Wheels on Sept. 1, it was announced yesterday by J. A. Kilpatrick, present head of the association.

WheelingRoad's $1,500,000 Certificate Issue Approved

Washington, D. C., July 17.—(AP)—The Wheeling and Lake Erie railway received interstate commerce commission authority to issue $1,400,000 of equipment trust certificates. Proceeds are to be used to purchase new equipment.

FREIGHT TRAFIC AGAIN EXCEEDS 700,000 CARS

Five Year High Set for 15th Week.

Freight volume of the nation's railroads last week crossed the 700,000 level for the second time this year, the Association of American Railroads announced yesterday. Car loadings totaled 724,324, the highest for any week of 1936, and marking the fifteenth consecutive week in which a five year high mark has been established.

The week's upturn, which amounted to 74,565 cars, or 11.5 per cent, over the preceding week, more than made up for the loss of 63,880 cars incurred in the latter period because of intervention of the July 4 holiday.

The return of trafic to above the 700,000 level, which was also crossed in the week ended June 27, restores the industry to a theoretical profit basis.

Large Gain Over Year Ago.

Compared with the corresponding period of 1936 last week's trafic was 158,882 cars, or 28.1 per cent higher and 120,132, or 19.9 per cent ahead of the same week two years ago. The total was the highest since October, 1931, with two exceptions—the second and third weeks of October, 1935.

Every classification contributed to the rise last week. Evidence of continued improvement in general business was shown in the 23,211 car upturn in miscellaneous freight, the largest gain for the week. Less than carlot merchandise had the second largest rise—21,064 cars—while grain and grain products were in third place with a gain of 14,278 cars.

Loadings by Groups Shown.

Volume of car loading last week, by classifications, and increases over the preceding week and the corresponding period of last year, follow:

Misc. freight	287,480	23,211	54,018
Less than carlot	163,116	21,064	12,388
Coal	107,378	1,909	31,988
Livestock	14,402	3,006	3,355
Grain, grain prd.	56,250	14,272	26,969
Western districts	40,060	9,014	20,119
Western districts	11,209	2,760	3,383
Forest products	31,020	110	4,305
Ore	54,970	9,642	20,327
Coke	9,339	1,345	4,567

RAIL EARNINGS RISE.

Washington, D. C., July 17.—[Special.]—Five year seasonal high marks in railroad freight trafic, which have been maintained for several months, were reflected in earnings figures released today by the interstate commerce commission.

The commission reported May net operating income of class one carriers totaled $41,842,147, against $39,598,511 for the same month of 1935. This brought the total for the first five months of 1936 to $187,931,355, compared with $160,673,752 a year ago.

DEALS IN GRAIN, COTTON DENIED BY LIVERMORE

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Replying to reports in commodity circles linking Jesse Livermore to operations on a scale reminiscent of the days when he cut an important figure in the markets, Livermore, through his attorneys, issued some denials today.

He denied that he formed a pool to deal in cotton and grain; he denied that shares in the pool were sold at $10,000 each; he denied that he manages the pool or received a commission; he denied that any pool linked by gossip to his name prevailed upon the producers' pool to sell to it privately, and not through auction, the remaining 25,000 bales of October cotton held by the producers on July 7 at 11.85 cents a pound [to the consternation of members of the cotton exchange]; he denied that any "Livermore pool" bought 25,000 bales in the market the next day and cleaned up a neat profit later.

He denied that he is connected with any pool doing business in grain, which pool is rumored to be operating to the extent of 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 bushels daily.

National Security Traders Nominates Chicago Man

Los Angeles, Cal., July 17.—[Special.]—Arthur E. Farrell of H. M. Bylesby & Co. of Chicago was nominated for the office of vice president of the National Security Traders' association today by that organization's nominating committee. J. Gentry Daggy of Parsly Bros. & Co., Philadelphia, was named as candidate for president.

MANY COMPANIES CLEAR OR REDUCE STOCK ARREARS

Associated Dry Goods Pays Off $3.

Associated Dry Goods corporation, one of the important department store groups, yesterday reduced arrearages on its first preferred stock by declaring a $3 dividend on these shares. The disbursement is payable Sept. 1 to stockholders of record Aug. 7. Lord & Taylor and James McCreery & Co. of Manhattan, and Hahne & Co. of Newark are members of this group.

The $3 payment on the 134,364 shares of $100 par 6 per cent cumulative first preferred leaves only $4.50 accruing against it. Unpaid dividends total $28 a share against the second preferred stock. Common stockholders have received nothing since 1931.

Pays $26.25 Average.

El Paso Natural Gas company declared a dividend of $26.25 on the preferred stock, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 22, clearing up arrears. In addition a regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred was declared, payable Sept. 1, to stock of record Aug. 22.

The company said, "These dividends are declared at this time because they are justified by both the current earnings of the company and its cash position, and because in fairness to the holders of the old debentures called for redemption on Aug. 11, we thought that the preferred dividends in arrears should be cleared out of the way and current preferred dividends declared so that such holder may freely exercise his right of conversion and know the status of the stock into which his debenture may be converted."

Other Dividends Declared.

Allied International Investing corporation declared a dividend of 45 cents on account of accumulations on the $3 convertible preferred stock, payable Aug. 1 to stockholders of record July 24. A similar dividend was paid Feb. 1, last.

Russell Motor company ordered a dividend of $2.75 due on accumulations on the 7 per cent preferred stock, payable Aug. 1 to holders of record July 22.

The Nehi corporation makers of syrups and fruit juices declared a $5.25 distribution, payable Aug. 15 to stockholders of record July 31, clearing up accruals against its first preferred stock.

Public Electric Light company voted a dividend of 20 cents a share on the common stock, payable on Aug. 1. This will be the first payment since a 25 cent disbursement on Jan. 15, 1932.

EFFORT TO HALT LOUISIANA OIL PLAN BLOCKED

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Efforts of certain preferred stockholders of the Louisiana Oil Refining corporation, including a group of large insurance companies, to withdraw assents they have given to a proposed reorganization plan have been unsuccessful, it is learned.

The federal court at Shreveport, La., before which the plan has been laid for approval, has rejected a petition for permission to withdraw. However, the court is understood to have ordered a revaluation of the assets of the corporation to determine whether the basis of reorganization as outlined in the plan is fair to all concerned. Control of the corporation is lodged through subsidiaries in the Cities Service company.

The plan of reorganization provides that holders of Louisiana Oil Refining preferred stock receive two shares of new $10 par 6 per cent preferred stock in exchange for each old share held. In addition Louisiana Oil Refining would pay the stockholders 10 cents a share in cash. New shares of common would be issued.

JUDGE RENAMES TRUSTEE DESPITE SABATH CHARGES

Claims of Mismanagement Baseless, He Says.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday reappointed the Chicago Title and Trust company as trustee of trust estate 17,400 on the recommendation of the directors representing the bondholders of the trust, which is now in the process of reorganization. Judge Wilkerson made the appointment in spite of charges made by the Sabath congressional committee, that the Title and Trust company has mismanaged the trust.

The Sabath committee, headed by Congressman A. J. Sabath, Chicago Democrat, has been investigating receiverships and reorganizations throughout the country for some time. On June 20 it sent a letter to Judge Wilkerson recommending that the Title and Trust company not be reappointed as trustee of estate 17,400. The holdings of the estate are estimated at $10,000,000, largely mortgages on Chicago real estate.

Cites Investigation of Charges.

In making the appointment, however, the judge pointed out that it would greatly inconvenience the bondholders in the trust if another company should be selected as trustee, and that the charges of mismanagement had been found baseless after an investigation by Special Master in Chancery Henry P. Chandler.

"There would be a serious loss of efficiency for a period probably of many months in transferring the administration of assets at this time to another trust company than the Chicago Title and Trust company, which has become familiar with every part of the trust business and properties," Judge Wilkerson said.

He recalled that the Chicago Title and Trust company had been recommended as trustee by directors of the trust selected for the interested bondholders, and said: "The court has considered this matter carefully and is of opinion that the views of practically all of those who are interested in this estate, as presented to the court by their representatives, should be followed, and that the liquidating trustee recommended to the court should be designated without further delay.

Reservation of Jurisdiction.

"There should be an appropriate reservation of jurisdiction which will enable the court to deal adequately with the situation so far as it concerns both the Title and Trust company and those, if there be any such, who for the purpose of obstructing the administration of justice, may wilfully make false and malicious charges."

The Sabath committee charged that the Chicago Title and Trust company had divided the profits of the trust for a period of years with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company of Chicago to the disadvantage of the stockholders. It charged also that the Title and Trust company in 1931 had thrown the trust into the federal court in order to freeze its assets and place itself in position to extract additional fees.

On Dec. 28, 1935, Judge Wilkerson confirmed a plan of reorganization of the trust and appointed Henry P. Chandler, Edmund D. Adcock, and Arthur B. Hall to perfect the plan and elect five directors of the new corporation to be formed.

Charges Found Groundless.

At that time the Sabath committee made its mismanagement charges, and Mr. Chandler, as special master, was ordered to investigate them. He found the charges groundless.

Chandler and his two associates then selected five directors to reorganize the company for the bondholders. They are Mr. Adcock, Mr. Hall, Aaron Colnon, Walter A. Shaw, and Harry C. Edmunds. They were approved by the court.

Judge Wilkerson then appointed the Harris Trust and Savings bank as trustee, but the bank declined the appointment. Then on May 3, the directors recommended that the Chicago Title and Trust company be reappointed for one year.

History of Trust.

Trust 17,400 was created in 1926 through a trust agreement between the Illinois Merchants Trust company, which later merged with the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, and the Chicago Title and Trust company. By this agreement, the bank conveyed certain funds to the trust company to create the trust. The money was to be invested in real estate mortgages.

The bank then issued participating certificates, somewhat similar to bonds, which were sold. The holders of these certificates have subsequently been referred to as "bond-holders." The trust at one time was valued in excess of $12,000,000.

CHICAGO BANK STOCK PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Sharp gains were recorded in several bank stocks yesterday in over the counter trading. Northern Trust rose $10 a share in bids and $20 in the price asked by sellers, closing at $820 to $850.

Harris Trust gained $5 at $400 bid, $415 asked, and Merchandise Bank and Trust rose the same amount to $265 bid, $275 asked. First National improved $1 a share to $278 bid, $282 asked. Bids on City National advanced $2 to $125 and sellers boosted their price by $1 to $129 a share.

Canners Prepare to Set Up Fair Trade Practice Rules

Directors of the National Canners association, in session here yesterday at the Stevens hotel, approved the appointment of a committee to investigate and interpret the recently enacted Robinson-Patman act and to prepare a set of fair trade practice rules in accordance with its provisions. These will be submitted to the board which will in turn submit the findings to the federal trade commission for approval.

Wholesale Trade Increases, but Retail Trends are Mixed

New York, July 17.—[Special.]—Although retail trade trends were mixed, wholesale volume continued to expand during the last week, with nearly every type of merchandise sought by the largest number of buyers that had visited some markets in six years, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. Rural buying, it was pointed out, showed no drastic curtailment.

"Consumer purchases broadened on the days when the shipping weather turned more favorable, but the high temperatures during most of the week were not conducive to the sale of many items," the review said. "The bulk of the volume was built around men's and women's lightweight apparel, sports shoes, beach accessories, and vacation requirements, but the increased tourist travel also was a strong factor in bolstering sales in varied lines.

Rainfall Aids Some Districts.

"There was a moderate improvement in distribution in drouth affected districts where rainfall occurred, but there were slight declines in sections where the thermometer held steadfastly above the century mark. This narrowed the gain in the estimated volume of retail sales for the country as a whole to 12 to 15 per cent above the total for the corresponding 1935 week. Tourist demands swelled the volume for the New England states some 12 to 17 per cent above last year."

In contrast to the preceding week, when buying was confined largely to fall apparel, interest among wholesalers, it was indicated, spread to include nearly all types of merchandise. At the trade shows featuring furniture, floor coverings, and electrical supplies, buyers' response was reported to be the best in a decade. Medium and high priced goods constituted the bulk of the purchases for the first time since 1929, with the volume reported 30 per cent above a year ago.

Reorders Show Increase.

"Reorders also were increased during the week," the agency said, "with volume particularly large for women's sheer print dresses, sport shoes, white dress accessories, toiletries, men's tropical worsted and linen suits, underwear, polo shirts, and beach robes. Reorders of electrical household appliances were heavy, some wholesalers reporting stocks of fans entirely cleared and deliveries of refrigerators slown down. The millinery trade continued quiet. Children's wear reflected activity.

HOG SHIPMENTS SMALLER; PRICES REMAIN STEADY

Pork Markets Erratic; Lambs Irregular.

Hog receipts were again extremely light yesterday, less than 5,000 remaining on the market after directs had been deducted. Prices held mostly steady with the average of the preceding session, both the extreme top and average at $10.75 and $9.55, respectively, being unchanged, although the trade displayed more unevenness because of erratic fluctuations in the wholesale markets for fresh pork.

Underweights and light sows yesterday were strong to slightly higher in many instances, while common light and extremely heavy "packers" sold off 10 to 25 cents at the close, some inferior light showing even more decline. However, the proportion of the stock showing declines was too small to cut much figure in the market.

Fresh Pork Prices Rally.

Packers in the Chicago area reported strong to 50 cents higher prices for fresh cuts of pork, the surplus of holdover stock having been removed by consigning it to the freezer to be held for future sale, but conditions showed little improvement in the east. Some distributing points in the eastern industrial sections quoted further losses of as much as $1 in wholesale prices of fresh pork.

A two-way trade developed for lambs yesterday. Best grades sold strong to 25 cents higher, while others were weak to lower and culls were under pressure at the lowest prices of the season. Packers gave the $9.75 top for closely sorted natives. Most of the best culls sold at $6 to $6.25. Odd lots of inferior light culls ranged down to $4.50.

Few Cattle Arrive.

Only 2,000 cattle arrived at the yards yesterday, not enough stock to put the trade to a test. The light supply and earlier closing hour again stepped up trading.

Prices for the bulk of offerings were fully steady to strong at the recent sharp rise, although no cattle good enough to test the top quotations were offered. The best here averaged 1,303 pounds and sold at $8.70, the bulk bringing $8.15 to $8.50, although some load lots ranged down to $7 and odd bunches of drouth stock lacking in flesh were quoted as low as $3.75.

Most cows and hefers held steady. Canners, cutters, and calves were unchanged. Bulls and stockers and feeders ruled weak to lower again.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 17.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed oil was steady early today along with grains and lard, but reacted later under realizing of liquidation. Final prices were 3 to 7 points net lower. Sales, 57 contracts. Bleachable spot nominal; July closed 9.76c per lb.; September, 9.77c; October, 9.75c; December, 9.72c; January, 9.67c.

HIDE FUTURES.

NEW YORK, July 17.—[Special.]—Buying of futures attributed to trade interests and reports of an advance of as much as 1c per lb in Argentine spot hides was reflected in an advance of 14 points to 18 points in futures. Sales were 33 lots, or 1,320,000 lbs. Closing bids in cents per pound: September, 10.99c; December, 11.30c; March, 11.62c; [illegible].

COTTON DEVELOPS WEAK UNDERTONE; PRICES OFF

Cotton developed a weaker undertone yesterday. Crop reports were generally favorable, and a fair amount of scattered commission house selling developed. While the close was on a small rally from the lowest figures net losses in Chicago were 14 to 19 points and in other markets, 13 to 20 points, the latter equal to $1 per bale. [A point is 1-100 cents].

Spot cotton closed 15 to 20 points lower with New Orleans, 12.95 cents; Galveston and Houston, 12.85 cents and New York at 13.25 cents per pound. Prices follow:

SALT PORK UP 50 CENTS; LARD REACTS NEAR CLOSE

Trading in provision futures yesterday was more active. An effort to purchase clear bellies [salt pork] for September delivery disclosed a lack of offerings and the price advanced 50 cents per 100 pounds, the maximum permitted for one day under exchange regulations. The close was at the top. A better demand for dry salted meats was reported.

Commission house buying of lard futures was stimulated by the action of corn, largely in the December and January deliveries and carried prices up 2½ cents at the extreme. Later hedging and realizing sales in the September and October options caused a reaction with the close unchanged to 15 cents higher, the latter on the January delivery. Cash lard was quoted at $10.87½; loose, $10.27½; leaf, 10.25, and clear bellies [salt pork] at $12.87½ per 100 pounds. Prices follow:

General Mills paid $700,000 all cash for the Rialto grain elevator at 104th street and the Calumet river, purchasing it from the receivers of the Wabash railway. It was incorrectly stated in yesterday's TRIBUNE that General Foods was the buyer. As stated correctly, however, the Star Grain company, a subsidiary of General Mills, which has occupied the property for several years under lease, will continue to operate it.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Little change was shown in spot butter and egg prices yesterday, although the undertone was easy. Arrivals were 12,687 tubs butter and 18,000 cases eggs. Live broilers advanced 1c per lb, leghorn broilers, ½@1c; geese were 1c lower. Receipts, 1 car and 53 trucks. Hot weather continued to curtail demand for potatoes, and the market was quoted as weak. Receipts aggregated 144 cars, with 240 cars on team track. Quotations follow:

FAN SALESMEN.

TODAY—10 A. M. ONLY.

Leading manufacturer has just perfected radically superior new type 14½ inch electric fan to sell at about 1-3 usual prices. This incredible new value destined to dominate fan market next year, but was not ready this season until too late to get proper dealer distribution, hence in order to get quick action we will offer good men a definite chance to make excellent earnings while the season lasts, selling direct to homes and offices, on an unheard of long commission. The man who can't make $15 every day on this deal must be a poor salesman indeed. Product fully guaranteed by famous maker. $5.75 sample deposit required. See Mr. Young, 1st floor, 64 East 25th-street, 10 a. m. only.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

July 17, 1936.

THESE are lazy days on the Tribune experimental farms, at least as far as the farm animals and children are concerned. When we visited the farms early this week we noticed how the pigs, ducks, chickens, and other farm residents were taking it easy and how the children were taking their dips in the "old swimmin' hole."

But the farm work schedules go on just the same. The men were working in oat fields, experimental plots, and barns in spite of sizzling thermometers which went up to 106 degrees in the shade and even to 120 degrees in open fields.

A Wallowing Party.

One of the first spots we visited was behind Charley Sleezer's house on the Yorkville farm. Charley had provided the hogs with their own private "swimmin' hole" by pouring several pails of water on the hot, dusty lot where the hogs were sweltering in the heat. These pails of cold water evidently were well appreciated by the hogs, because they were having a good old-fashioned wallowing party in the newly made mud.

Inside the barn near the hog lot the sows with their young pigs were resting in the stalls. Most of the young porkers, usually peppy, were stretched out along the edges of the stalls taking it easy. Some of them had their snoots partly buried in the bedding.

In a field adjoining the hog lot, six blue-gray steers and four heifers were huddled together under the shade of a big tree, evidently without a care in the world. In another nearby barn, 15 or 20 sheep were hiding from the sun by standing in the odd spaces of the barn not taken up by wagons and farm implements.

Keeping Baby Cool.

In another section of the farm 150 Rhode Island red chicks were scratching around in a pen under a maple tree, occasionally going to one of the glass water containers for a little refreshment. Under the same tree one of the farm women had spread a blanket on the ground and was keeping her five month old baby girl cool and contented. The baby was stretched out on the blanket and the mother was using a big fan as a combination air cooler and fly swatter.

About a half mile away six of the farm children were having their daily dip in the pool formed by a dam across Rob Roy creek. They had been in the pool all morning, had trudged down the dirt road at noon to go home for lunch, then had returned to their favorite spot for the rest of the afternoon. The "schedule of events" for the afternoon included everything from water fights to just sitting on the mud bottom of the pool.

At the same time the farm animals were being so lazy and the lucky boys were refreshing themselves in their swimmin' hole, the farm workers were binding and shocking oats in a field where a thermometer read 120 degrees in the sun. The monotony of the day's labors is broken every afternoon when the women make lemonade or iced tea to take to the field. Sandwiches or cakes make the "rest period" doubly appreciated.

Proof That It's Hot.

One incident this week served to make the boys more conscious of the hot weather than ever before. They have been keeping gallon jugs of cold water on their tractors as they work in the fields. As the jugs are emptied down dry throats one of the boys goes to the nearest well for a "refill." The other day one of the men was filling one of these jugs with cold water when it cracked open.

The jug had gotten so warm on the tractor and the water was so cold that the two extremes ruined the jug's "constitution." This happened despite the fact the jug was wrapped with a burlap bag. After this episode the boys really decided the weather was hot.

STUDEBAKERS
6 CARLOADS.

We have Chicago's largest selection of late model Studebakers. Many of these cars were only driven a short time and every one of them was carefully checked from bumper to bumper by expert factory-trained Studebaker mechanics. Every one is equipped with all the modern advancements and many expensive extras. Finish, tires, upholstery and motor—every one of these features is 100% throughout and will give you the satisfaction of a new car. See and drive one of these Studebakers today. Learn how much money you can save in the purchase of one of these nearly new cars. Your old car may easily make the entire down payment. Positively the lowest Studebaker prices in Chicago.
